LABOR COUNCIL TO O. K. MUNICIPAL COURT

INVITE TWO LAWYERS TO EXPLAIN PROPOSAL AT MEETING ON FEB. 18

Guns of Speakers Representing Subordinate Unions are Turned on Justices of Peace and Other Minor Magistrates, When Legislative Measure is Discussed at Regular Session.

"JUSTICE ON COMMISSION BASIS" CHARGED BY DELEGATE LAST NIGHT

Attorneys W. F. Lones and Frank E. Grosshans Promise to Explain East Liverpool Bill at General Meeting of Representatives of Locals in Trades' Assembly Hall.

Trades and Labor council will endorse the proposed municipal court for East Liverpool.

This prediction was made today by a representative of the central labor organization, following a meeting last night, in which the measure, sponsored by State Representative R. W. Emmons, of East Rochester, for presentation in the legislature at the present session, was discussed.

Guns of members of the labor assembly were turned on courts of justices of the peace and other minor magistrates, in which reference was made to alleged practices.

One speaker assailed what he termed "justice on a commission basis."

The consensus of opinion was that the municipal court, not only would save money for litigants and increase city revenues, but also would prove an improvement over the present system of administering justice in minor tribunals.

Endorsed Plan Two Years Ago.

Attorney W. F. Lones and Frank E. Grosshans were invited to deliver addresses at the next regular meeting of the labor council on the proposed court. They will be requested to explain the plan.

It was announced today that the two lawyers had accepted the invitation.

Representatives of all subordinate labor unions in East Liverpool will attend the session which will be held in the assembly's hall, Golding building, Washington street.

President J. C. Higgins and Vice President William Ashbaugh had charge of last night's meeting.

The labor body endorsed the proposed municipal court bill which was vetoed two years ago by Gov. Donahey. The measure also was approved by civic organizations.

KIWANIS URGE COMFORT ROOM

Motor Club Secretary Condemns Gasoline Tax Measure.

The proposed establishment of a public rest room, near the central part of the city, for the convenience mainly, of strangers who visit here, was discussed at the weekly meeting of the Kiwanis club, in the Larkins annex, Market street, at noon today. The matter was referred to the public affairs committee, of which Charles Hendershot is chairman, for an investigation, with instructions that the committee report its findings within two weeks.

John W. Moore brought up the question. Mr. Hendershot declared that the proposition has been before the club a year or two ago but the time for launching the project was not believed opportune then. T. V. Milligan, Mayor Charles Brown and Sylvester Williams spoke in favor of the movement, declaring it to be one of the city's greatest needs.

E. M. Diehl, secretary of the Columbiana County Motor club, appeared before the club members to condemn the Brown gasoline tax bill now before the legislature. He asserted that the Ohio State Automobile association is opposed to the measure, unless there is a reduction in license fees. He said that the automobile owner pays a federal tax when he buys his car, a personal property tax also is compelled to buy his state license, all of which amounts to 10 mills. Other property is taxed at three mills he declared. He lauded State Representative Ralph Emmons for his efforts in attempting to incorporate a license reduction clause in the gas tax measure.

Frank Swaney said the proposed bill was unfair and unjust.

The club took no action but referred it to the committee on public affairs for investigation.

Dr. G. E. Lewis, president of the club, was in charge of the meeting which was attended by about 60 members. H. B. Keys and Samuel Newel were introduced as new members. The attendance prize, a pair of opera glasses, furnished by Dr. James Jackson, was awarded to Wilbur Glenn.

Letters were read from Two Columbiana county girls in the girls' industrial school, at Lancaster, thanking the club for Christmas gifts. The names were furnished the club by Probate Judge Lodge Riddle.

J. O. Heidleston made a report of the costs of teeth and eye treatments given the children of mothers drawing "mothers' pensions, which work was referred to the club by the probate court last year. The bills were ordered paid.

BLAME MISTAKE OF PHARMACY STUDENT FOR POISON DEATHS

PROBE RESUMED

Unintentional Error Proves Fatal to Two Youths.

COLUMBUS, Feb. 5.—Search for the poisoner who, by design or accident, is believed responsible for the deaths, by strychnine, of two Ohio State university students and narrow escapes from death of at least three other students was being pushed early this afternoon by Columbus detectives and officials of the university.

COLUMBUS, Feb. 5.—The possibility that distribution of strychnine among Ohio State University students, which, seemingly, resulted in the death of two students and illness of four others, might have been due to an unintentional mistake on the part of some pharmacy student loomed here today.

Dean Claire A. Dye, of the College of Pharmacy, today announced he had discovered a bottle containing strychnine on a shelf in the dispensary in the university campus. Previous to this discovery, Dr. Dye had voiced belief that all the strychnine in his department was intact.

Finds Bottle of Poison.

Prof. Dye's discovery was made while renewing his inspection of the stock in the dispensary from which the capsuled strychnine is believed to have been distributed. He found a one-ounce bottle containing about 300 grains of the deadly poison. It bore a white label on which was written "strychnine" in blue pencil marks. Dye was unable to explain how the bottle came to be on the shelf.

Police Prosecutor Chester and City Detectives Carson and Cox, in the lecture room at the pharmacy building this morning, began questioning, behind closed doors, practically 100 students who are said to have had access to the stock in the dispensary, or laboratory.

No university officials were permitted to witness the interviewing. One student was called before the probers at a time.

Four Boys Abandon F. T. Weaver's Auto On Lincoln Avenue

Review-Tribune advertising brings results.

At least, this is the opinion of Frank T. Weaver, head of the Ohio Valley Business college.

Mr. Weaver's machine was stolen Tuesday evening, while parked in front of his residence in St. Clair avenue. He inserted an ad in Wednesday evening's issue of the Review-Tribune.

Within an hour after the paper was off the press H. A. Thompson, Lincoln avenue, communicated with Mr. Weaver that his car was abandoned in front of his house by four boys.

John Ertzinger, 72 years old, farmer, died suddenly of heart disease this morning in his home at New Springfield, east of Columbiana. He was stricken while sitting in a chair after returning to the house from the barn.

He is survived by his widow, three sisters, Mrs. Ida Albright, Youngstown; Mrs. Ollie Lentz and Mrs. T. Macklin, New Springfield, and one brother, Solomon, of East Palestine.

TWO OHIOANS BURN TO DEATH IN OIL BLAZE

Employes of Refinery Near Newark are Victims.

ONE IS MARRIED

Cause of Accident Unknown; Loss Placed at $10,000.

NEWARK, O., Feb. 5.—An accident of unknown cause, at the Pure Oil company refinery, three miles east of this city at 12:30 this morning, resulted in the death of Samuel Taylor, 35, and Lee Sommers, 29.

The men were employed at the refinery, operating the large "breaking unit". The large tank sprung a leak and the oil which flowed out in a heavy stream ingnited and showered the men with a sheet of flame.

Taylor's body was burned to a crisp and Sommers' body was also terribly burned. Taylor leaves a widow and three children. Sommers leaves a brother, William Sommers, of Columbus.

The loss of oil and gasoline and the damage to the apparatus and the suspension of operations, is estimated at $40,000.

Golf Instructor And Mechanic Held For Auto Theft

Thomas Manley, golf instructor, and Frank Hood, mechanic, are being held by the police today charged with larceny in connection with the theft of an automobile, owned by Robert Dewar, steward at the East Liverpool Country club. Manley is also charged with driving an automobile while intoxicated.

Mrs. Dewar was awakened during the night by a noise near the garage. Mr. Dewar quickly dressed, but before he could reach the garage two men broke into the building and drove away in his coupe.

He notified police headquarters, and Manley and Hood were arrested in Diamond alley 15 minutes later by Patrolman Herman Roth. The car was not damaged. Manley and Hood are said to have been accompanied by a third party who has not been located. They will be given hearings before Mayor Brown this afternoon.

FIRE DESTROYS 31 AUTOMOBILES

ASHLAND, O., Feb. 5—The Huffman and Wigtons garage at Loudonville was destroyed by fire of unknown origin today. Six of the thirty-one autos burned were new. No estimate of the damage was made.

Snowslide Kills Two, Wrecks House And Closes Railway

VANCOUVER, B. C., Feb. 5.—Two lives snuffed out, a ranch house destroyed and a railway line closed for the season, were the results today from Kootenay snowslides following several days of thaw and rain.

A snowslide at Qeens Bay, demolished the ranch house of John H. Hoyle, killing Mr. and Mrs. Hoyle in their beds and carrying away the upper portion of the house.

Constantinople Parliament Approves Expulsion of Ecumenical Patriarch — Nation Ready to Defend Sovereignty Against Aggression.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 5.—Turkey wishes to safeguard peace, but will not hesitate to defend Turkish sovereignty against aggression. The Turkish government does not fear any Greek military measures, which may arise from the expulsion of the Greek ecumenical patriarch from Constantinople.

This was the attitude of the Turkish parliament today, approved without a dissenting vote after a spirited declaration to the assembly by Rothi Bey. Premier Kemal Pasha was present during the speech and the unanimous vote of approval.

Rothi Bey further declared that the expulsion of the patriarch was in accordance with the decisions of the commission on exchange of population. He regretted that "Greek statesmen are attempting to create a movement hostile to Turkey."

Turkey stands ready, he declared, to check with armed intervention, any attempt of Greece to infringe Turkish rights.

Athens Fans War Spirit.

ATHENS, Feb. 5—Popular opinion was being constantly fanned today toward war with Turkey. A movement has been started to raise a volunteer army and many former officers are identifying themselves with it.

One wealthy Greek has issued a bambastic circular, promising he will furnish funds if Greece comes to blows with Turkey over the removal of the ecumenical patriarch from Constantinople.

The government attitude shows more restraint. Premier Michalakoupolos, after conference with the French and British ministers, stated it was his wish to avoid war.

Some significance was attached to the announcement at this time by the Serbian minister that Serbia was concluding a military treaty with Greece.

The Turkish reply to the Greek note of protest has not been received. It was reported today that it contains the treaty of new expulsions.

Shipping interests were worried over the safety of Greek vessels in the black sea. Owners are ordering their ships home and holding up any scheduled sailings for Turkey.

LONDON, Feb. 5.—Semi-official efforts of the allies to calm down the Greco-Turk situation have met with "measures of success," it was said in foreign office circles today. Great Britain, it was said, does not look for actual trouble.

Crabbe Will Join Denton in Inquiry Into Dalton Death

ASHLAND, Feb. 5.—Attorney General Crabbe will likely accompany Attorney Sherman Deaton, in presenting evidence to the special grand jury which meets here Feb. 16, according to reports today.

The grand jury was called at the instance of Governor Donahey to probe the death of John Dalton, killed last Oct. 29, while riding in a machine with other men by members of a sheriff's posse. Dalton failed to heed orders to stop and was shot by an unknown member of the posse.

Citizens of the county, by a petition, requested Governor Donahey to further the investigation, following a "no bill" by the first jury to investigate the killing.

John Travis Heads Advertising Men in Greensburg Expo

John Travis, of this city, brother of Attorney G. Y. Travis, is heading an organization of advertising men at Greensburg, Pa., which will conduct an industrial exposition in that city during the week of April 20.

He left East Liverpool several years ago, going to Youngstown where he was advertising manager for one of the big department stores. Later he located in Greensburg, where he was instrumental in organizing the Greensburg Advertising Club, of which he is president.

CALL HEARING ON YOUNGSTOWN ROAD QUESTION

State Designates Feb. 26 as Date for Session.

LISBON IS PLACE

Three New Routes for Highway Have Been Suggested.

A fourth hearing on the proposed route of the East Liverpool-Youngstown Inter-county highway, between East Liverpool and Rogers, will be held at the court house in Lisbon, Thursday, February 26, County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk announced today.

Road construction in the eastern section of Middleston township, it was said, is responsible for the state highway department's action in calling another hearing. The department failed to announce it's decision relative to the route of the highway, following a hearing held at Lisbon several months ago.

Good roads boosters of Middleton township appeared before the commissioners last fall suggesting that the improvement of the Youngstown-East Liverpool county road, known as inter-county highway No. 502 again be taken up with the state highway department. The state bureau at the time of the hearing on the Youngstown-East Liverpool road also heard arguments relative to the route of the Wellsville-Salineville highway.

Two Roads Favored.

A decision was made on the Wellsville-Salineville road, but nothing was

WILBUR DENIES "GAGGING" CHARGE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5. — Formal denial was made today by Secretary Wilbur that naval officers have been or will be "gagged" in testifying before congressional committees, excepting in revealing "confidential information."

His statement was made in a letter to Chairman Lampert of the special house committee investigating military areonautics in view of the official row over the alleged restraints being placed upon Brigadier General William Mitchell of the army air service because of his frank testimony before the committee.

SEAL TUNNEL, SINK SHAFT AS TROOPS DIRECT RESCUE CREWS

PAL DESPAIRS

Deny Admission to all Except Workers and Newspapermen.

BY CARL W. HARRIS.

CAVE CITY, Ky., Feb. 5.—All efforts to rescue Floyd Collins by means of the torturous, twsited passage into Sand cave, in a pocket of which he has lain imprisoned, pinioned by a boulder for six days, were abandoned here shortly after 9 o'clock this morning. Under orders from General H. H. Denhardt, commandant of the military area established at Sand cave, the tunnel through which Collins entered was closed and sealed and work of sinking a two-foot shaft to the spot where it has been estimated Collins lies, was started immediately.

Victim May Be Buried Alive.

The work, engineers estimate will require about two days—two days during which Collins will be more completely buried alive than at any time since the boulder made him a prisoner.

He will be cut off completely from communication and food supplies while 55 feet above him, a donkey engine and dynamite blasts send their reverberations and vibrations through the resonant sandstone formation, adding their terrors to the rumble of falling rocks in the inky blackness of the living grave.

Dawn, which paled the campfires dotting the virgin hillside and turned to life the silent silhouettes of more silent men, pacing to and fro restlessly, monotonously, dully, over slippery slimy, mud-covered rock, broke over a town from which virtualy every hope of rescuing Collins had fled.

Guardsmen On Duty.

The iron hand of martial law clamped shut over Sand cave and its immediate vicinity when Brigadier General Denhart arrived with staff officers and took charge of the situation.

Guardsmen were posted at strategic points along the cliffs overlooking the cave's entrance and scores of apparently idly curious who for days have have roamed at will about the scene, hindering the rescue work and bringing chaos to a situation already tense from nerves strained almost to the snapping point, today met crisp, military challenges.

Admission was denied to all ex-

HANNA TAXICAB COMPANY QUITS LOCAL FIELD; CARS ARE REPLEVINED

The Hanna Taxicab company, who have been operating the Checker cabs, has quit the East Liverpool field, it was announced today.

Two cars, which were being used in the East Liverpool business and another in operation in Salem, headquarters of the company, have been seized by Sheriff George Wright on a writ of replevin, obtained by the Checker Cab company of Kalamazoo, Mich.

It is alleged that Marion and Dallas Hanna, operators of the Hanna Taxi-Cab company, gave notes secured by chattel mortgages on the cabs when they were purchased for the East Liverpool business. It is claimed that the taxi operators have been unable to meet these notes.

The Hanna company first began operations at Salem, but less than a year ago established an office in West Sixth street near the Diamond. The office here was closed Tuesday evening.

The company will continue in the taxicab business at Salem, it is understood, as soon as the suit is settled.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 5. — Railroad stocks were the leaders in the forward movement in prices in the early trading today.

The oils were active but profit-taking and switching to the rails and industrials resulted in the withdrawal of buying support from many of the active oil shares. Western oils were the most notable exception to this rule, this week's advance in California crude oil prices having given more stability to the stocks of companies operating in that territory, notably Pan-American, Shell Union, General Petroleum and Standard Oil of California.

The boom in railroad stocks and shipping companies' shares, which was in full swing at the close of Wednesday's market, continued today under the leadership of the stocks which featured the previous sessions. Southern railway spurted to 92 and established a new high price for all time. Missouri Pacific, common and preferred, the Katy stocks, Chicago Great Western, common and preferred, New Haven, Southern Pacific and other well known rails were swept along to higher price levels, representing gains of from five to 10 points over the low of last week.

The most favorable comment was heard in the speculative district relative to the very favorable showing of the transportation companies in January, when most of the previous records in the country's railroad traffic were shattered. Southern Pacific and Rock Island were in demand on reports that an agreement had been reached on the leasing or consolidation program, the southwestern rails commanded attention on rumors of pending consolidation and low priced shares like Western Maryland and Chicago and Great Western on hopes and expectations that some of these lines will be taken into the big transportation combinations now being worked out.

Shipping stocks continued to forge ahead, with Marine preferred in the lead. Universal Pipe, Cuba Cane Sugar preferred, American Locomotive, Studebaker were the center of active buying at the highest prices for the movement. Pan-American stocks were usually active and strong on reports of heavy buying by the Standard Oil and Morgan interests.

A decline of 49,900 barrels in daily production of crude oil, higher railroad earnings, larger operations of the steel companies, a bullish statement by Secretary Mellon and a three per cent call money rate were the principal factors affecting stock market sentiment. The grain markets were irregular; cotton fairly steady.

Blame Mistake

house, an Ohio State university fraternity, was turned over to the police. Arrangements were made for analyzing the contents of these pills and capsules which, apparently, had been thrown away.

Seven students today turned over to Dr. W. O. Thompson, president of the university, capsuled medicine given them at the university campus dispensary recently as treatment for colds. This medicine, too, will be analyzed, it was announced.

County, police and university officials today are co-operating in an effort to answer the question. As yet, they are completely baffled by the mystery surrounding the deaths of Charles H. Huls, Logan, and David Ruskin, Canton, and the illness of Timothy J. McCarthy, Fremont; Harold E. Gillig, Tiffin; George D. Thompson, Canton, and Edward A. Byron, Cincinnati, all students at the university.

Question 60 Students.

These young men numbered among the 59 university students who received, at the university dispensary last week, what was believed to be quinine and aspirin treatments for colds and similar ailments. Investigation thus far made, it was stated, point to the possibility that some person, in filling out prescriptions at the dispensary, deliberately mixed strychnine in capsules in the medicine thus distributed. Officials are unable, it appears, to determine upon a motive which might have promoted such fiendish misconduct.

Investigation officials planned today to question approximately 60 university students, registered in the College of Pharmacy, and who are said to have filled prescriptions at the dispensary. Chemical and medical examinations, conducted late Wednesday, proved conclusively, it was stated, that the death of Puskin and the illness of the other students resulted from strychnine poisoning. Although no autopsy has been held to determine the question, it is believed young Huls' death was due, also, to the same cause. Thompson and the other students, it was said, are out of danger.

Five Capsules Distributed

Probing officials today are endeavoring to ascertain how the strychnine reached the dispensary which distributed it among the students and what motivated the act.

Investigators have learned definitely that at least five capsules containing strychnine were thus distributed. They were received by Puskin, McCarthy, Thompson and Gillig. At least one such capsule, officials believe, went to Huls.

Belief that they could identify the student who filled their prescriptions was expressed by McCarthy and Gillig. Byron said a young colored man, in filling his prescription, "fumbled about a long while before giving me the pills." Officials at the College of Pharmacy have no record that would definitely disclose who filled the prescriptions for Huls, Huskin and the other four students, it was stated.

Analyze 100 Capsules.

Of the 198 filled capsules in the quinine jar at the dispensary when the investigation started, 100 had been analyzed early today. None of them contained any trace of strychnine, it was announced. Examination of the remaining 98 capsules was being made today. This situation strongly supports the theory that some one at the dispensary deliberately placed one or two capsules of strychnine among the quinine capsules given each student.

Investigations at the university is being conducted by a committee of university officials including Dr. E. F. McCampbell, dean of the college of medicine; Claire E. Dye, dean of the college of pharmacy; Dr. James R. Withrow, department of chemistry; J. Lewis Morrill, alumni secretary, and James E. Pollard, director of the university's news bureau; City Police Prosecutor Chester, City Detectives Carson, Cox and Archer and County Detective Jones, representing Prosecuting Attorney King.

EXHAUST SERUM IN NOME FIGHT

Another Death, Several New Cases in Alaskan Epidemic.

By HARRY PHILLIPS.

NOME, Alaska, Feb. 5.—With one more dead and several new cases unofficially reported, Nome today faced its fight against diphtheria with its supply of anti-toxin practically exhausted.

The 300,000 units of life giving serum rushed to Nome Monday by dog teams over the icy tundra was almost used up early today and word of completion of plans for bringing the remedy here from the south by air plane was awaited.

Dr. Curtis Welch and nurses are working day and night in the fight against the disease, attempting to immunize all who have been exposed to the deadly germs.

The death of Mrs. R. C. McDowell, wife of the newspaperman, brought the death toll in the camp to six. There are now officially reported 30 cases, 31 suspects and 100 contacts.

McDowell, husband of the dead woman and one of the McDowell children have been stricken and were reported critically ill. McDowell was formerly connected with the Nome Nugget, the most northerly located newspaper in North America.

cept workers and newspapermen, and what yesterday had been upwards of 100 at the cave entrance today had dwindled to a scarce dozen. Organized rescue work and maintenance was under way apparently for the first time in six days in which a man has lain dying in the earth bowelt while those above argued and wrangled about reaching him.

Collins Silent—Perhaps Dead.

Today, more than 140 hours after he was trapped 150 feet below the surface by a giant boulder, Collins is just beyond the reach of human hands—silent—perhaps dead. His position, those who have been in say, is virtually unchanged from that it was six days ago. His pinioned leg, they say, is not freed, despite reports to the contrary.

There are no more people here than there have been for days. The work is progressing in more orderly fashion than it was at any time since it was started. Cave City, startled out of its sleepy, southern calm, gradually is readjusting itself to the bustle and excitement with which its two single streets are teeming. There have been no disorders.

Reports of Differences.

The surface quiet continues, but here and there are heard reports of differences over Sand Cave, bits of gossip and comment which tell of bitterly opposed groups which are, in some manner, interested in the outcome of this affair.

Their members, uncommunicative men, with faces weathered and worn by life in the hills, are clustered in little groups about the cave. They watch—and wait.

Guardsmen refuse to comment on the new order. But as they are questioned, their eyes wander out over the rolling hills to the east where lies Breathitt county—"Bloody Breathitt."

And, perhaps, they are answering them.

Last night saw the supreme effort of the local forces aiding in the rescue—the climax of puny man pitting his knowledge against the powers of nature massed in these age-old hills.

No Food for 30 Hours.

Collins lies pinioned in a half reclining position, dirt and debris and icy water falling over him and unable to move with the exception of one arm and one leg which are partly free.

He has had no food for 30 hours and 12 hours ago he complained to his rescuers that he was hungry—starving. The temperature of the cave is about 48 degrees, chill-laden with a penetrating dampness from ground water seeping through with a steady, monotonous drip, drip, drip, drip, and it is the opinion of physicians here that this is more than even the most extraordinary human endurance can stand.

Only a man of remarkable stamina and one who, through constant work in the caves, had become somewhat acclimated to their bitter chill, could have survived as long as Collins already has, they say.

Mystery of Tragedy

This, to them, is the mystery of the tragedy. They cannot explain it. They shake their heads when asked about it and admit it is a pathological freak, equal in its bizarreness to the accident itself.

"Ordinarily" Dr. William Hazlett, Chicago physician, sent here by Mrs. E. Blaine, wealthy Chicago woman philanthropist, a man in that position and environment would succumb to shock after the first 20 hours. The cold would lower his vitality and then pneumonia would develop. I should say that he would be dead in from 48 to 60 hours."

Collins' last words were spoken early today to his "buddy," Johnny Geralds, a leader in the rescue work. "Go home now and go to bed," he told Geralds after repeated calls had failed to bring a response. Following this only moans met Geralds' questions.

Pal Gives His Verdict.

CAVE CITY, Ky., Feb. 5.—Dirty, muddy and shaking from exhaustion, Johnny Geralds, pal of Floyd Collins in many cave adventures, this morning stood in the little slime-covered plateau under overhanging rocks which form the archway of the entrance to Sand cave where Collins has been trapped for more than 140 hours and gave his verdict.

"I have gone in there for the last time," he said slowly, carefully, as if perhaps he had rehearsed that speech after it had haunted his mind as he picked his way, squirming, almost prostrate through the torturous passage from the "squeeze" to the mouth.

"It's no use. I've had hope up to now, but the rock and mud is falling now faster than we can clear it out. Each time I go in the walls and roof look worse. There is more debris filling the passage now than there was before we cleared it all away yesterday morning.

Gerald bowed his head as the icy breath of the cave belched over the plateau. He moved over within a circle of light cast by an electric bulb, flickering eerily in the black darkness of a wilderness.

Rocks Falling Constantly.

"Floyd is getting weaker," he continued in the same measured tones. "He could not talk to me this time. While I was in there trying to make him answer me, mud and rock were falling constantly. It's on his body now. And I can't get there to move it.

"In moments when I was lying there resting, I could hear the crack of the rock, breaking up above and the incessant boom, boom, boom of heavy rock falling to great depths somewhere out beyond in the darkness. It was terrible.

"R-R-R-Rip, the walls and roof and floor go. And the sound echoes and re-echoes through the passages. Then there comes a rumble, terrifying there in the darkness. My hair seemed to stand on end and I'd close my eyes, thinking 'this is the end.' And then the final dull boom and then the whole thing over again.

"It may not be hopeless. I wouldn't want to say that. But—" and he paused to look about him, "I don't think I'll go in there again. Perhaps when I get rested, I'll feel differently, but now—" he looked toward the mouth of the cave—"well I—think—he's in there—forever."

200, ILL, ATTEND HEALING MEET

More Cures Reported by Rev. George M. Formby.

Approximately 200 sick persons were attended by Rev. George N. Formby, Florida faith healer, yesterday. About 165 of these attended two services which were conducted in the temporary quarters of the Church of the Nazarene, in the old K. & M. Dollar store, East Fifth street, in the afternoon and evening.

Clara Lazivoritz, 12-year old Greensburgh, Pa., girl, who has suffered from a paralyzed right arm for years, was among those who professed to have been cured. The child came to East Liverpool at the suggestion of her aunt, Mrs. A. Greenspon, 677 Lincoln avenue, who, Tuesday, it is claimed, regained the use of a paralyzed left arm.

Miss Helen Mae Shenkel, 517 Jefferson street, is said to have had her eyes straightened through faith. Mrs. George Spencer, Pennsylvania avenue, blind in one eye since birth, had her sight restored, it is reported. Another woman is purported to have obtained relief from diseased tonsils.

Efforts were being completed today to have the services transferred to the old Biederwolf tabernacle, Second and Washington streets, beginning Friday evening. Services this afternoon, tonight and Friday afternoon will be held in the Fifth street store room. The management of the Ceramic theatre today offered Mr. Formby use of the building for a service, Sunday afternoon, if he wished it.

Miss Stella Crooks, of Chicago, an evangelist for 20 years, and Miss Bertha Kearns, who has been engaged in missionary work in Japan will come here Tuesday to assist Rev. Fromby in next week's services.

Call Hearing

heard concerning the route to Youngstown. At present the designated road to Youngstown is via Calcutta, Sprucevale, Clarkson, Rogers and East Carmel.

Three other routes have been suggested.

Cope Hollow Route No. 1, by way of the California Hollow road, Cannons Mills, Williamsport, Cope Hollow, Rogers and East Carmel.

Cope Hollow route No. 2, via Calcutta, Cannons Mills, Williamsport, Cope Hollow, Rogers and East Carmel.

In the previous hearings most of the discussion centered on what is known as the Sprucevale and the Bell school house routes. The shortest road is through Sprucevale, but the chief objection to this road is said to be the big grades. County Surveyor Kirk and former County Surveyor Herman Armstrong completed surveys of the Bell school house and the Sprucevale roads, submitting estimates as to the cost of the improvements. Representatives of the state highway department have also been taken over the two proposed routes to assist them in determining the most feasible road.

The fourth hearing was arranged by the state without the knowledge of the county commissioners. The state has not announced who will preside at the hearing.

BITTER FIGHT ON GAS TAX

House Favors Bill, But Senate Will Oppose it.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 5.—What promises to be a bitter fight over the Brown two-cent gasoline tax bill will get under way today when the house motor vehicle committee makes its report recommending passage of the measure. With the backing of a two to one vote in a house Republican caucus, passage of the measure by the house seems assured. The bill will appear on the third reading calendar in the house Monday afternoon, but a vote is not likely until Tuesday.

The big fight will come in the senate where the main opposition to the measure is centered. The conflict will revolve around the demand for a reduction of auto license fees to a nominal $3 flat rate.

Republican members of the senate today are on record as favoring passage of "a gasoline tax bill, even over Gov. Donahey's veto, but an attempt in caucus late Wednesday to align the majority members back of the Brown bill failed when Senators Bender, Cuyahoga, and Chappelaer, Pickaway, bolted the meeting after Senator Day, Cuyahoga, had proposed to pass the Brown bill even over the governor's veto.

Action on Gov. Donahey's appointments will go over until next week, including proposed confirmation of the reappointment of T. J. Duffy as a member of the state industrial commission.

Q. How many people have gone to the exposition at Wembly? A. W. D.

A. A recent announcement concerning the exposition at Wembly said that 17,000,000 visitors had passed through the gates.

Q. How many men were there in the Prussian Guards during the war? H. W.

A. According to a communication received from Germany the exact number of Germans in the Prussian Guard during the World war can not be given, since the records were destroyed by direction of the Allies. There were, however, approximately 500,000 men of the Guards mobilized, of whom probably 350,000 saw real action.

Q. What makes lights seem to twinkle? H. H. C.

A. When lights at a distance appear to twinkle it is due to the interference which the rays of light encounter while traveling toward the eye.

Q. Where is the largest earth dam in the world? G. T. G.

A. A dam recently completed at Whitingham, Vermont, by the New England Power company is said to be the largest earth dam in the world.

Q. Why does traffic in this country keep to the right and in England to the left? W. B.

A. There have been innumerable suggestions concerning the practice of passing to the right in America as distinct from that of passing to the left in England. Gould in his "Right and Left-Handedness" is of the opinion that it is due to the fact that the earliest colonists were not preponderatingly English. Among the first Purital settlers there were many Dutch and to this France added her complement. They were from the continent where the custom of passing to the right had long been prevalent. During the early period of colonization, the people were accustomed to traveling afoot and even in England it was customary for pedestrians to go to the right even while vehicles went to the left. This custom of going to the right probably became fairly well established in America before vehicles were used to any great extent. When large wagons or "schooners" came into use, the driver being right-handed sat upon the near wheel-horse. He therefore sat on the right side to operate the brake with his right hand or foot. This was important in traveling over hilly country or ungraded roads. It can thus readily be seen that under these various influences the custom of going to the right at all times became firmly established.

Q. Is there a wireless beacon in Great Britain? G. E. R.

A. The first experimental wireless beacon in Great Britain has lately been constructed at Nash Point on the Welsh Coast, between Swansea and Cardiff. The installation transmits on a wave-length of 1,000 metres.

Q. Of whom did the family of Charles Dickens consist? C. C. C.

A. Charles Dickens had six children, two sons and four daughters. Charles Dickens only married once, Miss Catherine Hogarth, one of three sisters, for all of whom the author expressed great admiration and esteem.

Thief Embarrasses Binghamton Police; Pulls Clever Jobs

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Feb.—Authorities today would like to find a thief who has such an ironic sense of humor that he never fails to pick out the most embarrassing times and places for his burglaries.

He is the man, the authorities think, who recently robbed the Endicott police headquarters safe of $65; who this week robbed the residence of the Rev. George Capetanios, pastor of the Church of Christ on the evening when the clergyman opened a series of revival meetings, and who mailed back to Frank V. Inderlied, of Johnson City, a bunch of keys and a note saying, "Thank you very much," after he had rifled Inderlied's desk.

Government Economy

Every fresh evidence of governmental economy is welcome to the individual citizen. The public is delighted to learn that an annual budget not in excess of $3,000,000,000 is in sight. Naturally, too, the public is interested in knowing how such an improvement is effected.

In the first place, many comparatively small economics have been introduced, each one sensible and eminently worth achieving. Among those are the substitute of white string for the more expensive red tape for tying government documents, and of plain white mail bags for fancy striped ones. There is room for a considerable amount of economizing in similar fields. But such things alone cannot really bring about any major cuts in government expenditure.

These latter are to be found in the transition from war to peace activities, such as the final conclusion of government railroad administration. Perhaps the most expensive single department inaugurated as a direct result of the war was the veterans' bureau. Its extravagance and inefficiency have been curbed. It is getting its work properly in hand, with consequent financial economy.

It is well to remember that war is about the most expensive thing a civilized nation can indulge in, and that its expenses last long after peace is declared. In addition to a good budget system, the nation that would economize and lower its taxes must do the things that will prevent war and promote peace.

Home Without a Husband

"The first apartment house ever built for women only" is nearing completion in New York. It differs somewhat from men's bachelor apartments. Every suite has a good-sized kitchen, fitted with modern conveniences for cooking and breakfasting. It resembles men's quarters in having an all-night elevator, so that the tenants may stay out as late as they like.

The place is intended to cater chiefly to "the needs of stenographers, saleswomen, teachers and other workers who are living uncomfortably in rooming and boarding houses, and to provide them with a home, which every woman wants." No woman is allowed to lease an apartment if she is married or intends to marry soon. Though the rule against husbands is iron-clad, there is no barrier to dogs, cats, parrots, victrolas and radio sets.

If successful, this apartment house is to be followed by others. It should succeed. The tendency for unmarried and self-supporting women to make their own homes gains right along, and is a normal development to which there can be no sound objection.

Judicial Reform

The inefficiency of American court procedure in general is an old story. The bench and bar themselves have frankly admitted the lamentable delay and expense of justice in most of the courts under the present system. Legislatures and congress have tackled the subject, without much improvement.

"Give the courts the power to make their own rules, as changing conditions require," says the chief justice of the Ohio supreme court, "and justice will be simplified and speeded up."

There is a bill now pending in the senate at Washington which would empower the United States supreme court to establish rules for all federal courts. Legislatures may hesitate to grant similar powers to the state and municipal courts, yet that might be the best way out of a bad situation. If judicial power were abused, it could be restrained at any time by further legislative action.

"Our system of courts," says Dean Pound, of Harvard Law school, "is archaic and our procedure behind the times. Uncertainty, delay, expense and, above all, the injustice of deciding upon points of practice which are the mere etiquette of justice, have created a deep desire to keep out of court, right or wrong, on the part of every sensible business man in the community."

It may be always wise to try to keep out of court, reform or no reform. Nevertheless, any improvement which will make the judicial machinery run with less friction and turn out a better product of justice deserves to be tried.

SUPREME COURT SERVICE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—The retirement of Associate Justice McKenna from the supreme court after 27 years of service and the nomination by President Coolidge of Attorney General Harlan F. Stone to succeed him have recalled afresh some interesting and important characteristics of America's great tribunal.

One of these characteristics is the fact that justices of the supreme court continue in office long after the age when the average business or professional man withdraws from active participation in affairs, and in many instances long after they have passed the statutory limit of retirement.

Another peculiarity but one which is much less generally known is the fact that the supreme court has drawn its personnel from certain areas of the country to a much greater extent than from other areas. This tendency has marked the court from the very foundation of the government.

If Attorney General Stone is confirmed by the senate he will be the seventy-fourth American lawyer or jurist to graduate into the silk robes of the highest tribunal. Out of this grand total only eight have been men from the region west of the Mississippi river, while the majority of the personnel of the court has been supplied by less than one-fourth of the states of the union.

Seven states in fact have given the country 42 of the 74 members of the supreme court. These states represent in the main the most conservative sections of the country, both from a social and from an economic standpoint.

The first place on the honor roll of seven falls to New York, which will have its ninth representative of the court with the accession of Attorney General Stone. Next in line is Massachusetts with seven, Ohio with six, not including Chief Justice Taft, who was appointed from Connecticut, although he is a native son of the Buckeye state; Pennsylvania, Virginia, Maryland and Tennessee tie for fourth place, boasting five each.

Twenty-seven states have supplied the entire personnel of the court from 1789 to 1925, while it still remains for 21 states to have a citizen participate in the deliberations of the body which is regarded as in some respects the most powerful and influential factor in the American government.

Of course, the development of the country from east to west explains to some extent the distribution of personnel. It is true, however, that some states have always been more productive than others of the type of men fitted by training and temperament to fill the role of a supreme court justice.

It is interesting to note that the region of the country where the constitution and the integrity of the supreme court was made an issue by opposing political factions in the recent presidential election embraces a section which has thus far contributed but little to the membership of the body.

FOUR WESTERNERS NOW JUSTICES

Thus, Wisconsin, North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana, Idaho, Washington and Oregon are included in the 21 states that have never had a member. At the moment four members of the court are credited to the west, namely Justice McKenna, of California, who is retiring; Justice Willis Vandeventer, of Wyoming; Justice George Sutherland, of Utah, and Justice Pierce Butler, of Minnesota. Of the four only one, namely, Justice Butler, is a native westerner, born and reared in the state from which he was appointed. Justice McKenna was born in Philadelphia and Justice Vandeventer is an Indianan by birth, while Justice Sutherland was born in Buckinghamshire, England.

The continuity of supreme court tradition from decade to decade and from generation to generation is in no small degree due to the long service that has marked it as an institution apart. Fifteen to 20 years is an ordinary period of service.

Here is the way the story of these "Elder Statesmen" runs: Twenty-six of them handed down decisions continuously for a period of 20 to 30 years. Six of them passed the 30-year mark and of the six, four served for 34 years each. This was the record length of service, and it is interesting to note that while four members of the court reached the 34-year limit, no one ever exceeded it. The six who served 30 years or more had an aggregate tenure of 199 years, a period of service which would span far back into colonial days.

They were Bushrod Washington, Virginia, 31 years; John Marshall, Virginia, 34 years; John McLean, Ohio, 32; Joseph Story, Massachusetts, 34; Stephen J. Field, California, 34, and John M. Harlan, Kentucky, 34. It is generally conceded that some of these veterans of the bench, particularly Chief Justice Marshall and Justice Story, left an abiding impress on constitutional interpretations and on the structure of our legal code. Their years added weight to their findings and the dignity attaching to the court is in no small way due to the continuity of this long service tradition.

Turning to the chief justices there were only 10 of them all told, Chief Justice Taft being the tenth in the succession. These 10 men spanned the 135 years since the country became a nation. The roll call reads: John Jay, New York; John Rutledge, South Carolina; Oliver Ellsworth, Connecticut; John Marshall, Virginia; Roger B. Taney, Maryland; Salmon P. Chase, Ohio; Morrison R. Waite, Ohio; Melville W. Fuller, Illinois; Edward D. White, Louisiana; William Howard Taft, Connecticut.

It will be seen from the roll call that four of the seven states that contributed the majority of membership also contributed a chief justice, namely New York, Ohio, Virginia and Maryland. The average tenure of office was 14 years, while five members served in the aggregate 111 years, Marshall 34, Taney 28, Fuller 22 and White 27.

ONLY TWO ASSOCIATES PROMOTED

Contrary to what might be expected, only two of the 10 chief justices were elevated to that rank while serving as associate justice of the court. These were Chief Justice Rutledge back in 1795 and Chief Justice White in 1911. All the others were placed at the head of the court without prior experience as a member of the body.

The long service of some of the chief justices is all the more interesting when it is recalled that most of them were men of advanced years before they were elevated to this the highest judicial honor, which indicates that they were on the whole men of considerable physical vigor as well as intellectual and legal acumen. The youngest chief justice that the nation has had was also its greatest, namely, John Marshall. He was only 46 years old when he commenced handing down opinions which have affected the whole trend of development not only of the law but of the government itself.

The retirement of Justice McKenna and the expected retirement of Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes will remove two veterans. It will also mean that not in many years will there be so many new men on the court. President Harding made four appointments after June, 1921, when Taft was made chief justice. The present changes assuming that Justice Holmes retires, will mean that six out of the nine members of the court will be changed in less than four years.

So steeped in practice and tradition, however, has the court become that even a large number of changes in a comparatively short time has little or no effect on its procedure or its atmosphere. It is one of the few bodies in the world that has an entity and a character of its own, apart from the individuals who compose it.

"Oyez, oyez," from the crier will go on just the same. The old order does not change. The tradition of dignity and decorum will continue. Secrecy will be observed and references to pending cases will continue to draw wrath of every man who dons the silk robes, as it has been from the beginning. And politics will always be adjourned. Even social contacts will continue to be limited. A supreme court justice cannot afford the risk of too many people peeping into his mental processes.

What Appeared to be a Terrific Battle Between Mr. and Mrs. Jones—

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

By ETHEL MARSHALL.

LONDON, Feb. 5.—The number of American debutantes who will be presented at this season's royal courts will be larger than that of last year, it is reliably reported in court circles.

To counter-balance this there will be fewer English and Dominion debutantes presented.

Many mansions have already been taken by debutantes' parents in anticipation of the round of social engagements that usually precede and follow a presentation at court. Mrs. Peter Kerr-Smiley, formerly Miss Maud Simpson, of New York, has taken Lowdnes house, in the fashionable Belgrave square district, and is to give many parties. Her daughter is to be a 1925 debutante. Miss Edith Lowther, daughter of Mrs. Alice Lowther and granddaughter of Mr. Atherton Bight, of Philadelphia, is another American debutante who will be presented.

This season's courts will be held without the assistance of Sir Dougles Dawson, who for many years has been the state chamberlain.

His job was to see that everything went off without a hitch, and he might better be called the king's stage manager. He recently retired because of ill-health and the fact that "he seemed to be losing his grip on things."

In preparation for the usual strenuous round of socials, dances and courts expected this year, fashionable London is now engaged in rejuvenating itself.

Popular nursing homes are full of pale ladies who are putting up with weeks of agony so that they can face the season with equanimity and a smile. One well known society matron has withdrawn into a nursing home for a month to have new eyelashes sewn on, while it is reported that the craze for "rejuvenation" is even spreading to the younger element, who find the strain of a London season very wearying and conducive to that "old age is creeping on" appearance.

She has just bought a beautiful palace on the Grand canal, in Venice, which she is filling with priceless are treasures.

Ankle muffs are the latest craze here.

They are worn with low-cut shoes, which produce very cold ankles in London's weather. The muffs are after the style of the mitten, but they are trimmed with colored fur. Bare ankles are indispensable, however, if milady wants to be able to wear them elegantly.

"Nippy" has London at her feet. She has thousands of admirers.

"Nippy" is just emerging from obscurity. It happened this way. A chain teashop company introduced a new uniform for its waitresses. It published a picture of one of these waitresses, wearing the new uniform, and titled the picture "Nippy." It so happened that "Nippy" proved to be a knockout. She is an extraordinary pretty girl. The teashop company has been besieged with letters asking for the name of "Nippy" and the address of the teashop where she serves. Thus far the company has kept silent.

Theatrical offers have been made for "Nippy's" services; and it looks as though she would fall for the lure of the footlights. Meanwhile, her picture is being plastered all over London, and some romantic youths are making systematic tours of the teashops, hoping they will meet "Nippy."

DINNER STORIES

A workingman got a job at a coal mine siding, running wagon down an incline. There was only a sleeper at the bottom to stop the wagons, so the boss told him to be careful and keep the brake on. On the third day four wagons went down at a terrific speed and jumped over the sleeper into the canal below.

The boss saw all that happened from his office window, and came rushing out, with wrathful face. The man forestalled the remarks of the enraged employer:

"You needn't come grumbling at me," he announced. "I ain't working for you."

Bob was sitting on the sofa with his Friend Dot. On her knee was her little niece. The door of the next room was wide open and the family as usual were there listening. This is what they heard:

"Kiss me too, Aunt Dottie."

"Certainly, dear, but don't say too, say twice; too is not good grammar."

An old man was asked what he did when he bowed his head in church so reverently just before the services began.

"Well," replied the old man, "that's a fair question an' I'll give you a fair answer—I don't know what other folks do, but I always count forty myself."

A negro woman of mammoth proportions and inky complexion was in an automobile accident. She was transported to the hospital, where she soon regained consciousness. The doctor, seeking to comfort her a bit, said to her:

"You undoubtedly will be able to obtain a considerable amount of damages, Mrs. Johnson."

"Damages!" said Mrs. Johnson.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—There are—an optical association reports—some 300 men in New York who wear monocles. These are home-plucked specimens and not visiting authors and actors from British shores. Out of these about 100 have physical defects in one eye.

The rest have adopted the monocle as a bit of swank. Now a monocle may not inspire three whoops or even a faint geewhiz from most folk, but to me it is one of the sartorial miracles. Just an ordinary piece of glass—the size of a wrist watch crystal.

Yet fasten it into the eye of the dowdiest plebian and you feel as though you should call him count. You would no more think of joshing a monocle wearer than you would Mr. Coolidge. Nothing in the world so completely suffocates familiarity.

You may smile the cynical smile behind the back of the man who wears the monocle, but secretly most of us rather admire him. It is nothing more, the sheer jauntiness of holding a piece of glass so firmly that not even a fall off a horse will dislodge it.

It requires long and secret practice before the mirror to accomplish all this. The monocle wearer must feel confident of his ability. If he makes a slip his dignity is gone. To drop a monocle accidentally will bring him no sympathy. Just laughter.

The monocle, like the wrist watch, has met with early opposition. It is regarded as the badge of the fop—the cane sucking dude of the comic strips. In Europe it needs no defenders. It is worn by men who have received the highest decorations for bravery in action.

It is worn by the duke, lord and proletariat. I may be wrong but I do not think any article a man wears dresses him up so magnificently or gives him so much dignity. I possibly may never wear a monocle. But I wish I had the courage.

One thing is certain, if I ever adopt the monocle I'll never wear it in a certain hardware store back home. The proprietor is a gruff, red faced old fellow who speaks his mind. I have a memory of dropping in there one day during my callow youth in white pants for a pound of B. B. bird shot. He was behind the stove snoozing when I opened the door. He came down toward me, looked quizzically at my trousers and then shouted so they could hear him clear up to the court house: "Get out of here, you durn dude!" I suppose if I went in wearing a monocle he would sock me with an anvil.

And I know one man who would be in entire accord and say: "You got what you deserved." The gentleman is my father.

I once played penny-ante with a Russian prince who wore a monocle. As I recall, there were also in the game Clare Briggs, H. T. Webster, Harry Staton, Ray Rohn, Dr. G. A. Dorsey and Arthur Somers Roche. In this rather intimate weekly gathering the choice of epithets applied to one another was, to say the least, brusque. But that monocle toned up our language so it might have been used in a perfumed boudoir instead of the water front. However, it wasn't much fun and it was agreed afterward that we would confine royalty in our game to the roy flush.

My barber tells me of a rather amusing incident with a monocle wearer. His patron was a Metropolitan singer and went to sleep while shaving with the monocle in his eye. Finally the muscles relaxed and the monocle started to slip off to the floor. The barber had a razor in one hand and a lathered brush in the other. He thought first of dropping them and saving the monocle, but didn't. It so happened that the monocle dropped in the cuff of his trousers. An hour's search of the barber shop failed to find it. And the real mystery was not made clear until he undressed to retire. This concludes the evening's entertainment on monocles. Tomorrow I should take up something rough—like flea-hopping or the Charleston.

TODAY

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune).

MAN, CHAMPION ANIMAL

Those dogs of the Eskimo breed, galloping in relays over the frozen trails of Alaska, covered 650 miles in 5½ days. Wonderful four-legged creatures they are, and a brave man is Gunnar Kasson who pushed on through the blizzard without waiting for the relay that failed to meet him.

Of all animals man is the most wonderful, having developed to the highest point, the topmost joint of the spinal column, the one we call the skull contained the brain.

The serious thing is that man excels animals in physical endurance, as well as in thinking power.

We are amazed that relays of heavy four-legged animals, powerful Siberian hounds, should gallop over the snow and ice 650 miles in 5½ days.

Their endurance does not compare with that of the tall Irishman, afterward elected mayor of Long Island City, who walked and ran more than 600 miles in six days in Madison Square Garden, with no relay on his own two legs.

Man is indeed "fearfully and wonderfully made," and has many reasons for praising the Lord.

HOBO, THE HERO

Two days ago Bill Goodman, of Nauvoo, Ala., was called a "hobo." When he traveled he hid in freight cars or "rode on the rods." Now he is a hero, with a pass authorizing him to ride comfortably on all trains of the St. Louis and San Francisco line.

On Monday night he crawled out of his hiding place on the train, after a collision and, risking his own life, saved that of the engineer, lying beneath his engine, in danger of being scalded to death.

The distance between hoboism and heroism is often short, and often only an opportunity is needed to change a hobo into a hero.

NEWS, ASSORTED

The news of almost any day would seem strange to a traveler from an old, civilized planet.

At Johns Hopkins university they will perform an operation on a man from Colorado accused of murdering his wife. Cutting his skull, giving the brain room to expand, may eliminate alleged criminal tendencies. In days to come operations on the skull to remedy brain pressure, especially on the top may become frequent.

In Los Angeles a railroad official dies after having a tooth pulled. His disease was hemophilia, which means a liking for hemorrhages.

In that disease the slightest cut is apt to cause fatal bleeding. We don't realize how ingeniously we are made, the average cut healing itself, and the white corpuscles attacking and destroying outside germs, like vigilant policemen, while the healing goes on.

In Monte Carlo ladies play lawn tennis—perfectly respectable ladies, with skirts cut off far up on the hips, with stockings rolled down and bare knees. Dressed that way they play better, and the air does them good.

Eskimo women have always kept an opening around the knees, or around the waist, to let in the air. The skin also must breathe.

LADY, OR REALTOR

In Hollywood, Mrs. Margaret W. Rowan, with her followers, "reformed Seventh Day Adventists," are waiting for the world to end next Friday. They will watch with her, while the world ends, and divinity again appears on earth.

Somebody will be disappointed on Friday, either Mrs. Rowan and her followers, or the Los Angeles real estate owners.

Marcus Loew bought a block out there for $40,000, over the protest of his managers, who said he was paying too much. A little later he sold it for a million. Can you imagine how he would have felt had the world ended just before the buyer signed on the dotted line?

All romance is fading from the earth. The North Pole has been reached. And now regular automobile trips are made across the Desert of Sahara, with hotels and electric lights on the road.

Moore, our ambassador to Spain, says, "Come to Spain. That's the only place where the grass isn't all trampled down and you can see something real."

The earth grows dull. You go to the mountains of the northwest to kill a grizzly bear, and run into a sign reading, "57 Varieties."

Novel Luncheon Dish—Bake large smooth potatoes. Slit lenghtwise and lay open like a book. Scoop out inside; take half and mash. Season with salt, pepper and butter. Fill one side of each with this mixture. Lay on top a strip of bacon. Have ready, spinach cooked and dressed with white sauce. Set in oven till bacon is crisp, then serve.

Hot Ham Sandwiches—Cut bread as for sandwiches, using whole wheat or graham bread. Spread one piece with butter and the other with finely chopped ham and dip in slightly beaten egg. Fry a golden brown in hot fat.

A Dainty Dessert

A delicious little accessory to serve with an ice or any frozen dish is made by rolling pie crust about a quarter of an inch thick. Cut it in strips six inches long, roll until round, lay in a pan and bake. Dip them into boiled frosting and when dry again in melted chocolate. They may be rolled while moist in chopped nuts or cocoa instead of chocolate.

Suet Pudding — One cup chopped suet, one-half cup brown sugar, one-half cup molasses, one cup raisins, two teaspoons baking powder; two cups flour, one-fourth teaspoon soda. Steam two hours and serve with liquid sauce.

Liquid Sauce—One cup sugar, one cup water, one-half cup butter. Boil together, thicken with one tablespoon flour, add one tablespoon of vinegar; flavor with nutmeg, vanilla or lemon or little of each of them.

Lemon-Apple Pie — Grated rind of one lemon, two tablespoons lemon juice, one cup sugar, one egg yolk, one tablespoon melted butter, two tablespoons bread flour, one fourth cup hot water, two apples pared and grated, one egg white. Mix grated rind of lemon, lemon juice, sugar, egg yolk, butter flour, and hot water. Then add apples and fold in stiffly-beaten egg white. Line pie pan with pastry, fill with mixture cover with pastry and bake.

Suggestions

A woman who objected to the additional labor involved in lifting a heavy iron on and off a stand while ironing conceived the idea of buying a square yard of asbestos from the hardware store. She cut a piece large enough for the end of the ironing board and finds it saves her a good deal of work. The asbestos is very inexpensive, and a yard lasts for some time.

A clean pipe cleaner is a good thing to use to clean the clogged holes in the teapot spout.

All of us have struggled conscientiously to clean the baseboard woodwork of our homes. It is one of the duties we do not enjoy doing. Crawling along on one's knees has no joy for either the thin or stout housewife and we always feel ourselves more or less heroines when we do a thorough job. One lively young woman solved the problem in a manner not very dignified, we admit, but none the less practical. She sits on her child's kiddie car and pushes, herself along scrubbing as she goes.

One housewife says that she keeps a child's broom upstairs, and before using electric sweeper she dampens broom slightly and rubs over rugs in front of dressers. This gathers up the hair and she does not have the unpleasant task of cutting and pulling hair from sweeper brush.

Binoculars Are Worshipped.

At Cairo, Egypt, recently, a group of scientists left behind them a set of powerful binoculars which were later found by a tribe of natives in the Sudan and set up as a shrine by some superstitious native. Groups of the natives now gather around the binoculars and accord them rites of worship as they can not understand the science that enables them to bring far away objects into such close view.

GETTING UP NIGHTS

Irritation, excessive acidity or abnormal deposits may be the cause. It needs cleansing. Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula) acts on the kidneys and bladder as Epsom Salts on the bowels. R. D. Neblett, 10 Oak St., Battle Creek, Mich., says: "For three years had to get up three times at night. Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula) helped me in two days. I now do heavy work." It isn't a patent medicine. The formula is on the label. Sold by leading drug stores or Keller Laboratory, Mechanicsburg, Ohio. Locally at J. D. Holloways. adv.

Tells How to End Night Coughing

To quickly stop hacking, irritating coughing at night, a very simple treatment may be had that often enables you to sleep the whole night through undisturbed almost at once.

The treatment is based on a remarkable prescription known as Dr. King's New Discovery for Coughs. You simply take a teaspoonful at night before retiring, and hold it in your throat for 15 or 20 seconds before swallowing it, without following with water. The prescription has a double action. It not only soothes and relieves irritation and soreness, but it quickly loosens and removes the phlegm and congestion which are the direct cause of the coughing. So no matter whether your cough is dry and tight, or loose with much mucus, the coughing soon stops, you can usually sleep your accustomed time without a break, and the whole cough condition goes in a very short time.

The prescription contains absolutely no narcotics or other harmful drugs. Instead of merely benumbing the nerves, it actually helps the system to throw off the trouble in a perfectly natural way. Furthermore, it is very economical, the dose being only one teaspoonful. It is highly recommended for coughs, chest colds, tickling, hoarseness and bronchitis, and is wonderful for children's coughs and spasmodic croup. On sale at all good druggists. Ask for

TOO MANY DIE

One of the most dreaded ailments developed from common colds is pneumonia. Cold germs multiply quickly, and unless the system is able to resist the rapid attack, serious results may develop. Why not always be ready to fight off a cold by having on hand a box of Bulgarian Herb Tea? This grand medicinal tea taken hot at bedtime helps to break up a cold quickly.

Bulgarian Herb Tea is now used by millions for constipation, stomach, liver and bowel troubles. Physicians recommend and druggists everywhere endorse it.

Tip For Beginners.

Solve this puzzle by comparing the synonyms listed in the "Horizontal" and "Vertical" columns with the number of spaces extending crosswise or downward on the diagram, as the case may be. If a word occurs to you meaning substantially the same as the synonym and the correct number of letters to fit in the spaces between its number and the first shaded stop following, write it in lightly. Work away the small words, the "easy" words, first, and they will give you plenty of clues to the difficult ones.

Dix's First Starring Picture, 'Manhattan,' At The Ceramic

Richard Dix's first Paramount starring picture, "Manhattan," with Jacqueline Logan, Gregory Kelly, George Seigmann and others playing in support, will be shown at the Ceramic theatre three days starting today. The story is an adaptation by Paul Sloane and Frank Tuttle of the novel, "The Definite Object," by Jeffrey Farnol. It is R. H. Burnside's first work as a screen director.

The story opens on Peter Minuit (Dix), a wealthy young bachelor who tires of the uneventful routine of his daily life and ventures out into Hell's Kitchen section of New York city in search of adventure. He finds it—with a vengeance!

Peter had read in the paper of a gang outside of Bud McGinnis saloon and in another column of the night of "Gentleman" George, a safeblower sought in four states. Things began to brighten a bit. Here was excitement after all.

Minuit dons some old clothes and, posing as the notorious "Gentleman George," hies himself off after a thrill. After a series of actionful scenes we find him more or less firmly established as one of the Kitchen's respected gangsters, only to be "bumped off" by one who believed him a "bull." Spike, a youngster with whom he had teamed up, brings him to his home—and that's when the trouble begins. For Spike has a truly beautiful sister and, on first sight, Minuit decides that there is that "something" worth living for.

But there's a villain in the case, Bud McGinnis (Seigmann), also in love with Mary, played by Miss Logan. He plays Peter all kinds of dirt—even tries to "finish him," but Minuit comes up smiling, wins the girl, reforms her wayward brother, reveals his identity and they all live happily ever after in his home on the Ave.

Here's real entertainment. Dix has always been a prime favorite with the fans and in "Manhattan," a story all his very own, he's going to prove more popular than ever. See it we're not right.

Syracuse Student Studying Spanish Via Havana Radio

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Feb.—A new use for the radio today has been discovered by a Syracuse schoolboy.

He is Richard Gaggin, who is studying Spanish by "tuning in" on Havana. Through the air, he finds mastery of the language is far less difficult than by learning it by means of text and grammar in the classroom.

The innovation is the result of the formation of a radio unit at Nottingham Junior High school under the personal supervision of W. J. Knight, acting principal.

MEASURE AIMED AT AUTO THIEVES

West Virginia will have one of the most drastic "certificate of title" laws in the country in the event the legislature enacts senate bill No. 300, which was introduced in the upper branch during the closing days by Senator Harvey Marsh of the third district.

The measure is designed particularly to prevent the sale of automobiles upon which there is any lien, and to make the theft of motor vehicles a highly unprofitable undertaking. Severe penalties are provided in the bill for the violation of any of the sections.

Any person who sells or otherwise disposes of a motor vehicle, according to the provisions of theb ill, without the consent of the holder of a trust receipt, reservation of title or conditional sales contract, would be guilty of a felony punishable by fine of $500 to $1,000 or by imprisonment in the penitentiary for one to ten years.

The bill further provides that any person who operates a motor vehicle after July 1, 1925, without securing a certificate of title, is subject to a fine of $25 to $1,000.

"During 60 years of Married Life"...
Three Generations Kept Healthy and Happy

"Beecham's Pills were always considered indispensable by my parents during sixty years of married life and I am never without them in my home, as they are used when required by myself (aged sixty-one), and wife and children. This covers a period of over eighty years.

My wife and sons also believe there is no remedy for constipation and biliousness equal to Beecham's Pills.

So many so-called "cures" for biliousness and kindred troubles leave after effects that are certainly injurious, but Beecham's Pills give prompt relief and leave one in a healthy and happy condition." N. J. M.

STATE ASKS BIDS ON ROAD WORK

Bids for the grading, construction of drainage structures and surfacing with waterbound macadam on the Wellsville-Harrisburg road have been asked by the State Highway department, and these will be opened at Columbus at 2 o'clock the afternoon of Feb. 20.

Trustees of Knox township in Columbiana county and those in Smith township in Mahoning county with the State Highway Department will share in the cost of this improvement. The county will come in later when a permanent top is placed on the road, and which will be a continuation of the Cox highway from Westville west to Mt. NEW RECORDS FOR DOG LICENSES

"We've been making new records for the collection of the dog tax and it looks now as if collections from this source during the first two months of the year will exceed all former collections," declared Deputy County Auditor Randall Hamilton.

Up to this time 1,281 licenses have been issued. The money collected is placed to the credit of the dog and tax fund, from which all sheep claims are paid. After these claims have been liquidated, the balance of the fund goes to the credit of the county school fund.

B. F. Rollins, who for the last several years has served as deputy sheriff and in charge of the field collections for the dog and kennel fund, has not started out this season.

BOYS ARRAIGNED IN PROBATE COURT

Boys as young as nine years who have been in the habit of carrying fire arms and discharging them in the night season, have been rounded up by Patrolman Roy Lewton of Lisbon and taken before Juvenile Judge Lodge Riddle. From the nine-year old youngster a 32-caliber revolver was taken, and from one 11 years of age another revolver was recovered.

This crowd of boys has been annoying residents of Lisbon for a month, and not until a few nights ago were they discovered carrying these concealed weapons. The court told the boys that unless they remained at home nights, it would be necessary to send them to a state institution.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes —Most Women Can Have.

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician.

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep them fit. 15c and 30c.

AFTER BABY WAS BORN

Mrs. Miles Was Miserable a Long Time—Owes Final Recovery to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Dover, Ohio.—"After my last baby was born I was up and around again, but I was sickly all the time and did not know how to get my work done. I had washed a heavy carpet and I think that was the cause of my troubles. I went to several doctors, but their medicines did not do me any good. I asked what the trouble was, for I could hardly walk and always had such pains in my left side and then in my right side. He told me I had inflammation that caused it. I had one of your text-books and was reading it, and I thought I would take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After four days of taking it I began to feel better, so I took three bottles without missing a dose. That helped me more than any other medicine I had yet taken and I always have it handy now. It surely did put me on my feet again."—Mrs. JAMES MILES, 419 Cherry Street, Dover, Ohio.

TIMELY VIEWS ON WORLD TOPICS

"WE INHERIT OUR SINS," SAYS VIENNESE PHYSIOLOGIST.

Dr. Paul Kammerer, the distinguished Viennese physiologist, now in the U. S., is a general in an army of scientific revolutionaries and he is conducting a bitter war against conservative ideas of evolution.

"There are two biological theories," he said recently. "One is the theory of natural selection; the other is the theory of the inheritance of acquired characteristics. Any person with a sceniific mind must hold to either of these two doctrines. He must decide between the two. Because this decision will determine his fundamental outlook on life.

"The theory of natural selection accounts for all the different forms of life in this manner: The same parents will have children who differ from each other. No two children are exactly alike—and this applies to all plants and animals as well as to all human beings.

"Let us imagine a large family of rabbits with many differences, say, in color. Some are brown, some white, some black. They live on wintry snow-fields. They have enemies. These enemies easily find and attack those rabbits whom they can easily see against the whiteness of the ice; thus the brown and black are destroyed, while the whites, being practically invisible, escape. This goes on for many generations, until finally only white parent-rabbits and white children-rabbits are left.

"In other words, the animals that happen to be fittest to their environment, those who turn out to be strongest at birth, have the best chances to live and to produce offspring of their own; thus the weak and ill-adapted ones gradually die out or are violently exterminated. This is also known as the doctrine of the survival of the fittest: the strong live, the weak perish; accidents of birth plus the nature of environment determine the future of the race.

Truths Admitted.

"Now for the other theory—the theory of the inheritance of acquired characteristics. This admits the truth of the positive assertions of natural selection, but it goes farther in holding that there can be nothing mysterious or mythical about the differences between one living thing and another. It holds that these differences can be accounted for, partially at least, by the minds of the parents. If a parent forms a habit, either through his own volition or through an external influence, the offspring will be affected by it to a greater or to a less degree. It may take long periods of time for such 'acquired characteristics,' repeated again and again, to make themselves perceptible—but they are there all the time."

CHILDREN BEG FOR CASTOR OIL NOW

Mother, don't be so cruel as to give the children nasty, vile castor oil from the bottle.

Remember how you used to hate and detest it yourself?

When the children are cross and peevish or have a cold and need a dose, just try Kastor Jems, which is pure castor oil in a high grade chocolate confection—you can't taste or smell the oil—you can't tell a Kastor jem from a good candy and the kids just love them.

Understand, it's pure castor oil you're getting and nothing else. One is a dose for a child—two for an adult—and a lot of wise adults are eating a couple at least once a week because castor oil is the best lubricant for the bowels anyway.

Dascome had changed from crimson to white, the gray look that had always tugged at Karesia's heart. She had laid her cheek to his: "You don't need to tell me—I know it's true. Now, will you do something for me?"

"I would give you the world, if I could, my love."

"No, only this: try to forget. And hold it close to you, the same absolute certainty that I have; some day, in some unexpected way, it will all be made clear. All day I have had the strange feeling that the time is very near."

Dascome bent abruptly to tend the failing fire. "It may be," he said evenly. "What will be, will be." Then he had lifted and had drawn her to him. "But nothing that shall take you from me! This is the end of February; in March Clarice gets her money and I know she will leave me—there are things I want to accomplish, too, I hope I may be able to, I must do it. A thousand times in the last weeks I have told myself that I could never ask it of you, but I will. Will you marry me then, Karesia?"

"Yes—I will."

Dascome was again the quietly resolute, steadily determined man that Karesia knew and loved, voice even and deep, a strength against which she leaned, a force that enveloped her. "Very well," he said. "You are mine and I am yours. The past shall not matter."

The past did not matter to Karesia; in the days that followed, its chill hand did not touch her. It was so much a part of her love, the thing that had brought her to him, her passionate sympathy. They kept their secret; during those days Clarice was only a hurried visitor to her father's house, for most of the time she was at the studio and several times she spent the night with Nadine Navarre. The tesis he had given Clarice had delighted Nadine's director. "That girl can do anything!" he told Nadine. "In a year she'll be starring."

"She will be eighteen next month," Dascome told Karesia, "and by the end of April she will have complete control of her fortune. She has not told me, but I know that then she'll leave me. I have talked it over with Nadine Navarre—Nadine will advise Clarice. She says that Clarice is working with utter concentration; her director says that Clarice is quick in catching an idea and that she has tireless vitality. Nadine's great fear was that Clarice would not be biddable."

"I am so glad! You owe a great deal to Madame Navarre," she added generously. Karesia was much too happy to be pricked by jealousy. Nadine Navarre may have been much or little to Dascome; he was hers now—what did it matter?

Dascome may have thought that it did matter to her, for he put his hand over hers—a firm pressure. "Nadine is paying a debt," he said. "She was determined to go to Russia and rescue her sister's family, and I wouldn't let her go. I made her stay in Japan while I went. I helped her sister and her family of children to get out of Russia—Nadine's sister had married a Russian. I was going to Russia anyway, so it's really no debt Nadine owes me, but she chooses to think so. We are old friends, dear, Nadine and I. She has been loyal, straight through—big enough for a real friendship. Nadine is an artist first, a woman afterward."

Karesia smiled. "And I suppose I am a woman first."

"Yes. La belle Karesia, with the wistful eyes—I love you!"

He did not need to tell her so; she knew it. He was completely enthralled. Karesia Kaime had pretty laugh•g ways and a sense of humor ever on the alert. She made Dascome laugh. When with her the gray look faded from his face and there was a glow in his steadfast eyes. He said odd, reverent things to her, as a boy will to his first love; and wise, experienced things. And thoughts and fancies drawn from the deeps of him. Again and again Karesia detected the lawyer in him, the legal gift, the capacity to weigh and sift evidence and handle legal weapons; a keen and accurate reading of character, an unlimited vocabulary, words assembled and delivered with skill; the legal point of view combined with imagination, the qualities that had made him a brilliant criminal lawyer.

Was his wonderful capability going to be wasted? Karesia wondered. Finally she asked him, "When we are married, what work are you going to do?"

Dascome lifted her hand and kissed its warm palm. "What do you want me to do?"

"I want you to—it's one of the things I reverence in you."

"Would you like to go back to the law, John?"

"God forbid! I couldn't go back to the law!" he said so sharply that Karesia was startled. She had not meant to touch a wound.

Dascome smiled then. "Come into my arms while I whisper it to you—what I want to do."

"What is it?" she asked, flushing and eyes downcast, for he was kissing her, not telling her.

"I am going to write. I have written a little."

"You are! You have? Oh, you could write wonderfully!"

"It's a field open to all, isn't it—even to a John Dascome?"

"A John Dascome would grace it!" she said proudly.

The gray look crept into his face. "You see, I think of it sometimes—that I may be cutting you off from society. A woman feels that. If we were doing the same thing, it might be companionship for you."

"Society!" Karesia said with soft scorn. "You are not poor and poverty is the only thing that society will not forgive. Society is like any other animal; feed and wine it skilfully and house it comfortably and it will serve you well. Why take society seriously? But to have a working partner!" Her eyes filled. "What have you written?"

"A book. I've written it off and on, when I had to do something to distract me. I've just finished it."

"A novel!"

HEART AND HOME PROBLEMS

BY MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

If we humans would only cultivate the faculty of appreciating the good things that we have, so many heartaches and disappointments would be averted. It is easy to dream hopefully of the future, believing that riches, prince charming and all the good things of life will come then; but not so easy to glorify the present. Prince charming often comes incognito.

Her Fickleness to Blame.

Dear Mrs. Thompson, I am a girl of 19. I was going with a nice young man a few years my senior. He gradually became more serious and finally hinted toward marriage. I had never had any thoughts of marriage, and just went with him for a good time. I thought that was all there was in this world—good times and no need of ever getting serious. When he began to show his liking for me I started discouraging him by slighting him and going with other fellows. The result was he gave up and finally quit coming to see me. I was glad at first as I didn't want to be tied down to any fellow and just wanted good times. After a while I began to realize I cared for him and now I want him back, but he is going with other girls. I believe he still likes me. What can I do to win or get him back. Please tell me.

A LONESOME GIRL.

You were a very fickle, selfish girl, my dear, and needed to be brought to time with a good lesson and heartache. Any girl who goes with one man after another merely for a good time, not stopping to think that the young men have feelings and are capable of deep love, deserves to suffer herself. Take your lesson. You have played your game and lost. Don't show how disappointed you are; keep up your good cheer and tell that you have learned a valuable lesson for the future. You can be friendly to the man but nothing more. Perhaps if he still cares for you he will come back. It may be, however, that he had enough of your indifference and will never again put himself in a position to be turned down by you. Always bear in mind that love is a very serious matter. If you trifle with it you will not get the most out of it. Consider the man's feelings and do not be any more willing to hurt than you are to be hurt.

His Affection Cools.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been going with a fellow for over three years almost steady. He used to think a lot of me and said he loved me. Lately he doesn't want to go any place with me unless it is to a show or some place that suits his own pleasure. I haven't any home here. He is not in a position to marry at present, but used to tell me he hoped to be soon. I don't know what to think because he doesn't go with any one else. I have tried several times going with others but they always proved a disappointment. This man has given me several expensive presents. I have tried to talk things over with him but I don't get any satisfaction. Please tell me what to do. I am 21 and he is 30. TROUBLED.

Since you feel that the man with whom you are going only wants to suit his own pleasure, it is time for you to give up the thought of marrying him. To be happy together it would be necessary for you to have congenial tastes so that his pleasures would be yours and yours would be his. Since this is not the case, be satisfied with his growing indifference and cultivate friendships with other men. The fact that you have been disappointed in others up to the present time means nothing. At the age of 21 it is quite natural that you have not met the right man.

The Oldest Question.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: What is true love? I met a girl about six months ago and we started going together. I think I loved her from the first and she seemed to like me too, because she let me come to see her as often as I wanted to. Christmas day we became engaged and I was the happiest man on earth. I cannot understand this girl because ever since our engagement she has acted strange. She is moody and sometimes when I go to see her she hardly talks and if she does she says sharp things in reply to my remarks. Twice she has hurt my feelings so deeply that I have decided to tell her I no longer think it best to marry and then when I go to see her to talk it over she seems to be sorry and is very nice to me. There is one thing that worries me and that is I have noticed she is unkind to her mother. Her mother would do anything in the world for her and instead of appreciating it she is always saying sharp things to her and scolding her for something. No man could have loved more than I did at first, but now my mind is filled with doubts. I doubt her love for me because she is so unkind. I wonder if she would make a good wife. I also find myself wondering if I care as much for her as I did at first. What is your opinion?

ON THE FENCE.

There is no definition of true love. I would say, however, that if your fiance is truly in love it is with herself. Love for you and her mother would show itself in greater kindness. In my opinion you are betrothed to a girl who will not make a good wife. If she is moody and irritable to you now, you may be sure that after marriage her disposition will grow meaner instead of sweeter.

Ten Years Difference.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of 18 and in love with a man 10 years my senior. We have loved each other for five years but his attentions toward my younger sister are becoming so obvious that I am very unhappy and worried. Sometimes I have thought of ending it all between us, but teh hope that I might win him back some day keeps me from doing so. Do you think there is any chance? What would you advise me to do?

BROKEN-HEARTED S.

Tell the man what you have observed, and say that you want him to feel perfectly free to go with your sister and forget that you and he have ever been in love. Doubtless my suggestion will not appeal to you at all, but in my opinion it is the only course for you to take. It will be so much better for you to give the man his freedom than to suffer the humiliation of having him take it. To give up the man 10 years older than yourself who has dragged out his love over a period of five years and is now losing interest, will not be a great loss. Since you are 18 you have much happiness ahead of you and have every reason to hope that when you and he no longer go with each other you will enjoy other friendships and love affairs.

Doubts Her Lover.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl nearly 18 years of age. I go with a fellow of whom I think a great deal and he says he loves me. But when a certain girl is around he pays a great deal of attention to her. He has gone with this girl and could still go with her because she thinks a lot of him. He says he does not care to go with her and yet he appears to like her a great deal. She tells me everything to make trouble. What should I do toward her and him.

MARIE M.

Since the young man is going with you now instead of the other girl, you may be sure he cares more for you than he does for her. Anything she says should be overlooked, because jealousy probably prompts her to talk as she does. Try not to be upset by what you hear from her, and also be most guarded in the things you tell her. Doubtless the friendship which once existed between the young man and the other girl gives them interests in common, and when they are thrown together they enjoy each other. This should not worry you, however, because you may be sure if the man wanted to go with her he would do so and would not seek your company.

She Should Speak.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Last summer one of my very dear friends met a young man who is a home guard. After she had gone with him several times she found that he was engaged to another girl. Although she loved him very dearly she would not have anything to do with him. Every time she sees him he speaks, but she doesn't speak. Now we have heard he has broken his engagement. Would you advise my friend to correspond with him again? There is another young man who would like her company but she refuses him because of her love for the former one.

WONDERING TIN SOLDIER.

Your girl friend has no cause to stop speaking to the young man merely because he was engaged. It was rude of her to do so and he may not care to speak to her again. I would advise, however, that she speaks the next time they meet. It would not be wise for her to correspond with him unless he writes first.

A CAUSE OF WOMEN'S ILLS

WOMEN OFTEN THINK THEY HAVE HEART TROUBLE, INDIGESTION, NERVOUS PROSTRATION, ETC., WHEN IT'S SIMPLY IRON STARVATION OF THE BLOOD.

Many women believe they are weak and nervous as a result of age, worry and overwork; they think that their disturbed digestion, headaches, heart palpitation, shortness of breath, pains across the back, etc., are due to some serious disease instead of the real cause—iron starvation of the blood. This is proven by the fact that when many of these same women take organic iron for awhile all their alarming symptoms quickly disappear and they become strong, robust and healthy. Iron is absolutely necessary to enable your blood to change food into living cells and tissue. Without it nothing you eat does you the proper amount of good—you do not get the strength out of it.

If you are not strong and well do not wait until you go all to pieces and collapse in a state of nervous prostration, but take some organic iron—Nuxated Iron—at once. But be sure it's organic iron and not metallic iron which people usually take and which is made merely by the action of strong acids on small pieces of iron. Organic NUXATED IRON is like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples and it often increases the bodily and mental vigor of weak, wornout women in two weeks' time.

Beware of substitutes. Look for the word "Nuxated" on every package and the letters N.I. on every tablet. Your money will be refunded by the manufacturers if you do not obtain perfectly satisfactory results. At all druggists.

Why Millions of Mothers Now Rely Upon Vicks

An "Outside" Treatment Bringing Quick Relief for Colds and Croup Without Internal Dosing

Vicks comes in salve form and is applied externally—can be freely used without the slightest harmful effect.

For croup and children's colds you just rub Vicks over throat and chest and cover with a warm flannel cloth. The ingredients—Menthol, Camphor, Eucalyptus, Thyme and Turpentine—are released as vapors by the body heat and inhaled with every breath all night long. At the same time Vicks is absorbed through and stimulates the skin like a poultice or plaster.

Colds go over night, croup is generally relieved within 15 minutes.

"If you are 10 to 100 pounds overweight you can easily and safely lose all that fat," says a French specialist. "For years I suffered with high blood pressure and heart trouble due to fifty pounds of excess fat. I was weak, short of breath and 'all in.' I could not find any clothes to fit me, and I was thoroughly disgusted with life until I found out about SAN-GRI-NA, a marvelous discovery. I know that a great many fat men and women are going through these same troubles to-day. And, for their benefit, I am glad to explain what I did to reduce and how they can easily and gradually lose a few pounds each week without any danger. Go to any good drug store and get a package of SAN-GRI-NA—(remember the name, and do not accept anything else, as nothing like this has ever before been offered to the American public).

"SAN-GRI-NA, the formula of a French physician, has been used in Europe in private practice, where enormous prices have been paid for it. Simply take two tablets before each meal and watch your fat disappear. Once you have started to take SAN-GRI-NA, you should feel greater pep and energy. No more tired feeling. SAN-GRI-NA is guaranteed absolutely harmless, and positive to relieve you or your money is refunded. Remember that is all I did to get rid of 50 pounds of unhealthy, ugly rolls of fat. I have not regained one pound since I stopped using SAN-GRI-NA. I look and feel years younger, and can sincerely recommend it to any fat man or woman."

Wills' Defi Obstacle to Dempsey-Gibbons Battle

Runyon Says

They Wrestle In Texas.
Sport is Quite Popular.
Big Leaguers Have Departed.
The Glories of Marlin.
Speaker's Old Home Town.

By DAMON RUNYON.
Copyright, 1925, International Feature Service, Inc.

THE Writer is traveling through Texas as this is written, over the Southern Pacific.

What is going on in sport in the Lone Star State?

Wrestling seems to be thriving in Houston, always something of a wrestling stronghold.

You see names of matmen mentioned in the papers who are apparently well known in these parts, though the East has yet to hear of some of them—"Red" Pigler, Paul Jones, Silvio Checco, Mike Ragan, Bobbie Burns, Vic Muhl.

"Toots" Mondt is, perhaps, the best known of the Texas wrestlers. He is still active in the game.

Baseball always receives much attention in Texas, even in the off season.

The Texas fans know the big leaguers better than the fans of any other region outside the big league jurisdiction. That is because it was the popular spring training ground of the big leaguer up to the last couple of years.

Florida has drawn the big leaguers away from Texas partly because Florida is nearer the big league centers, cutting down the item of transportation, and partly because the Florida towns offer stronger inducements.

The writer is not sure that the Florida climate is any better, if as good, for Spring conditioning as the climate of Texas.

In some parts of Florida where the ball players train it is apt to be monotonously hot. In Texas there is greater variety of temperature.

The greatest baseball training camp the writer has ever seen is the little town of Marlin, where the New York Giants trained for years, and the Chicago Cubs and Cincinnati Reds before them.

It lacks only hotel accommodations to make it the ideal spot for conditioning ball players. It has hot springs unsurpassed anywhere in the world.

The water works cures, well-nigh mircaulous, of rheumatism and blood and skin diseases. The writer does not exagerate when he tells you he has seen many persons carried off trains on litters, apparently hopelessly crippled, walking the streets of Marlin a week later.

Americans spend thousands of dollars every year to go to the famous spas of Europe for treatment. Marlin can give them water for far greater virtues than they can find in Europe. But, unfortunately, Marlin cannot also provide them with the hotel luxuries of the continent.

John J. McGraw and his Giants stuck to Marlin for about ten years.

McGraw to this day will tell you that it is the best training camp in the land. But you must give ball players something else besides climate and hot water.

McGraw finally moved on to San Antonio, magnificent Winter resort, and thriving metropolis of the great Southwest. Until he switched to Florida as a training camp, however, McGraw sent his pitchers to Marlin for preliminary conditioning.

He believed that the hot springs of Marlin "boiled out" the human system, made pilable the muscles of the human body, better than anything else.

Potters Win From Chinas By Big Score

Hall Five's Spurt in First Period is Overcome.

Completely outplaying their opponents after the first quarter, the Potters defeated the Hall China five, 55 to 24, last night in a "Y" industrial league court contest.

The Hall passers threatened to make a runaway of the game in the initial period, scoring six points before the Potters even approached the basket, with Mackey and Dyer taking the limelight.

Zook was the first to tally for the Potters and Hamilton followed with another two-pointer, cutting down the opposition's lead. Mackey, however, made two more double-deckers for the Halls and Dyer counted on a free throw, giving the china workers a seven point margin. Hamilton tossed in a field goal for the Potters and Johnson made two points from the foul line. The quarter ended with the Halls leading by the score of 11 to 8.

The Hall China threat, however, proved only a threat, for the Potters wiped out the former squad's lead in the second period and piled up a few extra points themselves. The Potters were ahead by the score of 24 to 13 at the end of the half.

During the third period the Potters continued to set the pace and the Halls were unable to keep step. The third period score was 56 to 19.

In the final quarter the Potters had things practically their own way. Hamilton, of the Potters, was the scoring star, with 13 field goals and four fouls. The all around playing of Guyton and Zook featured. Mackey Dyer and Heddleston were the China mainstays, Mackey leading his team in scoring.

The lineup

Potters		Hall China

McGraw Goes South Without Completing Reported Red Deal

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—John McGraw will leave today for his annual mid-windwinter vacation in the South, having consummated the trade reported to have been broached by the Cincinnati Reds, during the recent baseball meeting here. McGraw will remain in the South until the Giants report to him at Sarasota, Fla.

He had no comment to make on the district attorney's report of the baseball probe, beyond saying:

"I'm glad for Cozy's sake. He'll probably be able to go out and earn a living somewhere, now."

Glenmore Lassies Win Close Contest From St. Stephens

The Glenmore girls' basketball team defeated the St. Stephens sextet last evening on the St. Stephens court in a close contest that developed thrills throughout. The final score was 24 to 22. Miss Imbrie of the St. Stephens, and Misses Bowersock, M. Graham of the winners, were the leading scorers.

The lineup.

St. Stephens		Glenmore.

Dolan Will Carry Fight Into Court

Plans Civil Suit Against Landis if He's Not Reinstated.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Cozy Dolan, blacklisted coach of the New York Giants, will bring civil suit against Judge Landis for reinstatement, his attorney, Wm. J. Fallon, declared today following the local district attorney's probe into the baseball scandal. Fortified by the fact that the prosecutor's report failed to find him guilty of conspiracy, as charged by Jimmy O'Connell's confession, Dolan will seek immediate vindication, his attorney said.

"Cozy is innocent and Mr. Brothers' report practically gives him a clean bill of health," Fallon declared. "We intend to give Judge Landis a chance to reinstate him. If he doesn't, we will bring the matter into the courts. Dolan can not be kept on baseball's blacklist for an offense he knows nothing about."

Goodman-Anderson Battle Scheduled For Youngstowners

YOUNGSTOWN, Feb. 5.—All Zill, Youngstown's boxing promoter, apparently doesn't believe the world will come to an untimely end tomorrow, for he's busy lining up a fight card for Wednesday, February 11, in which he will headline Charley Goodman, of New York, the only lad who has a knockout victory over Carl Tremane, against Eddie Anderson, of Casper, Wyoming.

The fact that Goodman put Tremane away is proof of his ability. And Anderson is by no means a dub. Anderson handed Rosy Stoy a beating last summer at Idora park. He has been displaying a pleasing style of boxing in and around Cleveland lately.

Zill is trying to hook up George Meenahan, the Farrell fighter, with K. O. Sweeney, of Steubenville, in the semi-final.

There are quite a few things to be settled before the scrap is "in," but Zill believes he has the pair well on the way to signing contracts.

Pal Kansas, who has been boxing in Canton, will take on Harry McMillen, a worthy youngster from Cleveland, in the preliminary.

Forbes Field Stands Will Be Enlarged

Additional Seats, For 12,000 Fans, to be up by June.

Baseball in Pittsburgh has outgrown Forbes Field. The present big stadium, built in 1909 and considered at the time sufficiently large to take care of Pittsburgh's baseball crowds for the present generation, has, during the past few years, proven inadequate and thousands have, on numerous occasions, been forced to stand on the field to view their favorite pastime. To remedy this condition and to provide seats for everybody in attendance, the management of the Pittsburgh club last week contracted for additions to the present stand large enough to take care of 12,000 more fans and costing approximately $750,000. The new addition will have two floors, will be built as a continuation of the present grandstand down the right field foul line then swinging over into right-center field, and will increase the capacity of Forbes Field from 28,000 to 40,000. The new building will be of the latest reinforced concrete and steel construction and will match the general design of the present stand. Careful attention has been given to the line of sight, and a full view of the field is assured. The playing field, aside from a little shortening of the right field foul line will be unaffected by the addition. Work is now under way and the new addition will be ready for use about the last week of June, after which there will be plenty of seats for all patrons of Forbes Field.

The Pirate management has also announced that the mail order sale of tickets for the opening game of the 1925 season, Wednesday, April 22, is now open and orders will be filled in the order of receipt. The prices are the same as last season—Box seats $1.50 and reserved seats $1.25, tax included. All orders accompanied by check or money order and an addressed return envelope will receive prompt attention.

The Chicago Cubs are to be the Buccaneer's opponents for the Forbes Field opening series this year, and has special significance in that it will afford an excellent opportunity for judging the relative merits of the two teams since the big player swap of last fall which sent Charley Grimm, Rabbitt Maranville and Wilbur Cooper to the Cubs in exchange for George Grantham, who will be used in the outfield by Manager McKechnie, Victor Aldridge, a right hand first string pitcher and Albert Niehaus who will succeed Grimm at first base. The consensus of opinion among baseball followers is that the trade greatly benefited both clubs. The opening series, beginning on April 22 at Forbes Field, will give the fans a chance to judge for themselves.

Terris and Mandell Down to Limit for Their Scrap Friday

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—According to statements issued today from the rival camps, Tid Terris and Sammy Mandell, principals in tomorrow night's big lightweight contest are well within the required limit of 135 pounds and will indulge in only light exercise this afternoon. The men are regarded as the leading contenders for the lightweight title, vacated by Benny Leonard, and every reserved seat in the Garden has been sold.

Terris continued today to rule a slight favorite in the betting but Mandell had many supporters. They met once before, the official verdict being a draw.

Laughlin 4 and 6 Bowlers to Meet For Championship

The bowling teams of the Laughlin 4 and 6 plants will meet tonight on the Liberty alleys with the plant pin championship at stake.

Both squads have been assaulting the maples effectively and high scores are anticipated. The battle will begin at 7:45.

Nurmi Disregards Ray's Challenge to Run Special Mile

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Advisers of Paavo Nurmi, world's greatest runner, said today that the great Finn would go through with his program of running three thousand meters at the Wilco games on Saturday, regardless of Joie Ray's challenge to meet him at a mile.

"Nurmi has laid his plans to run the longer distance and can not alter them at this late hour," Hugo Quist, his manager, declared. "If Ray was so anxious to meet him at the mile he had plenty of chance to mention the fact before this. It is absurd for Ray to insinuate that Nurmi fears to meet him at the mile distance or that Paavo is naming his own distances with this idea in mind. The public seems to want records and Nurmi is trying to oblige by running longer races because they give him a greater chance to break records at intermediate distances."

In a letter to the Wilco officials, made public today, Ray withdrew from the Wilco 3,000 metre race in favor of a special race at one mile, challenging Nurmi to do likewise.

Kenyon Five Faces Big Job in Holding Lead in Conference

GAMBIER, Feb. 5—Holding the lead in the Ohio Conference this month will be strenuous work. Little Kenyon's basketball team with its record of six games played and six won faces a February schedule of seven formidable rivals to be met in four weeks.

On February 7th Kenyon plays Baldwin-Wallace at Gambier; on February 10th Mt. Union at Alliance; on February 14th Miami at Gambier; on February 20th Wittenberg at Springfield; on February 21st, Ohio at Athens; on February 27th Ohio at Gambier and February 28th Muskingum at New Concord.

Of the seven opposing teams, Mt. Union also has a clean slate of winnings, having played three and won three. Ohio has lost only one in five and Wittenberg one in three. Muskingum and Miami are old rivals in spite of the four games each has lost. These teams will meet Kenyon with a will to win which may be expected to make the contests spirited.

The narrow margin of skill and intelligence, which makes the difference between good teams and championship teams, has been held so far this year by Kenyon. Each game has been marked by beautiful team work, taking the slightest openings for advantage, sureness of shooting and passing.

A six game record in the Ohio Conference means real work and Kenyon deserves a claim for pulling herself out of last year's sixteenth place to first place. The Kenyon five's record is one of the high spots of the 1924-25 season.

Major Charles Daly May Draw Harvard Grid Coach Post

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 5.—Speculation was plentiful today as to who would be elected to take the place of Robert T. "Bob" Fisher, head football coach at Harvard since 1909. Fisher resigned for business reasons. In the Fisher resignation many saw the way paved for the election as head coach of Major Charles D. Daly, who is coming to Harvard as commander of the reserve officers training corps.

Negro's Challenge, Friends Say, Should Be Taken Up First

New York State Commission Would be Forced to Honor Colored Man's Claim for Bout or Violate Own Precepts.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—A new impediment for the proposed return meeting of Jack Dempsey and Tom Gibbons in this state came to the surface today with the announcement that pressure may be brought to bear upon the New York state Athletic commission to force it to refuse sanction for the affair, if and when formal application for a permit is made. Friends of Harry Wills, the perennial colored gent in the woodpile, are said to be behind the movement which is founded upon the fact that Wills has a prior challenge on file.

This, according to the commission's code, would give Wills' defi precedence over that of Gibbons, and failure to recognize this fact would place the board in the equivocal position of violating its own precepts.

Mickey Walker and Mike McTigue, among others, stand convicted of lese majeste in this state because they failed to accept challenges, duly leveled at them through the medium of the commission. Walker has been under suspension since time out of memory and all boxers who saw fit to frolic with him in alien rings suffered the same fate. McTigue is outside the jurisdiction of the board because he never applied for a license here but the commission has let it be known that Michael is looked upon with heavy disfavor.

Few persons hereabouts believe that Wills has anything but an odds-on chance with Dempsey. As one boxing man of more than ordinary horse sense put it today:

"I wouldn't walk across the street to see the thing. Wills has never shown me a thing."

Yet the colored men has had a serious challenge on file for years without getting anywhere in particular on the issue.

Dempsey even signed an agreement to met him several years ago but the whole matter has been allowed to go by default. When Firpo came up from nowhere with his spectacular rush, it was the Latin and not Wills who got the big shot at the title.

Laughlin Shopmen To Talk Baseball At Friday Meeting

Tentative plans for the 1925 baseball season will be discussed by representatives of the six Laughlin shops at a meeting tomorrow night in the Y. M. C. A., according to announcement by Joe Dickey, Laughlin welfare director.

It is possible that team managers will be named. Both the East End and the Newell plants will have clubs, it is understood, and probably will be members of the "Y" industrial circuit.

Paris Opera Plans Special Track to Let Nurmi Perform

PARIS, Feb. 5.—Paavo Nurmi will have a chance to show his wares in the Paris opera, Echo Des Sports announced today. The Finnish world champion distance runner, who last night established his seventeenth and eighteenth world records since arriving in America, has been invited to compete here in the spring. A 200 metre track will be constructed in the opera for his appearance, the newspaper stated.

Sid Barbarian Will Not Show Wares in Boxing Tournament

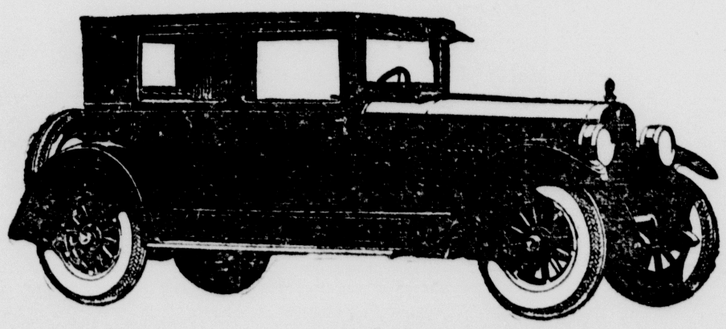

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 5.—Sid Barbarian will not enter the lightweight elimination tournament in New York, it was announced today. According to Sam Pearlstein, Barbarian's manager, Sid has beaten practically all of the fighters named to compete, but is willing to meet Sid Terris and Sammy Mandell. Barbarian has signed to meet George "Kayo" Chaney in Madison Square Garden, and may make a trip to the Pacific coast.

The most remarkable tobacco ever offered to pipe smokers — in quality, in value, in taste

Back about 1870, James N. Wellman developed a secret tobacco process which won instant and widespread favor. It yielded a fuller-bodied richness, mildness and fragrance which just seemed to "go" with a pipe. No one else ever knew his secret until we acquired "Wellman's Method" and by its means made "Granger Rough Cut"

Runyon Says:

For that matter, anywhere in Texas in the Spring is considered good training ground. The entire State has what the big leaguers are seeking, CLIMATE and WEATHER.

Clubs have trained at Houston, Galveston, Dallas, Corsicana, Wichita Falls, Marlin, Mineral Springs, Temple, Texarkana, San Antonio, Waco, Brownsville and a score of other cities of the Lone Star State in the past.

Thus Texas is rich in baseball tradition. This will probably be the first year in many years that not one big league club will train in Texas. Eleven go to Florida, two to Louisiana, and three to California.

It has probably sent more ball players to the big leagues than any other State in the union—that is native born players.

A noted son of Texas is Tris Speaker, manager of the Cleveland club, who comes from the little town of Hubbard. The writer once stood on the rear platform of a train with Speaker one night approaching Hubbard. Speaker was eager to point out his home town.

A brief flare of lights out of the darkness—

"That's it!" said Tris, proudly. "Right there!"

"What?" asked the writer, "that little bunch of lights?"

"Yes, sir!" replied Speaker. "That's the main stem!"

The writer noted that Speaker is in Hubbard with his bride at this writing.

He waited until he was mature, settled, "well fixed" before he married, also until he found the right girl which is more important.

He is a fine man, of high principles, INTELLIGENT. He is a good loyal son of Texas, a splendid citizen.

The Texas League is a prosperous organization. The president is an old acquaintance of the writer, Doak Roberts, of Houston, able baseball man.

He has been identified with baseball in Texas many years. He once owned the Houston club. Galveston has recently dropped out of his circuit.

The Fort Worth club of the Texas League is managed by Jakey Atz, a man of such striking managerial ability the writer marveis that some big league club has not sought his services.

Jakey Atz has won five consecutive pennants for Fort Worth. As the writer told you when speaking of the amazing exploit of Jack Dunn, of Baltimore, in winning SIX consecutive penants, it is just as difficult to win a pennant in a minor league as in a major league.

But, perhaps, like Dunn, Jakey Atz wouldn't go to the big leagues if he got an offer. Perhaps he is CONTENTED at Fort Worth. That is worth a great deal.

Grovers Have Lost One Game This Year; Mountaineers Work

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Feb. 5—Information received here reveals that Grove City college cagers, who come here Saturday night to meet the West Virginia University quint, have lost only one game so far this season. The news was a surprise to most Mountaineer fans as many had the impression that the Crimson quint had been defeated two or three times.

Geneva College, conqueror of Pitt, Wash-Jeff and others, is the only team holding a decision over Grove City at this time. On their own account the Grovers have humbled Weynesburg, Westminster, Pitt and Thiel. Friday evening Coach Bo Thorn will send the Crimson team against Carnegie Tech, a machine that holds a victory over Geneva.

Grove City's probable lineup lists Captain Fleming and Stevens, forwards; Sweet, center; and Rose and Pilotte guards. It is a veteran team as this is the fourth season at Grove City for Captain Fleming and the second for Rose, Pilette, Stevens and Sweet. Two men in their third year of basketball at Grove City are on the sidelines. They are Jerry Fay, giant center and Ross, veteran guard, and the fact that they are on the bench offers conclusive proof that the Crimson five is much stronger now than at any time last winter.

Smith-Phillips and Potters Clubs Win Y Indoor Clashes

The Potters and the Smith-Phillips teams were winners last night in "Y" industrial indoor baseball league engagements, the Potters downing Laughlin 6, 7 to 5, and the Oaklanders beating the Adamants, 14 to 6.

The Adamants have replaced the Laughlin 5 club in the loop, the latter outfit withdrawing.

The tip is out among the boxers that the "big money" is in California, where the game has just been legalized by the state. The influx of ring stars to that territory has begun. Mickey Walker, welterweight champ; "Kid" Caplan, unofficial welterweight champion; Pal Moore, Tommy Loughran; Sammy Mandell and several other more or less well known gladiators have gone to the coast to get in on the aforementioned money.

MIDLAND MAN IS GIVEN FREEDOM

The case of Thomas Smith of Midland, convicted of keeping a disorderly house and sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution, a fine of $500 and serve six months in the Allegheny county workhouse, came to an end yesterday when Judge Frank E. Reader at Beaver in an opinion stated that if Smith would pay the fine imposed by the court within 15 days the prison sentence would be withdrawn.

After the trial and subsequent sentence Smith's attorney produced medical testimony to show that the convicted man was physically unfit to serve time in the workhouse and the court set a period in which he was to report again. Time after time Smith had medical men testify that his health was so impaired that a prison sentence would be dangerous to his life.

Orchestra Practice.

Noon-Day Meeting.

Adjutant J. G. Dean of the Salvation Army, was in charge of the shop meeting at noon today in the Smith-Phillips pottery. He was assisted by members of the organization.

POEMS THAT LIVE

My Luve's Like a Red, Red Rose.

That's newly sprung in June;
O my Luve's like the melodie
That's sweetly played in tune.

As fair art thou, my bonnie lass,
So deep in luve am I,
And I will luve thee still, my dear,
Till a' the seas gang dry:

Till a' the seas gang dry, my dear,
And the rocks melt with the sun;
I will luve thee still, my dear,
While the sands o' life shall run.

And fare thee weel, my only Luve!
And fare thee weel awhile!
And I will come again, my Luve,
Tho' it were ten thousand mile.

VERSE AND WORSE

Beautiful Things.

Th' hands thet are fairest ain't pleasin t' see
Unless you hev dropped off t' sleep
A feelin' their grace softly smoothin' yer face
At night when th' deep shadders creep;
Unless yuh hev watched 'em a tillin' away
For someone both homely an' small.
Ther's gotta be more than th' looks o' them or
Their beauty ain't beauty at all.
The eyes that are purtest never kin gleam
With splendor entrancin' an' true
Unless through th' years you hev seen 'em with tears
Theet fell fer th' troubles o' you;
Unless they hev smiled at a wee form that she
Holds tenderly claspt t' her breast—
Soft, love-lighted eyes; oh, their charm never dies
Fer those are th' eyes thet are best.
Tt' beautiful face—there are wrinkles thet lie
Like furroughs across it; an' oh?—
Its halo a sight thet is silvery white
Because she has sighed fer yuh so—
Her crown o' devotion an' service an' love;
An' no other face kin yuh meet
So tender an' fine an' so near t' divine,
An' oh!—so entrancingly sweet.

The other day I read of the death of a great man. The cause of his death, it is said, was Bright's disease. Dietary discretion, earlier in life, might have given this nation 20 more years of his very valuable service.

Endured Misery of Piles for Years

In Agony Most All the Time. Writes This Grateful Letter

202 Carolina Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Gentlemen—I was afflicted with the worst case of piles that you can imagine. For years I tried remedy after-remedy without obtaining any lasting benefit, and when the Hamadala Pile Tablets were recommended to me I felt it would be only another useless experiment, but I was willing to take another chance as I had got to where I was in agony about all the time.

After I commenced taking the second box I began to see results, and today I am absolutely cured of my trouble, and have almost forgotten that I ever had the piles. Hamadala Tablets have made a new man of me, and I want to do everything I can to bring them to the attention of those who are suffering as I was.

Very truly yours, W. STEDMON.

The Hamadala treatment is an inexpensive internal constitutional treatment for blind, bleeding or protruding piles that comes in tablet form. It is dispensed under refund guarantee by G. G. Anderson, Carnahan's Drug Stores, Jesse D. Holloway, and all good druggists.

LABOR COUNCIL TO O. K. MUNICIPAL COURT

INVITE TWO LAWYERS TO EXPLAIN PROPOSAL AT MEETING ON FEB. 18

Guns of Speakers Representing Subordinate Unions are Turned on Justices of Peace and Other Minor Magistrates, When Legislative Measure is Discussed at Regular Session.

"JUSTICE ON COMMISSION BASIS" CHARGED BY DELEGATE LAST NIGHT

Attorneys W. F. Lones and Frank E. Grosshans Promise to Explain East Liverpool Bill at General Meeting of Representatives of Locals in Trades' Assembly Hall.

Trades and Labor council will endorse the proposed municipal court for East Liverpool.

This prediction was made today by a representative of the central labor organization, following a meeting last night, in which the measure, sponsored by State Representative R. W. Emmons, of East Rochester, for presentation in the legislature at the present session, was discussed.

Guns of members of the labor assembly were turned on courts of justices of the peace and other minor magistrates, in which reference was made to alleged practices.

One speaker assailed what he termed "justice on a commission basis."

The consensus of opinion was that the municipal court, not only would save money for litigants and increase city revenues, but also would prove an improvement over the present system of administering justice in minor tribunals.

Endorsed Plan Two Years Ago.

Attorney W. F. Lones and Frank E. Grosshans were invited to deliver addresses at the next regular meeting of the labor council on the proposed court. They will be requested to explain the plan.

It was announced today that the two lawyers had accepted the invitation.

Representatives of all subordinate labor unions in East Liverpool will attend the session which will be held in the assembly's hall, Golding building, Washington street.

President J. C. Higgins and Vice President William Ashbaugh had charge of last night's meeting.

The labor body endorsed the proposed municipal court bill which was vetoed two years ago by Gov. Donahey. The measure also was approved by civic organizations.

KIWANIS URGE COMFORT ROOM

Motor Club Secretary Condemns Gasoline Tax Measure.

The proposed establishment of a public rest room, near the central part of the city, for the convenience mainly, of strangers who visit here, was discussed at the weekly meeting of the Kiwanis club, in the Larkins annex, Market street, at noon today. The matter was referred to the public affairs committee, of which Charles Hendershot is chairman, for an investigation, with instructions that the committee report its findings within two weeks.

John W. Moore brought up the question. Mr. Hendershot declared that the proposition has been before the club a year or two ago but the time for launching the project was not believed opportune then. T. V. Milligan, Mayor Charles Brown and Sylvester Williams spoke in favor of the movement, declaring it to be one of the city's greatest needs.

E. M. Diehl, secretary of the Columbiana County Motor club, appeared before the club members to condemn the Brown gasoline tax bill now before the legislature. He asserted that the Ohio State Automobile association is opposed to the measure, unless there is a reduction in license fees. He said that the automobile owner pays a federal tax when he buys his car, a personal property tax also is compelled to buy his state license, all of which amounts to 10 mills. Other property is taxed at three mills he declared. He lauded State Representative Ralph Emmons for his efforts in attempting to incorporate a license reduction clause in the gas tax measure.

Frank Swaney said the proposed bill was unfair and unjust.

The club took no action but referred it to the committee on public affairs for investigation.

Dr. G. E. Lewis, president of the club, was in charge of the meeting which was attended by about 60 members. H. B. Keys and Samuel Newell were introduced as new members. The attendance prize, a pair of opera glasses, furnished by Dr. James Jackson, was awarded to Wilbur Glenn.

Letters were read from Two Columbiana county girls in the girls' industrial school, at Lancaster, thanking the club for Christmas gifts. The names were furnished the club by Probate Judge Lodge Riddle.

J. O. Heddleston made a report of the costs of teeth and eye treatments given the children of mothers drawing mothers' pensions, which work was referred to the club by the probate court last year. The bills were ordered paid.

DR. J. O. CAMPBELL CLASS SPEAKER

Dr. J. O. Campbell, pastor of the Second United Presbyterian church, will conduct the educational class in economics at the Y. M. C. A. beginning at 7 o'clock tonight. This is the third meeting of this class.

"Taxation" will be the subject of Dr. Campbell's lecture.

BLAME MISTAKE OF PHARMACY STUDENT FOR POISON DEATHS

PROBE RESUMED

Unintentional Error Proves Fatal to Two Youths.

COLUMBUS, Feb. 5.—Search for the poisoner who, by design or accident, is believed responsible for the deaths, by strychnine, of two Ohio State university students and narrow escapes from death of at least three other students was being pushed early this afternoon by Columbus detectives and officials of the university.

COLUMBUS, Feb. 5.—The possibility that distribution of strychnine among Ohio State University students, which, seemingly, resulted in the death of two students and illness of four others, might have been due to an unintentional mistake on the part of some pharmacy student loomed here today.

Dean Claire A. Dye, of the College of Pharmacy, today announced he had discovered a bottle containing strychnine on a shelf in the dispensary in the university campus. Previous to this discovery, Dr. Dye had voiced belief that all the strychnine in his department was intact.

Finds Bottle of Poison.

Prof. Dye's discovery was made while renewing his inspection of the stock in the dispensary from which the capsuled strychnine is believed to have been distributed. He found a one-ounce bottle containing about 300 grains of the deadly poison. It bore a white label on which was written "strychnine" in blue pencil marks. Dye was unable to explain how the bottle came to be on the shelf.

Police Prosecutor Chester and City Detectives Carson and Cox, in the lecture room at the pharmacy building this morning, began questioning, behind closed doors, practically 100 students who are said to have had access to the stock in the dispensary, or laboratory.

No university officials were permitted to witness the interviewing. One student was called before the probers at a time.

The men were employed at the refinery, operating the large "breaking unit". The large tank sprung a leak and the oil which flowed out in a heavy stream ingnited and showered the men with a sheet of flame.

Taylor's body was burned to a crisp and Sommers' body was also terribly burned. Taylor leaves a widow and three children. Sommers leaves a brother, William Sommers, of Columbus.

Mrs. Dewar was awakened during the night by a noise near the garage. Mr. Dewar quickly dressed, but before he could reach the garage two men broke into the building and drove away in his coupe.

Constantinople Parliament Approves Expulsion of Ecumenical Patriarch — Nation Ready to Defend Sovereignty Against Aggression.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 5.—Turkey wishes to safeguard peace, but will not hesitate to defend Turkish sovereignty against aggression. The Turkish government does not fear any Greek military measures, which may arise from the expulsion of the Greek ecumenical patriarch from Constantinople.

This was the attitude of the Turkish parliament today, approved without a dissenting vote after a spirited declaration to the assembly by Rothi Bey. Premier Kemal Pasha was present during the speech and the unanimous vote of approval.

Rothi Bey further declared that the expulsion of the patriarch was in accordance with the decisions of the commission on exchange of population. He regretted that "Greek statesmen are attempting to create a movement hostile to Turkey."

Turkey stands ready, he declared, to check with armed intervention, any attempt of Greece to infringe Turkish rights.

Athens Fans War Spirit.

ATHENS, Feb. 5.—Popular opinion was being constantly fanned today toward war with Turkey. A movement has been started to raise a volunteer army and many former officers are identifying themselves with it.

One wealthy Greek has issued a bambastic circular, promising he will furnish funds if Greece comes to blows with Turkey over the removal of the ecumenical patriarch from Constantinople.

The government attitude shows more restraint. Premier Michalakoupolos, after conference with the French and British ministers, stated it was his wish to avoid war.

Some significance was attached to the announcement at this time by the Serbian minister that Serbia was concluding a military treaty with Greece.

The Turkish reply to the Greek note of protest has not been received. It was reported today that it contains the treaty of new expulsions.

Shipping interests were worried over the safety of Greek vessels in the black sea. Owners are ordering their ships home and holding up any scheduled sailings for Turkey.

LONDON, Feb. 5.—Semi-official efforts of the allies to calm down the Greco-Turk situation have met with "measures of success," it was said in foreign office circles today. Great Britain, it was said, does not look for actual trouble.

Citizens of the county, by a petition, requested Governor Donahey to further the investigation, following a "no bill" by the first jury to investigate the killing.

CALL HEARING ON YOUNGSTOWN ROAD QUESTION

Three New Routes for Highway Have Been Suggested.

A fourth hearing on the proposed route of the East Liverpool-Youngstown Inter-county highway, between East Liverpool and Rogers, will be held at the court house in Lisbon, Thursday, February 26, County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk announced today.

Road construction in the eastern section of Middleston township, it was said, is responsible for the state highway department's action in calling another hearing. The department failed to announce it's decision relative to the route of the highway, following a hearing held at Lisbon several months ago.

Good roads boosters of Middleton township appeared before the commissioners last fall suggesting that the improvement of the Youngstown-East Liverpool county road, known as inter-county highway No. 502 again be taken up with the state highway department. The state bureau at the time of the hearing on the Youngstown-East Liverpool road also heard arguments relative to the route of the Wellsville-Salineville highway.

BY CARL W. HARRIS.

CAVE CITY, Ky., Feb. 5.—All efforts to rescue Floyd Collins by means of the torturous, twsited passage into Sand cave, in a pocket of which he has lain imprisoned, pinioned by a boulder for six days, were abandoned here shortly after 9 o'clock this morning. Under orders from General H. H. Denhardt, commandant of the military area established at Sand cave, the tunnel through which Collins entered was closed and sealed and work of sinking a two-foot shaft to the spot where it has been estimated Collins lies, was started immediately.

Victim May Be Buried Alive.

The work, engineers estimate will require about two days—two days during which Collins will be more completely buried alive than at any time since the boulder made him a prisoner.

He will be cut off completely from communication and food supplies while 55 feet above him, a donkey engine and dynamite blasts send their reverberations and vibrations through the resonant sandstone formation, adding their terrors to the rumble of falling rocks in the inky blackness of the living grave.

Dawn, which paled the campfires dotting the virgin hillside and turned to life the silent silhouettes of more silent men, pacing to and fro restlessly, monotonously, dully, over slippery slimy, mud-covered rock, broke over a town from which virtualy every hope of rescuing Collins had fled.

Guardsmen On Duty.

The iron hand of martial law clamped shut over Sand cave and its immediate vicinity when Brigadier General Denhart arrived with staff officers and took charge of the situation.

Guardsmen were posted at strategic points along the cliffs overlooking the cave's entrance and scores of apparently idly curious who for days have have roamed at will about the scene, hindering the rescue work and bringing chaos to a situation already tense from nerves strained almost to the snapping point, today met crisp, military challenges.

HANNA TAXICAB COMPANY QUITS LOCAL FIELD; CARS ARE REPLEVINED

The Hanna Taxicab company, who have been operating the Checker cabs, has quit the East Liverpool field, it was announced today.

Two cars, which were being used in the East Liverpool business and another in operation in Salem, headquarters of the company, have been seized by Sheriff George Wright on a writ of replevin, obtained by the Checker Cab company of Kalamazoo, Mich.

It is alleged that Marion and Dallas Hanna, operators of the Hanna Taxi-Cab company, gave notes secured by chattel mortgages on the cabs when they were purchased for the East Liverpool business. It is claimed that the taxi operators have been unable to meet these notes.

The Hanna company first began operations at Salem, but less than a year ago established an office in West Sixth street near the Diamond. The office here was closed Tuesday evening.

The company will continue in the taxicab business at Salem, it is understood, as soon as the suit is settled.

LABOR COUNCIL TO O. K. MUNICIPAL COURT

INVITE TWO LAWYERS TO EXPLAIN PROPOSAL AT MEETING ON FEB. 18

Guns of Speakers Representing Subordinate Unions are Turned on Justices of Peace and Other Minor Magistrates, When Legislative Measure is Discussed at Regular Session.

"JUSTICE ON COMMISSION BASIS" CHARGED BY DELEGATE LAST NIGHT

Attorneys W. F. Lones and Frank E. Grosshans Promise to Explain East Liverpool Bill at General Meeting of Representatives of Locals in Trades' Assembly Hall.

Trades and Labor council will endorse the proposed municipal court for East Liverpool.

This prediction was made today by a representative of the central labor organization, following a meeting last night, in which the measure, sponsored by State Representative R. W. Emmons, of East Rochester, for presentation in the legislature at the present session, was discussed.

Guns of members of the labor assembly were turned on courts of justices of the peace and other minor magistrates, in which reference was made to alleged practices.

One speaker assailed what he termed "justice on a commission basis."

The consensus of opinion was that the municipal court, not only would save money for litigants and increase city revenues, but also would prove an improvement over the present system of administering justice in minor tribunals.

Endorsed Plan Two Years Ago.

Attorney W. F. Lones and Frank E. Grosshans were invited to deliver addresses at the next regular meeting of the labor council on the proposed court. They will be requested to explain the plan.

It was announced today that the two lawyers had accepted the invitation.

Representatives of all subordinate labor unions in East Liverpool will attend the session which will be held in the assembly's hall, Golding building, Washington street.

President J. C. Higgins and Vice President William Ashbaugh had charge of last night's meeting.

The labor body endorsed the proposed municipal court bill which was vetoed two years ago by Gov. Donahey. The measure also was approved by civic organizations.

KIWANIS URGE COMFORT ROOM

Motor Club Secretary Condemns Gasoline Tax Measure.

The proposed establishment of a public rest room, near the central part of the city, for the convenience mainly, of strangers who visit here, was discussed at the weekly meeting of the Kiwanis club, in the Larkins annex, Market street, at noon today. The matter was referred to the public affairs committee, of which Charles Hendershot is chairman, for an investigation, with instructions that the committee report its findings within two weeks.

John W. Moore brought up the question. Mr. Hendershot declared that the proposition has been before the club a year or two ago but the time for launching the project was not believed opportune then. T. V. Milligan, Mayor Charles Brown and Sylvester Williams spoke in favor of the movement, declaring it to be one of the city's greatest needs.

E. M. Dehl, secretary of the Columbiana County Motor club, appeared before the club members to condemn the Brown gasoline tax bill now before the legislature. He asserted that the Ohio State Automobile association is opposed to the measure, unless there is a reduction in license fees. He said that the automobile owner pays a federal tax when he buys his car, a personal property tax also is compelled to buy his state license, all of which amounts to 10 mills. Other property is taxed at three mills he declared. He lauded State Representative Ralph Emmons for his efforts in attempting to incorporate a license reduction clause in the gas tax measure.

Frank Swaney said the proposed bill was unfair and unjust.

The club took no action but referred it to the committee on public affairs for investigation.

Dr. G. E. Lewis, president of the club, was in charge of the meeting which was attended by about 60 members. H. B. Keys and Samuel Newell were introduced as new members. The attendance prize, a pair of opera glasses, furnished by Dr. James Jackson, was awarded to Wilbur Glenn.

Letters were read from Two Columbiana county girls in the girls' industrial school, at Lancaster, thanking the club for Christmas gifts. The names were furnished the club by Probate Judge Lodge Riddle.

J. O. Heidleston made a report of the costs of teeth and eye treatments when the children of mothers drawing mothers' pensions, which work was referred to the club by the probate court last year. The bills were ordered paid.

BLAME MISTAKE OF PHARMACY STUDENT FOR POISON DEATHS

Bottle of Strychnine Found in O. S. U. Dispensary.

PROBE RESUMED

Unintentional Error Proves Fatal to Two Youths.

COLUMBUS, Feb. 5.—Search for the poisoner who, by design or accident, is believed responsible for the deaths, by strychnine, of two Ohio State university students and narrow escapes from death of at least three other students was being pushed early this afternoon by Columbus detectives and officials of the university.

COLUMBUS, Feb. 5.—The possibility that distribution of strychnine among Ohio State University students, which, seemingly, resulted in the death of two students and illness of four others, might have been due to an unintentional mistake on the part of some pharmacy student loomed here today.

Dean Claire A. Dye, of the College of Pharmacy, today announced he had discovered a bottle containing strychnine on a shelf in the dispensary in the university campus. Previous to this discovery, Dr. Dye had voiced belief that all the strychnine in his department was intact.

Prof. Dye's discovery was made while renewing his inspection of the stock in the dispensary from which the capsuled strychnine is believed to have been distributed. REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 5. — Railroad stocks were the leaders in the forward movement in prices in the early trading today.

The oils were active but profit-taking and switching to the rails and industrials resulted in the withdrawal of buying support from many of the active oil shares. Western oils were the most notable exception to this rule, this week's advance in California crude oil prices having given more stability to the stocks of companies operating in that territory, notably Pan-American, Shell Union, General Petroleum and Standard Oil of California.

The boom in railroad stocks and shipping companies' shares, which was in full swing at the close of Wednesday's market, continued today under the leadership of the stocks which featured the previous sessions. Southern railway spurted to 92 and established a new high price for all time. Missouri Pacific, common and preferred, the Katy stocks, Chicago Great Western, common and preferred, New Haven, Southern Pacific and other well known rails were swept along to higher price levels, representing gains of from five to 10 points over the low of last week.

The most favorable comment was heard in the speculative district relative to the very favorable showing of the transportation companies in January, when most of the previous records in the country's railroad traffic were shattered. Southern Pacific and Rock Island were in demand on reports that an agreement had been reached on the leasing or consolidation program, the southwestern rails commanded attention on rumors of pending consolidation and low priced shares like Western Maryland and Chicago and Great Western on hopes and expectations that some of these lines will be taken into the big transportation combinations now being worked out.

Shipping stocks continued to forge ahead, with Marine preferred in the lead. Universal Pipe, Cuba Cane Sugar preferred, American Locomotive, Studebaker were the center of active buying at the highest prices for the movement. Pan-American stocks were usually active and strong on reports of heavy buying by the Standard Oil and Morgan interests.

A decline of 49,900 barrels in daily production of crude oil, higher railroad earnings, larger operations of the steel companies, a bullish statement by Secretary Mellon and a three per cent call money rate were the principal factors affecting stock market sentiment. The grain markets were irregular; cotton fairly steady.

Blame Mistake

house, an Ohio State university fraternity, was turned over to the police. Arrangements were made for analyzing the contents of these pills and capsules which, apparently, had been thrown away.

Seven students today turned over to Dr. W. O. Thompson, president of the university, capsuled medicine given them at the university campus dispensary recently as treatment for colds. This medicine, too, will be analyzed, it was announced.

County, police and university officials today are co-operating in an effort to answer the question. As yet, they are completely baffled by the mystery surrounding the deaths of Charles H. Huls, Logan, and David Ruskin, Canton, and the illness of Timothy J. McCarthy, Fremont; Harold E. Gillig, Tiffin; George D. Thompson, Canton, and Edward A. Byron, Cincinnati, all students at the university.

Question 60 Students.

These young men numbered among the 59 university students who received, at the university dispensary last week, what was believed to be quinine and aspirin treatments for colds and similar ailments. Investigation thus far made, it was stated, point to the possibility that some person, in filling out prescriptions at the dispensary, deliberately mixed strychnine in capsules in the medicine thus distributed. Officials are unable, it appears, to determine upon a motive which might have promoted such fiendish misconduct.

Investigation officials planned today to question approximately 60 university students, registered in the College of Pharmacy, and who are said to have filled prescriptions at the dispensary. Chemical and medical examinations, conducted late Wednesday, proved conclusively, it was stated, that the death of Puskin and the illness of the other students resulted from strychnine poisoning. Although no autopsy has been held to determine the question, it is believed young Huls' death was due, also, to the same cause. Thompson and the other students, it was said, are out of danger.

Five Capsules Distributed

Probing officials today are endeavoring to ascertain how the strychnine reached the dispensary which distributed it among the students and what motivated the act.

Investigators have learned definitely that at least five capsules containing strychnine were thus distributed. They were received by Puskin, McCarthy, Thompson and Gillig. At least one such capsule, officials believe, went to Huls.

Belief that they could identify the student who filled their prescriptions was expressed by McCarthy and Gillig. Byron said a young colored man, in filling his prescription, 'fumbled about a long while before giving me the pills." Officials at the College of Pharmacy have no record that would definitely disclose who filled the prescriptions for Huls, Huskin and the other four students, it was stated.

Analyze 100 Capsules.

Of the 198 filled capsules in the quinine jar at the dispensary when the investigation started, 100 had been analyzed early today. None of them contained any trace of strychnine, it was announced. Examination of the remaining 98 capsules was being made today. This situation strongly supports the theory that some one at the dispensary deliberately placed one or two capsules of strychnine among the quinine capsules given each student.

Investigations at the university is being conducted by a committee of university officials including Dr. E. F. McCampbell, dean of the college of medicine; Claire E. Dye, dean of the college of pharmacy; Dr. James R. Withrow, department of chemistry; J. Lewis Morrill, alumni secretary, and James E. Pollard, director of the university's news bureau; City Police Prosecutor Chester, City Detectives Carson, Cox and Archer and County Detective Jones, representing Prosecuting Attorney King.

EXHAUST SERUM IN NOME FIGHT

Another Death, Several New Cases in Alaskan Epidemic.

By HARRY PHILLIPS.

NOME, Alaska, Feb. 5.—With one more dead and several new cases unofficially reported, Nome today faced its fight against diphtheria with its supply of anti-toxin practically exhausted.

The 300,000 units of life giving serum rushed to Nome Monday by dog teams over the icy tundra was almost used up early today and word of completion of plans for bringing the remedy here from the south by air plane was awaited.

Dr. Curtis Welch and nurses are working day and night in the fight against the disease, attempting to immunize all who have been exposed to the deadly germs.

The death of Mrs. R. C. McDowell, wife of the newspaperman, brought the death toll in the camp to six. There are now officially reported 30 cases, 31 suspects and 100 contacts.

McDowell, husband of the dead woman and one of the McDowell children have been stricken and were reported critically ill. McDowell was formerly connected with the Nome Nugget, the most northerly located newspaper in North America.

Seal Tunnel

cept workers and newspapermen, and what yesterday had been upwards of 100 at the cave entrance today had dwindled to a scarce dozen. Organized rescue work and maintenance was under way apparently for the first time in six days in which a man has lain dying in the earth bowels while those above argued and wrangled about reaching him.

Collins Silent—Perhaps Dead.

Today, more than 140 hours after he was trapped 150 feet below the surface by a giant boulder, Collins is just beyond the reach of human hands—silent—perhaps dead. His position, those who have been in say, is virtually unchanged from that it was six days ago. His pinioned leg, they say, is not freed, despite reports to the contrary.

There are no more people here than there have been for days. The work is progressing in more orderly fashion than it was at any time since it was started. Cave City, startled out of its sleepy, southern calm, gradually is readjusting itself to the bustle and excitement with which its two single streets are teeming. There have been no disorders.

Reports of Differences.

The surface quiet continues, but here and there are heard reports of differences over Sand Cave, bits of gossip and comment which tell of bitterly opposed groups which are, in some manner, interested in the outcome of this affair.

Their members, uncommunicative men, with faces weathered and worn by life in the hills, are clustered in little groups about the cave. They watch—and wait.

Guardsmen refuse to comment on the new order. But as they are questioned, their eyes wander out over the rolling hills to the east where lies Breathitt county—"Bloody Breathitt."

And, perhaps, they are answering them.

Last night saw the supreme effort of the local forces aiding in the rescue—the climax of puny man pitting his knowledge against the powers of nature massed in these age-old hills.

No Food for 30 Hours.

Collins lies pinioned in a half reclining position, dirt and debris and icy water falling over him and unable to move with the exception of one arm and one leg which are partly free.

He has had no food for 30 hours and 12 hours ago he complained to his rescuers that he was hungry—starving. The temperature of the cave is about 48 degrees, chill-laden with a penetrating dampness from ground water seeping through with a steady, monotonous drip, drip, drip, drip, and it is the opinion of physicians here that this is more than even the most extraordinary human endurance can stand.

Only a man of remarkable stamina and one who, through constant work in the caves, had become somewhat acclimated to their bitter chill, could have survived as long as Collins already has, they say.

Mystery of Tragedy

This, to them, is the mystery of the tragedy. They cannot explain it. They shake their heads when asked about it and admit it is a pathological freak, equal in its bizarreness to the accident itself.

"Ordinarily" Dr. William Hazlett, Chicago physician, sent here by Mrs. E. Blaine, wealthy Chicago woman philanthropist, a man in that position and environment would succumb to shock after the first 20 hours. The cold would lower his vitality and then pneumonia would develop. I should say that he would be dead in from 48 to 60 hours."

Collins' last words were spoken early today to his "buddy," Johnny Geralds, a leader in the rescue work.

"Go home now and go to bed," he told Geralds after repeated calls had failed to bring a response. Following this only moans met Geralds' questions.

Pal Gives His Verdict.

CAVE CITY, Ky., Feb. 5.—Dirty, muddy and shaking from exhaustion, Johnny Geralds, pal of Floyd Collins, in many cave adventures, this morning stood in the little slime-covered plateau under overhanging rocks which form the archway of the entrance to Sand cave where Collins has been trapped for more than 140 hours and gave his verdict.

"I have gone in there for the last time," he said slowly, carefully, as if perhaps he had rehearsed that speech after it had haunted his mind as he picked his way, squirming, almost prostrate through the torturous passage from the "squeeze" to the mouth.

"It's no use. I've had hope up to now, but the rock and mud is falling now faster than we can clear it out. Each time I go in the walls and roof look worse. There is more debris filling the passage now than there was before we cleared it all away yesterday morning.

Gerald bowed his head as the icy breath of the cave belched over the plateau. He moved over within a circle of light cast by an electric bulb, flickering eerily in the black darkness of a wilderness.

Rocks Falling Constantly.

"Floyd is getting weaker," he continued in the same measured tones. "He could not talk to me this time. While I was in there trying to make him answer me, mud and rock were falling constantly. It's on his body now. And I can't get there to move it.

"In moments when I was lying there resting, I could hear the crack of the rock, breaking up above and the incessant boom, boom, boom of heavy rock falling to great depths somewhere out beyond in the darkness. It was terrible.

"R-R-R-Rip, the walls and roof and floor go. And the sound echoes and re-echoes through the passages. Then there comes a rumble, terrifying there in the darkness. My hair seemed to stand on end and I'd close my eyes, thinking 'this is the end.' And then the final dull boom and then the whole thing over again.

"It may not be hopeless. I wouldn't want to say that. But—" and he paused to look about him, "I don't think I'll go in there again. Perhaps when I get rested, I'll feel differently, but now—" he looked toward the mouth of the cave—"well I—think—he's in there—forever."

200, ILL, ATTEND HEALING MEET

More Cures Reported by Rev. George M. Formby.

Approximately 200 sick persons were attended by Rev. George N. Formby, Florida faith healer, yesterday. About 165 of these attended two services which were conducted in the temporary quarters of the Church of the Nazarene, in the old K. & M. Dollar store, East Fifth street, in the afternoon and evening.

Clara Lazivoritz, 12-year old Greensburgh, Pa., girl, who has suffered from a paralyzed right arm for years, was among those who professed to have been cured. The child came to East Liverpool at the suggestion of her aunt, Mrs. A. Greenspon, 677 Lincoln avenue, who, Tuesday, it is claimed, regained the use of a paralyzed left arm.

Miss Helen Mae Shenkel, 517 Jefferson street, is said to have had her eyes straightened through faith. Mrs. George Spencer, Pennsylvania avenue, blind in one eye since birth, had her sight restored, it is reported. Another woman is purported to have obtained relief from diseased tonsils.

Efforts were being completed today to have the services transferred to the old Biederwolf tabernacle, Second and Washington streets, beginning Friday evening. Services this afternoon, tonight and Friday afternoon will be held in the Fifth street store room. The management of the Ceramic theatre today offered Mr. Formby use of the building for a service, Sunday afternoon, if he wished it.

Miss Stella Crooks, of Chicago, an evangelist for 20 years, and Miss Bertha Kearns, who has been engaged in missionary work in Japan will come here Tuesday to assist Rev. Fromby in next week's services.

Call Hearing

heard concerning the route to Youngstown. At present the designated road to Youngstown is via Calcutta, Sprucevale, Clarkson, Rogers and East Carmel.

Three other routes have been suggested.

In the previous hearings most of the discussion centered on what is known as the Sprucevale and the Bell school house routes. The shortest road is through Sprucevale, but the chief objection to this road is said to be the big grades. County Surveyor Kirk and former County Surveyor Herman Armstrong completed surveys of the Bell school house and the Sprucevale roads, submitting estimates as to the cost of the improvements. Representatives of the state highway department have also been taken over the two proposed routes to assist them in determining the most feasible road.

The fourth hearing was arranged by the state without the knowledge of the county commissioners. The state has not announced who will preside at the hearing.

BITTER FIGHT ON GAS TAX

House Favors Bill, But Senate Will Oppose it.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 5.—What promises to be a bitter fight over the Brown two-cent gasoline tax bill will get under way today when the house motor vehicle committee makes its report recommending passage of the measure. With the backing of a two to one vote in a house Republican caucus, passage of the measure by the house seems assured. The bill will appear on the third reading calendar in the house Monday afternoon, but a vote is not likely until Tuesday.

The big fight will come in the senate where the main opposition to the measure is centered. The conflict will revolve around the demand for a reduction of auto license fees to a nominal $3 flat rate.

Republican members of the senate today are on record as favoring passage of "a gasoline tax bill, even over Gov. Donahey's veto, but an attempt in caucus late Wednesday to align the majority members back of the Brown bill failed when Senators Bender, Cuyahoga, and Chappelaer, Pickaway, bolted the meeting after Senator Day, Cuyahoga, had proposed to pass the Brown bill even over the governor's veto.

Action on Gov. Donahey's appointments will go over until next week, including proposed confirmation of the reappointment of T. J. Duffy as a member of the state industrial commission.

house, an Ohio State university fraternity, was turned over to the police. Arrangements were made for analyzing the contents of these pills and capsules which, apparently, had been thrown away.

Seven students today turned over to Dr. W. O. Thompson, president of the university, capsuled medicine given them at the university campus dispensary recently as treatment for colds. This medicine, too, will be analyzed, it was announced.

County, police and university officials today are co-operating in an effort to answer the question. As yet, they are completely baffled by the mystery surrounding the deaths of Charles H. Huls, Logan, and David Ruskin, Canton, and the illness of Timothy J. McCarthy, Fremont; Harold E. Gillig, Tiffin; George D. Thompson, Canton, and Edward A. Byron, Cincinnati, all students at the university.

Question 60 Students.

These young men numbered among the 59 university students who received, at the university dispensary last week, what was believed to be quinine and aspirin treatments for colds and similar ailments. Investigation thus far made, it was stated, point to the possibility that some person, in filling out prescriptions at the dispensary, deliberately mixed strychnine in capsules in the medicine thus distributed. Officials are unable, it appears, to determine upon a motive which might have promoted such fiendish misconduct.

Investigation officials planned today to question approximately 60 university students, registered in the College of Pharmacy, and who are said to have filled prescriptions at the dispensary. Chemical and medical examinations, conducted late Wednesday, proved conclusively, it was stated, that the death of Puskin and the illness of the other students resulted from strychnine poisoning. Although no autopsy has been held to determine the question, it is believed young Huls' death was due, also, to the same cause. Thompson and the other students, it was said, are out of danger.

Five Capsules Distributed

Probing officials today are endeavoring to ascertain how the strychnine reached the dispensary which distributed it among the students and what motivated the act.

Investigators have learned definitely that at least five capsules containing strychnine were thus distributed. They were received by Puskin, McCarthy, Thompson and Gillig. At least one such capsule, officials believe, went to Huls.

Belief that they could identify the student who filled their prescriptions was expressed by McCarthy and Gillig. Byron said a young colored man, in filling his prescription, "fumbled about a long while before giving me the pills." Officials at the College of Pharmacy have no record that would definitely disclose who filled the prescriptions for Huls, Huskin and the other four students, it was stated.

Analyze 100 Capsules.

Of the 198 filled capsules in the quinine jar at the dispensary when the investigation started, 100 had been analyzed early today. None of them contained any trace of strychnine, it was announced. Examination of the remaining 98 capsules was being made today. This situation strongly supports the theory that some one at the dispensary deliberately placed one or two capsules of strychnine among the quinine capsules given each student.

Investigations at the university is being conducted by a committee of university officials including Dr. E. F. McCampbell, dean of the college of medicine; Claire E. Dye, dean of the college of pharmacy; Dr. James R. Withrow, department of chemistry; J. Lewis Morrill, alumni secretary, and James E. Pollard, director of the university's news bureau; City Police Prosecutor Chester, City Detectives Carson, Cox and Archer and County Detective Jones, representing Prosecuting Attorney King.

EXHAUST SERUM IN NOME FIGHT

Another Death, Several New Cases in Alaskan Epidemic.

By HARRY PHILLIPS.

NOME, Alaska, Feb. 5.—With one more dead and several new cases unofficially reported, Nome today faced its fight against diphtheria with its supply of anti-toxin practically exhausted.

The 300,000 units of life giving serum rushed to Nome Monday by dog teams over the icy tundra was almost used up early today and word of completion of plans for bringing the remedy here from the south by air plane was awaited.

Dr. Curtis Welch and nurses are working day and night in the fight against the disease, attempting to immunize all who have been exposed to the deadly germs.

The death of Mrs. R. C. McDowell wife of the newspaperman, brought the death toll in the camp to six. There are now officially reported 30 cases, 31 suspects and 100 contacts.

McDowell, husband of the dead woman and one of the McDowell children have been stricken and were reported critically ill. McDowell was formerly connected with the Nome Nugget, the most northerly located newspaper in North America.

cept workers and newspapermen, and what yesterday had been upwards of 100 at the cave entrance today had dwindled to a scarce dozen. Organized rescue work and maintenance was under way apparently for the first time in six days in which a man has lain dying in the earth bowels, while those above argued and wrangled about reaching him.

Collins Silent—Perhaps Dead.

Today, more than 140 hours after he was trapped 150 feet below the surface by a giant boulder, Collins is just beyond the reach of human hands—silent—perhaps dead. His position, those who have been in say, is virtually unchanged from that it was six days ago. His pinioned leg, they say, is not freed, despite reports to the contrary.

There are no more people here than there have been for days. The work is progressing in more orderly fashion than it was at any time since it was started. Cave City, startled out of its sleepy, southern calm, gradually is readjusting itself to the bustle and excitement with which its two single streets are teeming. There have been no disorders.

Reports of Differences.

The surface quiet continues, but here and there are heard reports of differences over Sand Cave, bits of gossip and comment which tell of bitterly opposed groups which are, in some manner, interested in the outcome of this affair.

Their members, uncommunicative men, with faces weathered and worn by life in the hills, are clustered in little groups about the cave. They watch—and wait.

Guardsmen refuse to comment on the new order. But as they are questioned, their eyes wander out over the rolling hills to the east where lies Breathitt county—"Bloody Breathitt."

And, perhaps, they are answering them.

Last night saw the supreme effort of the local forces aiding in the rescue—the climax of puny man pitting his knowledge against the powers of nature massed in these age-old hills.

No Food for 30 Hours.

Collins lies pinioned in a half reclining position, dirt and debris and icy water falling over him and unable to move with the exception of one arm and one leg which are partly free.

He has had no food for 30 hours and 12 hours ago he complained to his rescuers that he was hungry—starving. The temperature of the cave is about 48 degrees, chill-laden with a penetrating dampness from ground water seeping through with a steady, monotonous drip, drip, drip, drip, and it is the opinion of physicians here that this is more than even the most extraordinary human endurance can stand.

Only a man of remarkable stamina and one who, through constant work in the caves, had become somewhat acclimated to their bitter chill, could have survived as long as Collins already has, they say.

Mystery of Tragedy

This, to them, is the mystery of the tragedy. They cannot explain it. They shake their heads when asked about it and admit it is a pathological freak, equal in its bizarreness to the accident itself.

"Ordinarily" Dr. William Hazlett, Chicago physician, sent here by Mrs. E. Blaine, wealthy Chicago woman philanthropist, a man in that position and environment would succumb to shock after the first 20 hours. The cold would lower his vitality and then pneumonia would develop. I should say that he would be dead in from 48 to 60 hours."

Collins' last words were spoken early today to his "buddy," Johnny Geralds, a leader in the rescue work.

"Go home now and go to bed," he told Geralds after repeated calls had failed to bring a response. Following this only moans met Geralds' questions.

Pal Gives His Verdict.

CAVE CITY, Ky., Feb. 5.—Dirty, muddy and shaking from exhaustion, Johnny Geralds, pal of Floyd Collins in many cave adventures, this morning stood in the little slime-covered plateau under overhanging rocks which form the archway of the entrance to Sand cave where Collins has been trapped for more than 140 hours and gave his verdict.

"I have gone in there for the last time," he said slowly, carefully, as if perhaps he had rehearsed that speech after it had haunted his mind as he picked his way, squirming, almost prostrate through the torturous passage from the "squeeze" to the mouth.

"It's no use. I've had hope up to now, but the rock and mud is falling now faster than we can clear it out. Each time I go in the walls and roof look worse. There is more debris filling the passage now than there was before we cleared it all away yesterday morning.

Gerald bowed his head as the icy breath of the cave belched over the plateau. He moved over within a circle of light cast by an electric bulb, flickering eerily in the black darkness of a wilderness.

Rocks Falling Constantly.

"Floyd is getting weaker," he continued in the same measured tones. "He could not talk to me this time. While I was in there trying to make him answer me, mud and rock were falling constantly. It's on his body now. And I can't get there to move it.

"In moments when I was lying there resting, I could hear the crack of the rock, breaking up above and the incessant boom, boom, boom of heavy rock falling to great depths somewhere out beyond in the darkness. It was terrible.

"R-R-R-Rip, the walls and roof and floor go. And the sound echoes and re-echoes through the passages. Then there comes a rumble, terrifying there in the darkness. My hair seemed to stand on end and I'd close my eyes, thinking 'this is the end.' And then the final dull boom and then the whole thing over again.

"It may not be hopeless. I wouldn't want to say that. But—" and he paused to look about him, "I don't think I'll go in there again. Perhaps when I get rested, I'll feel differently, but now—' he looked toward the mouth of the cave—"well I—think—he's in there—forever."

200, ILL, ATTEND HEALING MEET

More Cures Reported by Rev. George M. Formby.

Approximately 200 sick persons were attended by Rev. George N. Formby, Florida faith healer, yesterday. About 165 of these attended two services which were conducted in the temporary quarters of the Church of the Nazarene, in the old K. & M. Dollar store, East Fifth street, in the afternoon and evening.

Clara Lazivoritz, 12-year old Greensburgh, Pa., girl, who has suffered from a paralyzed right arm for years, was among those who professed to have been cured. The child came to East Liverpool at the suggestion of her aunt, Mrs. A. Greenspon, 677 Lincoln avenue, who, Tuesday, it is claimed, regained the use of a paralyzed left arm.

Miss Helen Mae Shenkel, 517 Jefferson street, is said to have had her eyes straightened through faith. Mrs. George Spencer, Pennsylvania avenue, blind in one eye since birth, had her sight restored, it is reported. Another woman is purported to have obtained relief from diseased tonsils.

Efforts were being completed today to have the services transferred to the old Biederwolf tabernacle, Second and Washington streets, beginning Friday evening. Services this afternoon, tonight and Friday afternoon will be held in the Fifth street store room. The management of the Ceramic theatre today offered Mr. Formby use of the building for a service, Sunday afternoon, if he wished it.

Miss Stella Crooks, of Chicago, an evangelist for 20 years, and Miss Bertha Kearns, who has been engaged in missionary work in Japan will come here Tuesday to assist Rev. Fromby in next week's services.

Call Hearing

heard concerning the route to Youngstown. At present the designated road to Youngstown is via Calcutta, Sprucevale, Clarkson, Rogers and East Carmel.

Three other routes have been suggested.

In the previous hearings most of the discussion centered on what is known as the Sprucevale and the Bell school house routes. The shortest road is through Sprucevale, but the chief objection to this road is said to be the big grades. County Surveyor Kirk and former County Surveyor Herman Armstrong completed surveys of the Bell school house and the Sprucevale roads, submitting estimates as to the cost of the improvements. Representatives of the state highway department have also been taken over the two proposed routes to assist them in determining the most feasible road.

The fourth hearing was arranged by the state without the knowledge of the county commissioners. The state has not announced who will preside at the hearing.

BITTER FIGHT ON GAS TAX

House Favors Bill, But Senate Will Oppose it.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 5—What promises to be a bitter fight over the Brown two-cent gasoline tax bill will get under way today when the house motor vehicle committee makes its report recommending passage of the measure. With the backing of a two to one vote in a house Republican caucus, passage of the measure by the house seems assured. The bill will appear on the third reading calendar in the house Monday afternoon, but a vote is not likely until Tuesday.

The big fight will come in the senate where the main opposition to the measure is centered. The conflict will revolve around the demand for a reduction of auto license fees to a nominal $3 flat rate.

Republican members of the senate today are on record as favoring passage of "a gasoline tax bill, even over Gov. Donahey's veto, but an attempt in caucus late Wednesday to align the majority members back of the Brown bill failed when Senators Bender, Cuyahoga, and Chappelaer, Pickaway, bolted the meeting after Senator Day, Cuyahoga, had proposed to pass the Brown bill even over the governor's veto.

Action on Gov. Donahey's appointments will go over until next week including proposed confirmation of the reappointment of T. J. Duffy as a member of the state industrial commission.

Q. Why does traffic in this country keep to the right and in England to the left? W. B.

A. There have been innumerable suggestions concerning the practice of passing to the right in America as distinct from that of passing to the left in England. Gould in his "Right and Left-Handedness" is of the opinion that it is due to the fact that the earliest colonists were not preponderatingly English. Among the first Purital settlers there were many Dutch and to this France added her complement. They were from the continent where the custom of passing to the right had long been prevalent. During the early period of colonization, the people were accustomed to traveling afoot and even in England it was customary for pedestrians to go to the right even while vehicles went to the left. This custom of going to the right probably became fairly well established in America before vehicles were used to any great extent. When large wagons or "schooners" came into use, the driver being right-handed sat upon the near wheel-horse. He therefore sat on the right side to operate the brake with his right hand or foot. This was important in traveling over hilly country or ungraded roads. It can thus readily be seen that under these various influences the custom of going to the right at all times became firmly established.

Q. Is there a wireless beacon in Great Britain? G. E. R.

A. The first experimental wireless beacon in Great Britain has lately been constructed at Nash Point on the Welsh Coast, between Swansea and Cardiff. The installation transmits on a wave-length of 1,000 metres.

Q. Of whom did the family of Charles Dickens consist? C. C. C.

A. Charles Dickens had six children, two sons and four daughters. After the separation of Charles Dickens and his wife the oldest son remained with the mother, the rest of the children with the author. Charles Dickens only married once, Miss Catherine Hogarth, one of three sisters, for all of whom the author expressed great admiration and esteem.

Q. When was the Rose Window of the Rheims Cathedral destroyed? L. G. C.

A. The great Rose Window in the west facade of Rheims Cathedral was destroyed in the fire of September 19, 1914, resulting from incendiary shells.

Q. Besides the Mayflower, what were some of the vessels that brought over English colonists? L. T. T.

A. Endicott crossed in the Abigail The Ambrose, the Jewel and the Talbot are others.

Thief Embarrasses Binghamton Police; Pulls Clever Jobs

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Feb.—Authorities today would like to find a thief who has such an ironic sense of humor that he never fails to pick out the most embarrassing times and places for his burglaries.

He is the man, the authorities think, who recently robbed the Endicott police headquarters safe of $65; who this week robbed the residence of the Rev. George Capetanios, pastor of the Church of Christ on the evening when the clergyman opened a series of revival meetings, and who mailed back to Frank V. Inderlied, of Johnson City, a bunch of keys and a note saying, "Thank you very much," after he had rifled Inderlied's desk.

Government Economy

Every fresh evidence of governmental economy is welcome to the individual citizen. The public is delighted to learn that an annual budget not in excess of $3,000,000,000 is in sight. Naturally, too, the public is interested in knowing how such an improvement is effected.

In the first place, many comparatively small economics have been introduced, each one sensible and eminently worth achieving. Among those are the substitute of white string for the more expensive red tape for tying government documents, and of plain white mail bags for fancy striped ones. There is room for a considerable amount of economizing in similar fields. But such things alone cannot really bring about any major cuts in government expenditure.

These latter are to be found in the transition from war to peace activities, such as the final conclusion of government railroad administration. Perhaps the most expensive single department inaugurated as a direct result of the war was the veterans' bureau. Its extravagance and inefficiency have been curbed. It is getting its work properly in hand, with consequent financial economy.

It is well to remember that war is about the most expensive thing a civilized nation can indulge in, and that its expenses last long after peace is declared. In addition to a good budget system, the nation that would economize and lower its taxes must do the things that will prevent war and promote peace.

Home Without a Husband

"The first apartment house ever built for women only" is nearing completion in New York. It differs somewhat from men's bachelor apartments. Every suite has a good-sized kitchen, fitted with modern conveniences for cooking and breakfasting. It resembles men's quarters in having an all-night elevator, so that the tenants may stay out as late as they like.

The place is intended to cater chiefly to "the needs of stenographers, saleswomen, teachers and other workers who are living uncomfortably in rooming and boarding houses, and to provide them with a home, which every woman wants." No woman is allowed to lease an apartment if she is married or intends to marry soon. Though the rule against husbands is iron-clad, there is no barrier to dogs, cats, parrots, victrolas and radio sets.

If successful, this apartment house is to be followed by others. It should succeed. The tendency for unmarried and self-supporting women to make their own homes gains right along, and is a normal development to which there can be no sound objection.

Judicial Reform

The inefficiency of American court procedure in general is an old story. The bench and bar themselves have frankly admitted the lamentable delay and expense of justice in most of the courts under the present system. Legislatures and congress have tackled the subject, without much improvement.

"Give the courts the power to make their own rules, as changing conditions require," says the chief justice of the Ohio supreme court, "and justice will be simplified and speeded up."

There is a bill now pending in the senate at Washington which would empower the United States supreme court to establish rules for all federal courts. Legislatures may hesitate to grant similar powers to the state and municipal courts, yet that might be the best way out of a bad situation. If judicial power were abused, it could be restrained at any time by further legislative action.

"Our system of courts," says Dean Pound, of Harvard Law school, "is archaic and our procedure behind the times. Uncertainty, delay, expense and, above all, the injustice of deciding upon points of practice which are the mere etiquette of justice, have created a deep desire to keep out of court, right or wrong, on the part of every sensible business man in the community."

It may be always wise to try to keep out of court, reform or no reform. Nevertheless, any improvement which will make the judicial machinery run with less friction and turn out a better product of justice deserves to be tried.

Haskin Letter

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

SUPREME COURT SERVICE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—The retirement of Associate Justice McKenna from the supreme court after 27 years of service and the nomination by President Coolidge of Attorney General Harlan F. Stone to succeed him have recalled afresh some interesting and important characteristics of America's great tribunal.

One of these characteristics is the fact that justices of the supreme court continue in office long after the age when the average business or professional man withdraws from active participation in affairs, and in many instances long after they have passed the statutory limit of retirement.

Another peculiarity but one which is much less generally known is the fact that the supreme court has drawn its personnel from certain areas of the country to a much greater extent than from other areas. This tendency has marked the court from the very foundation of the government.

If Attorney General Stone is confirmed by the senate he will be the seventy-fourth American lawyer or jurist to graduate into the silk robes of the highest tribunal. Out of this grand total only eight have been men from the region west of the Mississippi river, while the majority of the personnel of the court has been supplied by less than one-fourth of the states of the union.

Seven states in fact have given the country 42 of the 74 members of the supreme court. These states represent in the main the most conservative sections of the country, both from a social and from an economic standpoint.

The first place on the honor roll of seven falls to New York, which will have its ninth representative of the court with the accession of Attorney General Stone. Next in line is Massachusetts with seven, Ohio with six, not including Chief Justice Taft, who was appointed from Connecticut, although he is a native son of the Buckeye state; Pennsylvania, Virginia, Maryland and Tennessee tie for fourth place, boasting five each.

Twenty-seven states have supplied the entire personnel of the court from 1789 to 1925, while it still remains for 21 states to have a citizen participate in the deliberations of the body which is regarded as in some respects the most powerful and influential factor in the American government.

Of course, the development of the country from east to west explains to some extent the distributino of personnel. It is true, however, that some states have always been more productive than others of the type of men fitted by training and temperament to fill the role of a supreme court justice.

It is interesting to note that the region of the country where the constitution and the integrity of the supreme court was made an issue by opposing political factions in the recent presidential election embraces a section which has thus far contributed but little to the membership of the body.

FOUR WESTERNERS NOW JUSTICES

Thus, Wisconsin, North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana, Idaho, Washington and Oregon are included in the 21 states that have never had a member. At the moment four members of the court are credited to the west, namely Justice McKenna, of California, who is retiring; Justice Willis Vandeventer, of Wyoming; Justice George Sutherland, of Utah, and Justice Pierce Butler, of Minnesota. Of the four only one, namely, Justice Butler, is a native westerner, born and reared in the state from which he was appointed. Justice McKenna was born in Philadelphia and Justice Vandeventer is an Indianan by birth, while Justice Sutherland was born in Buckinghamshire, England.

The continuity of supreme court tradition from decade to decade and from generation to generation is in no small degree due to the long service that has marked it as an institution apart. Fifteen to 20 years is an ordinary period of service.

Here is the way the story of these "Elder Statesmen" runs: Twenty-six of them handed down decisions continuously for a period of 20 to 30 years. Six of them passed the 30-year mark and of the six, four served for 34 years each. This was the record length of service, and it is interesting to note that while four members of the court reached the 34-year limit, no one ever exceeded it. The six who served 30 years or more had an aggregate tenure of 199 years, a period of service which would span far back into colonial days.

They were Bushrod Washington, Virginia, 31 years; John Marshall, Virginia, 34 years; John McLean, Ohio, 32; Joseph Story, Massachusetts, 34; Stephen J. Field, California, 34, and John M. Harlan, Kentucky, 34. It is generally conceded that some of these veterans of the bench, particularly Chief Justice Marshall and Justice Story, left an abiding impress on constitutional interpretations and on the structure of our legal code. Their years added weight to their findings and the dignity attaching to the court is in no small way due to the continuity of this long service tradition.

Turning to the chief justices there were only 10 of them all told, Chief Justice Taft being the tenth in the succession. These 10 men spanned the 136 years sonce the country became a nation. The roll call reads: John Jay, New York; John Rutledge, South Carolina; Oliver Ellsworth, Connecticut; John Marshall, Virginia; Roger B. Taney, Maryland; Salmon P. Chase, Ohio; Morrison R. Waite, Ohio; Melville W. Fuller, Illinois; Edward D. White, Louisiana; William Howard Taft, Connecticut.

It will be seen from the roll call that four of the seven states that contributed the majority of membership also contributed a chief justice, namely New York, Ohio, Virginia and Maryland. The average tenure of office was 14 years, while five members served in the aggregate 111 years, Marshall 34, Taney 28, Fuller 22 and White 27.

ONLY TWO ASSOCIATES PROMOTED

Contrary to what might be expected, only two of the 10 chief justices were elevated to that rank while serving as associate justice of the court. These were Chief Justice Rutledge back in 1795 and Chief Justice White in 1911. All the others were placed at the head of the court without prior experience as a member of the body.

The long service of some of the chief justices is all the more interesting when it is recalled that most of them were men of advanced years before they were elevated to this the highest judicial honor, which indicates that they were on the whole men of considerable physical vigor as well as intellectual and legal acumen. The youngest chief justice that the nation has had was also its greatest, namely, John Marshall. He was only 46 years old when he commenced handing down opinions which have affected the whole trend of development not only of the law but of the government itself.

The retirement of Justice McKenna and the expected retirement of Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes will remove two veterans. It will also mean that not in many years will there be so many new men on the court. President Harding made four appointments after June, 1921, when Taft was made chief justice. The present changes assuming that Justice Holmes retires, will mean that six out of the nine members of the court will be changed in less than four years.

So steeped in practice and tradition, however, has the court become that even a large number of changes in a comparatively short time has little or no effect on its procedure or its atmosphere. It is one of the few bodies in the world that has an entity and a character of its own, apart from the individuals who compose it.

"Oyez, oyez," from the crier will go on just the same. The old order does not change. The tradition of dignity and decorum will continue. Secrecy will be observed and references to pending cases will continue to draw wrath of every man who dons the silk robes, as it has been from the beginning. And politics will always be adjourned. Even social contacts will continue to be limited. A supreme court justice cannot afford the risk of too many people peeping into his mental processes.

What Appeared to be a Terrific Battle Between Mr. and Mrs. Jones—

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

By ETHEL MARSHALL.

LONDON, Feb. 5.—The number of American debutantes who will be presented at this season's royal courts will be larger than that of last year, it is reliably reported in court circles.

To counter-balance this there will be fewer English and Dominion debutantes presented.

Many mansions have already been taken by debutantes' parents in anticipation of the round of social engagements that usually precede and follow a presentation at court. Mrs. Peter Kerr-Smiley, formerly Miss Maud Simpson, of New York, has taken Lowdnes house, in the fashionable Belgrave square district, and is to give many parties. Her daughter is to be a 1925 debutante. Miss Edith Lowther, daughter of Mrs. Alice Lowther and granddaughter of Mr. Atherton Blight, of Philadelphia, is another American debutante who will be presented.

This season's courts will be held without the assistance of Sir Dougles Dawson, who for many years has been the state chamberlain.

His job was to see that everything went off without a hitch, and he might better be called the king's stage manager. He recently retired because of ill-health and the fact that "he seemed to be losing his grip on things."

In preparation for the usual strenuous round of socials, dances and courts expected this year, fashionable London is now engaged in rejuvenating itself.

Popular nursing homes are full of pale ladies who are putting up with weeks of agony so that they can face the season with equanimity and a smile. One well known society matron has withdrawn into a nursing home for a month to have new eyelashes sewn on, while it is reported that the craze for "rejuvenation" is even spreading to the younger element, who find the strain of a London season very wearying and conducive to that "old age is creeping on" appearance.

The new Countess of Berkeley, formerly Mrs. Lloyd Powell, of Boston, who married Lord Berkeley two months ago, is making her first visit to Berkeley, the duke's country seat and one of the most famous castles in the West Country.

She has just bought a beautiful palace on the Grand canal, in Venice, which she is filling with priceless are treasures.

Ankle muffs are the latest craze here.

They are worn with low-cut shoes, which produce very cold ankles in London's weather. The muffs are after the style of the mitten, but they are trimmed with colored fur. Warm ankles are indispensable, however, if milady wants to be able to wear them elegantly.

"Nippy" has London at her feet. She has thousands of admirers.

"Nippy" is just emerging from obscurity. It happened this way. A chain teashop company introduced a new uniform for its waitresses. It published a picture of one of these waitresses, wearing the new uniform, and titled the picture "Nippy." It so happened that "Nippy" proved to be a knockout. She is an extraordinary pretty girl. The teashop company has been besieged with letters asking for the name of "Nippy" and the address of the teashop where she serves. Thus far the company has kept silent.

Theatrical offers have been made for "Nippy's" services; and it looks as though she would fall for the lure of the footlights. Meanwhile, her picture is being plastered all over London, and some romantic youths are making systematic tours of the teashops, hoping they will meet "Nippy."

DINNER STORIES

A workingman got a job at a coal mine siding, running wagon down an incline. There was only a sleeper at the bottom to stop the wagons, so the boss told him to be careful and keep the brake on. On the third day four wagons went down at a terrific speed and jumped over the sleeper into the canal below.

The boss saw all that happened from his office window, and came rushing out, with wrathful face. The man forestalled the remarks of the enraged employer:

"You needn't come grumbling at me," he announced. "I ain't working for you."

Bob was sitting on the sofa with his Friend Dot. On her knee was her little niece. The door of the next room was wide open and the family as usual were there listening. This is what they heard:

"Kiss me too, Aunt Dottie."

"Certainly, dear, but don't say too, say twice; too is not good grammar."

An old man was asked what he did when he bowed his head in church so reverently just before the services began.

"Well," replied the old man, "that's a fair question an' I'll give you a fair answer—I don't know what other folks do, but I always count forty myself."

A negro woman of mammoth proportions and inky complexion was in an automobile accident. She was transported to the hospital, where she soon regained consciousness. The doctor, seeking to comfort her a bit, said to her:

"You undoubtedly will be able to obtain a considerable amount of damages, Mrs. Johnson."

"Damages!" said Mrs. Johnson.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—There are—an optical association reports—some 300 men in New York who wear monocles. These are home-plucked specimens and not visiting authors and actors from British shores. Out of these about 100 have physical defects in one eye.

The rest have adopted the monocle as a bit of swank. Now a monocle may not inspire three whoops or even a faint geewhiz from most folk, but to me it is one of the sartorial miracles. Just an ordinary piece of glass—the size of a wrist watch crystal.

Yet fasten it into the eye of the dowdiest plebian and you feel as though you should call him count. You would no more think of joshing a monocle wearer than you would Mr. Coolidge. Nothing in the world so completely suffocates familiarity.

You may smile the cynical smile behind the back of the man who wears the monocle, but secretly most of us rather admire him. It is nothing more, the sheer jauntiness of holding a piece of glass so firmly that not even a fall off a horse will dislodge it.

It requires long and secret practice before the mirror to accomplish all this. The monocle wearer must feel confident of his ability. If he makes a slip his dignity is gone. To drop a monocle accidentally will bring him no sympathy. Just laughter.

The monocle, like the wrist watch, has met with early opposition. It is regarded as the badge of the fop—the cane sucking dude of the comic strips. In Europe it needs no defenders. It is worn by men who have received the highest decorations for bravery in action.

It is worn by the duke, lord and proletariat. I may be wrong but I do not think any article a man wears dresses him up so magnificently or gives him so much dignity. I possibly may never wear a monocle. But I wish I had the courage.

One thing is certain, if I ever adopt the monocle I'll never wear it in a certain hardware store back home. The proprietor is a gruff, red faced old fellow who speaks his mind. I have a memory of dropping in there one day during my callow youth in white pants for a pound of B. B. bird shot. He was behind the stove snoozing when I opened the door. He came down toward me, looked quizzically at my trousers and then shouted so they could hear him clear up to the court house: "Get out of here, you durn dude!" I suppose if I went in wearing a monocle he would sock me with an anvil.

And I know one man who would be in entire accord and say: "You got what you deserved." The gentleman is my father.

I once played penny-ante with a Russian prince who wore a monocle. As I recall, there were also in the game Clare Briggs, H. T. Webster, Harry Staton, Ray Rohn, Dr. G. A. Dorsey and Arthur Somers Roche. In this rather intimate weekly gathering the choice of epithets applied to one another was, to say the least, brusque. But that monocle toned up our language so it might have been used in a perfumed boudoir instead of the water front. However, it wasn't much fun and it was agreed afterward that we would confine royalty in our game to the roy flush.

My barber tells me of a rather amusing incident with a monocle wearer. His patron was a Metropolitan singer and went to sleep while shaving with the monocle in his eye. Finally the muscles relaxed and the monocle started to slip off to the floor. The barber had a razor in one hand and a lathered brush in the other. He thought first of dropping them and saving the monocle, but didn't. It so happened that the monocle dropped in the cuff of his trousers. An hour's search of the barber shop failed to find it. And the real mystery was not made clear until he undressed to retire. This concludes the evening's entertainment on monocles. Tomorrow I should take up something rough—like flea-hopping or the Charleston.

MAN, CHAMPION ANIMAL

Those dogs of the Eskimo breed, galloping in relays over the frozen trails of Alaska, covered 650 miles in 5½ days. Wonderful four-legged creatures they are, and a brave man is Gunnar Kasson who pushed on through the blizzard without waiting for the relay that failed to meet him.

Of all animals man is the most wonderful, having developed to the highest point, the topmost joint of the spinal column, the one we call the skull contained the brain.

The serious thing is that man excels animals in physical endurance, as well as in thinking power.

We are amazed that relays of heavy four-legged animals, powerful Siberian hounds, should gallop over the snow and ice 650 miles in 5½ days.

Their endurance does not compare with that of the tall Irishman, afterward elected mayor of Long Island City, who walked and ran more than 600 miles in six days in Madison Square Garden, with no relay on his own two legs.

Man is indeed "fearfully and wonderfully made," and has many reasons for praising the Lord.

HOBO, THE HERO

Two days ago Bill Goodman, of Nauvoo, Ala., was called a "hobo." When he traveled he hid in freight cars or "rode on the rods." Now he is a hero, with a pass authorizing him to ride comfortably on all trains of the St. Louis and San Francisco line.

On Monday night he crawled out of his hiding place on the train, after a collision and, risking his own life, saved that of the engineer, lying beneath his engine, in danger of being scalded to death.

The distance between hoboism and heroism is often short, and often only an opportunity is needed to change a hobo into a hero.

NEWS, ASSORTED

The news of almost any day would seem strange to a traveler from an old, civilized planet.

At Johns Hopkins university they will perform an operation on a man from Colorado accused of murdering his wife. Cutting his skull, giving the brain room to expand, may eliminate alleged criminal tendencies. In days to come operations on the skull to remedy brain pressure, especially on the top may become frequent.

In that disease the slightest cut is apt to cause fatal bleeding. We don't realize how ingeniously we are made, the average cut healing itself, and the white corpuscles attacking and destroying outside germs, like vigilant policemen, while the healing goes on.

In Monte Carlo ladies play lawn tennis—perfectly respectable ladies, with skirts cut off far up on the hips, with stockings rolled down and bare knees. Dressed that way they play better, and the air does them good.

Eskimo women have always kept an opening around the knees, or around the waist, to let in the air. The skin also must breathe.

LADY, OR REALTOR

In Hollywood, Mrs. Margaret W. Rowan, with her followers, "reformed Seventh Day Adventists," are waiting for the world to end next Friday. They will watch with her, while the world ends, and divinity again appears on earth.

Somebody will be disappointed on Friday, either Mrs. Rowan and her followers, or the Los Angeles real estate owners.

Marcus Loew bought a block out there for $40,000, over the protest of his managers, who said he was paying too much. A little later he sold it for a million. Can you imagine how he would have felt had the world ended just before the buyer signed on the dotted line?

All romance is fading from the earth. The North Pole has been reached. And now regular automobile trips are made across the Desert of Sahara, with hotels and electric lights on the road.

Moore, our ambassador to Spain, says, "Come to Spain. That's the only place where the grass isn't all trampled down and you can see something real."

The earth grows dull. You go to the mountains of the northwest to kill a grizzly bear, and run into a sign reading, "57 Varieties."

Government Economy

Every fresh evidence of governmental economy is welcome to the individual citizen. The public is delighted to learn that an annual budget not in excess of $3,000,000,000 is in sight. Naturally, too, the public is interested in knowing how such an improvement is effected.

In the first place, many comparatively small economics have been introduced, each one sensible and eminently worth achieving. Among those are the substitute of white string for the more expensive red tape for tying government documents, and of plain white mail bags for fancy striped ones. There is room for a considerable amount of economizing in similar fields. But such things alone cannot really bring about any major cuts in government expenditure.

These latter are to be found in the transition from war to peace activities, such as the final conclusion of government railroad administration. Perhaps the most expensive single department inaugurated as a direct result of the war was the veterans' bureau. Its extravagance and inefficiency have been curbed. It is getting its work properly in hand, with consequent financial economy.

It is well to remember that war is about the most expensive thing a civilized nation can indulge in, and that its expenses last long after peace is declared. In addition to a good budget system, the nation that would economize and lower its taxes must do the things that will prevent war and promote peace.

Home Without a Husband

"The first apartment house ever built for women only" is nearing completion in New York. It differs somewhat from men's bachelor apartments. Every suite has a good-sized kitchen, fitted with modern conveniences for cooking and breakfasting. It resembles men's quarters in having an all-night elevator, so that the tenants may stay out as late as they like.

The place is intended to cater chiefly to "the needs of stenographers, saleswomen, teachers and other workers who are living uncomfortably in rooming and boarding houses, and to provide them with a home, which every woman wants." No woman is allowed to lease an apartment if she is married or intends to marry soon. Though the rule against husbands is iron-clad, there is no barrier to dogs, cats, parrots, victrolas and radio sets.

If successful, this apartment house is to be followed by others. It should succeed. The tendency for unmarried and self-supporting women to make their own homes gains right along, and is a normal development to which there can be no sound objection.

Judicial Reform

The inefficiency of American court procedure in general is an old story. The bench and bar themselves have frankly admitted the lamentable delay and expense of justice in most of the courts under the present system. Legislatures and congress have tackled the subject, without much improvement.

"Give the courts the power to make their own rules, as changing conditions require," says the chief justice of the Ohio supreme court, "and justice will be simplified and speeded up."

There is a bill now pending in the senate at Washington which would empower the United States supreme court to establish rules for all federal courts. Legislatures may hesitate to grant similar powers to the state and municipal courts, yet that might be the best way out of a bad situation. If judicial power were abused, it could be restrained at any time by further legislative action.

"Our system of courts," says Dean Pound, of Harvard Law school, "is archaic and our procedure behind the times. Uncertainty, delay, expense and, above all, the injustice of deciding upon points of practice which are the mere etiquette of justice, have created a deep desire to keep out of court, right or wrong, on the part of every sensible business man in the community."

It may be always wise to try to keep out of court, reform or no reform. Nevertheless, any improvement which will make the judicial machinery run with less friction and turn out a better product of justice deserves to be tried.

Haskin Letter

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

SUPREME COURT SERVICE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—The retirement of Associate Justice McKenna from the supreme court after 27 years of service and the nomination by President Coolidge of Attorney General Harlan F. Stone to succeed him have recalled afresh some interesting and important characteristics of America's great tribunal.

One of these characteristics is the fact that justices of the supreme court continue in office long after the age when the average business or professional man withdraws from active participation in affairs, and in many instances long after they have passed the statutory limit of retirement.

Another peculiarity but one which is much less generally known is the fact that the supreme court has drawn its personnel from certain areas of the country to a much greater extent than from other areas. This tendency has marked the court from the very foundation of the government.

If Attorney General Stone is confirmed by the senate he will be the seventy-fourth American lawyer or jurist to graduate into the silk robes of the highest tribunal. Out of this grand total only eight have been men from the region west of the Mississippi river, while the majority of the personnel of the court has been supplied by less than one-fourth of the states of the union.

Seven states in fact have given the country 42 of the 74 members of the supreme court. These states represent in the main the most conservative sections of the country, both from a social and from an economic standpoint.

The first place on the honor roll of seven falls to New York, which will have its ninth representative of the court with the accession of Attorney General Stone. Next in line is Massachusetts with seven, Ohio with six, not including Chief Justice Taft, who was appointed from Connecticut, although he is a native son of the Buckeye state; Pennsylvania, Virginia, Maryland and Tennessee tie for fourth place, boasting five each.

Twenty-seven states have supplied the entire personnel of the court from 1789 to 1925, while it still remains for 21 states to have a citizen participate in the deliberations of the body which is regarded as in some respects the most powerful and influential factor in the American government.

Of course, the development of the country from east to west explains to some extent the distribution of personnel. It is true, however, that some states have always been more productive than others of the type of men fitted by training and temperament to fill the role of a supreme court justice.

It is interesting to note that the region of the country where the constitution and the integrity of the supreme court was made an issue by opposing political factions in the recent presidential election embraces a section which has thus far contributed but little to the membership of the body.

FOUR WESTERNERS NOW JUSTICES

Thus, Wisconsin, North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana, Idaho, Washington and Oregon are included in the 21 states that have never had a member. At the moment four members of the court are credited to the west, namely Justice McKenna, of California, who is retiring; Justice Willis Vandeventer, of Wyoming; Justice George Sutherland, of Utah, and Justice Pierce Butler, of Minnesota. Of the four only one, namely, Justice Butler, is a native westerner, born and reared in the state from which he was appointed. Justice McKenna was born in Philadelphia and Justice Vandeventer is an Indianan by birth, while Justice Sutherland was born in Buckinghamshire, England.

The continuity of supreme court tradition from decade to decade and from generation to generation is in no small degree due to the long service that has marked it as an institution apart. Fifteen to 20 years is an ordinary period of service.

Here is the way the story of these "Elder Statesmen" runs: Twenty-six of them handed down decisions continuously for a period of 20 to 30 years. Six of them passed the 30-year mark and of the six, four served for 34 years each. This was the record length of service, and it is interesting to note that while four members of the court reached the 34-year limit, no one ever exceeded it. The six who served 30 years or more had an aggregate tenure of 199 years, a period of service which would span far back into colonial days.

They were Bushrod Washington, Virginia, 34 years; John Marshall, Virginia, 34 years; John McLean, Ohio, 32; Joseph Story, Massachusetts, 34; Stephen J. Field, California, 34, and John M. Harlan, Kentucky, 34. It is generally conceded that some of these veterans of the bench, particularly Chief Justice Marshall and Justice Story, left an abiding impress on constitutional interpretations and on the structure of our legal code. Their years added weight to their findings and the dignity attaching to the court is in no small way due to the continuity of this long service tradition.

Turning to the chief justices there were only 10 of them all told, Chief Justice Taft being the tenth in the succession. These 10 men spanned the 135 years since the country became a nation. The roll call reads: John Jay, New York; John Rutledge, South Carolina; Oliver Ellsworth, Connecticut; John Marshall, Virginia; Roger B. Taney, Maryland; Salmon P. Chase, Ohio; Morrison R. Waite, Ohio; Melville W. Fuller, Illinois; Edward D. White, Louisiana; William Howard Taft, Connecticut.

It will be seen from the roll call that four of the seven states that contributed the majority of membership also contributed a chief justice, namely New York, Ohio, Virginia and Maryland. The average tenure of office was 14 years, while five members served in the aggregate 111 years, Marshall 34, Taney 28, Fuller 22 and White 27.

The boss saw all that happened from his office window, and came rushing out, with wrathful face. The man forestalled the remarks of the enraged employer:

"You needn't come grumbling at me," he announced. "I ain't working for you."

Bob was sitting on the sofa with his Friend Dot. On her knee was her little niece. The door of the next room was wide open and the family as usual were there listening. This is what they heard:

"Kiss me too, Aunt Dottie."

"Certainly, dear, but don't say too, say twice; too is not good grammar."

An old man was asked what he did when he bowed his head in church so reverently just before the services began.

"Well," replied the old man, "that's a fair question an' I'll give you a fair answer—I don't know what other folks do, but I always count forty myself."

A negro woman of mammoth proportions and inky complexion was in an automobile accident. She was transported to the hospital, where she soon regained consciousness. The doctor, seeking to comfort her a bit, said to her:

"You undoubtedly will be able to obtain a considerable amount of damages, Mrs. Johnson."

"Damages!" said Mrs. Johnson.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—There are—an optical association reports—some 300 men in New York who wear monocles. These are home-plucked specimens and not visiting authors and actors from British shores. Out of these about 100 have physical defects in one eye.

The rest have adopted the monocle as a bit of swank. Now a monocle may not inspire three whoops or even a faint geewhiz from most folk, but to me it is one of the sartorial miracles. Just an ordinary piece of glass—the size of a wrist watch crystal.

Yet fasten it into the eye of the dowdiest plebian and you feel as though you should call him count. You would no more think of joshing a monocle wearer than you would Mr. Coolidge. Nothing in the world so completely suffocates familiarity.

You may smile the cynical smile behind the back of the man who wears the monocle, but secretly most of us rather admire him. It is nothing more, the sheer jauntiness of holding a piece of glass so firmly that not even a fall off a horse will dislodge it.

It requires long and secret practice before the mirror to accomplish all this. The monocle wearer must feel confident of his ability. If he makes a slip his dignity is gone. To drop a monocle accidentally will bring him no sympathy. Just laughter.

The monocle, like the wrist watch, has met with early opposition. It is regarded as the badge of the fop—the cane sucking dude of the comic strips. Europe it needs no defenders. It is worn by men who have received the highest decorations for bravery in action.

It is worn by the duke, lord and proletariat. I may be wrong but I do not think any article a man wears dresses him up so magnificently or gives him so much dignity. I possibly may never wear a monocle. But I wish I had the courage.

One thing is certain, if I ever adopt the monocle I'll never wear it in a certain hardware store back home. The proprietor is a gruff, red faced old fellow who speaks his mind. I have a memory of dropping in there one day during my callow youth in white pants for a pound of B. B. bird shot. He was behind the stove snoozing when I opened the door. He came down toward me, looked quizzically at my trousers and then shouted so they could hear him clear up to the court house: "Get out of here, you durn dude!" I suppose if I went in wearing a monocle he would sock me with an anvil.

And I know one man who would be in entire accord and say: "You got what you deserved." The gentleman is my father.

I once played penny-ante with a Russian prince who wore a monocle. As I recall, there were also in the game Clare Briggs, H. T. Webster, Harry Staton, Ray Rohn, Dr. G. A. Dorsey and Arthur Somers Roche. In this rather intimate weekly gathering the choice of epithets applied to one another was, to say the least, brusque. But that monocle toned up our language so it might have been used in a perfumed boudoir instead of the water front. However, it wasn't much fun and it was agreed afterward that we would confine royalty in our game to the roy fush.

My barber tells me of a rather amusing incident with a monocle wearer. His patron was a Metropolitan singer and went to sleep while shaving with the monocle in his eye. Finally the muscles relaxed and the monocle started to slip off to the floor. The barber had a razor in one hand and a lathered brush in the other. He thought first of dropping them and saving the monocle, but didn't. It so happened that the monocle dropped in the cuff of his trousers. An hour's search of the barber shop failed to find it. And the real mystery was not made clear until he undressed to retire. This concludes the evening's entertainment on monocles. Tomorrow I should take up something rough—like flea-hopping or the Charleston.

TODAY

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune).

MAN, CHAMPION ANIMAL

Those dogs of the Eskimo breed, galloping in relays over the frozen trails of Alaska, covered 650 miles in 5½ days. Wonderful four-legged creatures they are, and a brave man is Gunnar Kasson who pushed on through the blizzard without waiting for the relay that failed to meet him.

Of all animals man is the most wonderful, having developed to the highest point, the topmost joint of the spinal column, the one we call the skull contained the brain.

The serious thing is that man excels animals in physical endurance, as well as in thinking power.

We are amazed that relays of heavy four-legged animals, powerful Siberian hounds, should gallop over the snow and ice 650 miles in 5½ days.

Their endurance does not compare with that of the tall Irishman, afterward elected mayor of Long Island City, who walked and ran more than 600 miles in six days in Madison Square Garden, with no relay on his own two legs.

Man is indeed "fearfully and wonderfully made," and has many reasons for praising the Lord.

HOBO, THE HERO

Two days ago Bill Goodman, of Nauvoo, Ala., was called a "hobo." When he traveled he hid in freight cars or "rode on the rods." Now he is a hero, with a pass authorizing him to ride comfortably on all trains of the St. Louis and San Francisco line.

On Monday night he crawled out of his hiding place on the train, after a collision and, risking his own life, saved that of the engineer, lying beneath his engine, in danger of being scalded to death.

The distance between hoboism and heroism is often short, and often only an opportunity is needed to change a hobo into a hero.

NEWS, ASSORTED

The news of almost any day would seem strange to a traveler from an old, civilized planet.

At Johns Hopkins university they will perform an operation on a man from Colorado accused of murdering his wife. Cutting his skull, giving the brain room to expand, may eliminate alleged criminal tendencies. In days to come operations on the skull to remedy brain pressure, especially on the top may become frequent.

In that disease the slightest cut is apt to cause fatal bleeding. We don't realize how ingeniously we are made, the average cut healing itself, and the white corpuscles attacking and destroying outside germs, like vigilant policemen, while the healing goes on.

In Monte Carlo ladies play lawn tennis—perfectly respectable ladies, with skirts cut off far up on the hips, with stockings rolled down and bare knees. Dressed that way they play better, and the air does them good.

Eskimo women have always kept an opening around the knees, or around the waist, to let in the air. The skin also must breathe.

LADY, OR REALTOR

In Hollywood, Mrs. Margaret W. Rowan, with her followers, "reformed Seventh Day Adventists," are waiting for the world to end next Friday. They will watch with her, while the world ends, and divinity again appears on earth.

Somebody will be disappointed on Friday, either Mrs. Rowan and her followers, or the Los Angeles real estate owners.

Marcus Loew bought a block out there for $40,000, over the protest of his managers, who said he was paying too much. A little later he sold it for a million. Can you imagine how he would have felt had the world ended just before the buyer signed on the dotted line?

All romance is fading from the earth. The North Pole has been reached. And now regular automobile trips are made across the Desert of Sahara, with hotels and electric lights on the road.

Moore, our ambassador to Spain, says, "Come to Spain. That's the only place where the grass isn't all trampled down and you can see something real."

The earth grows dull. You go to the mountains of the northwest to kill a grizzly bear, and run into a sign reading, "57 Varieties."

A Dainty Desrert

A delicious little accessory to serve with an ice or any frozen dish is made by rolling pie crust about a quarter of an inch thick. Cut it in strips six inches long, roll until round, lay in a pan and bake. Dip them into boiled frosting and when dry again in melted chocolate. They may be rolled while moist in chopped nuts or cocoa instead of chocolate.

Suet Pudding — One cup chopped suet, one-half cup brown sugar, one-half cup molasses, one cup raisins, two teaspoons baking powder; two cups flour, one-fourth teaspoon soda. Steam two hours and serve with liquid sauce.

Liquid Sauce—One cup sugar, one cup water, one-half cup butter. Boil together, thicken with one tablespoon flour, add one tablespoon of vinegar; flavor with nutmeg, vanilla or lemon or little of each of them.

Lemon-Apple Pie — Grated rind of one lemon, two tablespoons lemon juice, one cup sugar, one egg yolk, one tablespoon melted butter, two tablespoons bread flour, one fourth cup hot water, two apples pared and grated, one egg white. Mix grated rind of lemon, lemon juice, sugar, egg yolk, butter flour, and hot water. Then add apples and fold in stiffly-beaten egg white. Line pie pan with pastry, fill with mixture cover with pastry and bake..

Suggestions

A woman who objected to the additional labor involved in lifting a heavy iron on and off a stand while ironing conceived the idea of buying a square yard of asbestos from the hardware store. She cut a piece large enough for the end of the ironing board and finds it saves her a good deal of work. The asbestos is very inexpensive, and a yard lasts for some time.

A clean pipe cleaner is a good thing to use to clean the clogged holes in the teapot spout.

All of us have struggled conscientiously to clean the baseboard woodwork of our homes. It is one of the duties we do not enjoy doing. Crawling along on one's knees has no joy for either the thin or stout housewife and we always feel ourselves more or less heroines when we do a thorough job. One lively young woman solved the problem in a manner not very dignified, we admit, but none the less practical. She sits on her child's kiddie car and pushes, herself along scrubbing as she goes.

One housewife says that she keeps a child's broom upstairs, and before using electric sweeper she dampens broom slightly and rubs over rugs in front of dressers. This gathers up the hair and she does not have the unpleasant task of cutting and pulling hair from sweeper brush.

Binoculars Are Worshipped.

At Cairo, Egypt, recently, a group of scientists left behind them a set of powerful binoculars which were later found by a tribe of natives in the Sudan and set up as a shrine by some superstitious native. Groups of the natives now gather around the binoculars and accord them rites of worship as they can not understand the science that enables them to bring far away objects into such close view.

GETTING UP NIGHTS

Irritation, excessive acidity or abnormal deposits may be the cause. It needs cleansing. Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula) acts on the kidneys and bladder as Epsom Salts on the bowels. R. D. Neblett, 10 Oak St., Battle Creek, Mich., says: "For three years had to get up three times at night. Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula) helped me in two days. I now do heavy work." It isn't a patent medicine. The formula is on the label. Sold by leading drug stores or Keller Laboratory, Mechanicsburg, Ohio. Locally at J. D. Holloways. adv.

Tells How to End Night Coughing

To quickly stop hacking, irritating coughing at night, a very simple treatment may be had that often enables you to sleep the whole night through undisturbed almost at once.

The treatment is based on a remarkable prescription known as Dr. King's New Discovery for Coughs. You simply take a teaspoonful at night before retiring, and hold it in your throat for 15 or 20 seconds before swallowing it, without following with water. The prescription has a double action. It not only soothes and relieves irritation and soreness, but it quickly loosens and removes the phlegm and congestion which are the direct cause of the coughing. So no matter whether your cough is dry and tight, or loose with much mucus, the coughing soon stops, you can usually sleep your accustomed time without a break, and the whole cough condition goes in a very short time.

The prescription contains absolutely no narcotics or other harmful drugs. Instead of merely benumbing the nerves, it actually helps the system to throw off the trouble in a perfectly natural way. Furthermore, it is very economical, the dose being only one teaspoonful. It is highly recommended for coughs, chest colds, tickling, hoarseness and bronchitis, and is wonderful for children's coughs and spasmodic croup. On sale at all good druggists. Ask for

One of the most dreaded ailments developed from common colds is pneumonia. Cold germs multiply quickly, and unless the system is able to resist the rapid attack, serious results may develop. Why not always be ready to fight off a cold by having on hand a box of Bulgarian Herb Tea? This grand medicinal tea taken hot at bedtime helps to break up a cold quickly.

Bulgarian Herb Tea is now used by millions for constipation, stomach, liver and bowel troubles. Physicians recommend and druggists everywhere endorse it.

Tip For Beginners.

Solve this puzzle by comparing the synonyms listed in the "Horizontal" and "Vertical" columns with the number of spaces extending crosswise or downward on the diagram, as the case may be. If a word occurs to you meaning substantially the same as the synonym and the correct number of letters to fit in the spaces between its number and the first shaded stop following, write it in lightly. Work away the small words, the "easy" words, first, and they will give you plenty of clues to the difficult ones.

Dix's First Starring Picture, 'Manhattan,' At The Ceramic

Richard Dix's first Paramount starring picture, "Manhattan," with Jacqueline Logan, Gregory Kelly, George Seigmann and others playing in support, will be shown at the Ceramic theatre three days starting today. The story is an adaptation by Paul Sloane and Frank Tuttle of the novel, "The Definite Object," by Jeffrey Farnol. It is R. H. Burnside's first work as a screen director.

The story opens on Peter Minuit (Dix), a wealthy young bachelor who tires of the uneventful routine of his daily life and ventures out into Hell's Kitchen section of New York city in search of adventure. He finds it—with a vengeance!

Peter had read in the paper of a gang outside of Bud McGinnis saloon and in another column of the night of "Gentleman" George, a safeblower sought in four states. Things began to brighten a bit. Here was excitement after all.

Minuit dons some old clothes and, posing as the notorious "Gentleman George," hies himself off after a thrill. After a series of actionful scenes we find him more or less firmly established as one of the Kitchen's respected gangsters, only to be "bumped off" by one who believed him a "bull." Spike, a youngster with whom he had teamed up, brings him to his home—and that's when the trouble begins. For Spike has a truly beautiful sister and, on first sight, Minuit decides that there is that "something" worth living for.

But there's a villain in the case, Bud McGinnis (Seigmann), also in love with Mary, played by Miss Logan. He plays Peter all kinds of dirt—even tries to "finish him," but Minuit comes up smiling, wins the girl, reforms her wayward brother, reveals his identity and they all live happily ever after in his home on the Ave[illegible].

Here's real entertainment. Dix has always been a prime favorite with the fans and in "Manhattan," a story all his very own, he's going to prove more popular than ever. See if we're not right.

Syracuse Student Studying Spanish Via Havana Radio

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Feb.—A new use for the radio today has been discovered by a Syracuse schoolboy.

He is Richard Gaggin, who is studying Spanish by "tuning in" on Havana. Through the air, he finds mastery of the language is far less difficult than by learning it by means of text and grammar in the classroom.

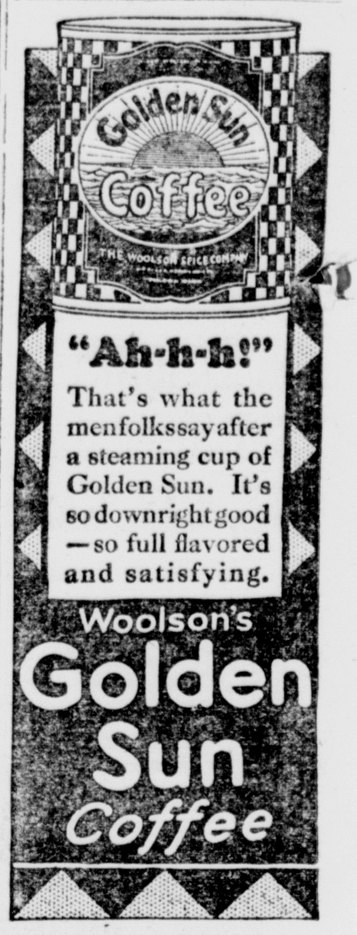

The innovation is the result of the formation of a radio unit at Nottingham Junior High school under the personal supervision of W. J. Knight, acting principal.

Guard Against "Flu" With Musterole

It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.

Just rub it on with your finger-tips. First you will feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.

Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness.

To Mothers: Musterole is now made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

A Dainty Desert

A delicious little accessory to serve with an ice or any frozen dish is made by rolling pie crust about a quarter of an inch thick. Cut it in strips six inches long, roll until round, lay in a pan and bake. Dip them into boiled frosting and when dry again in melted chocolate. They may be rolled while moist in chopped nuts or cocoa instead of chocolate.

Liquid Sauce—One cup sugar, one cup water, one-half cup butter. Boil together, thicken with one tablespoon flour, add one tablespoon of vinegar; flavor with nutmeg, vanilla or lemon or little of each of them.

Lemon Apple Pie — Grated rind of one lemon, two tablespoons lemon juice, one cup sugar, one egg yolk, one tablespoon melted butter, two tablespoons bread flour, one fourth cup hot water, two apples pared and grated, one egg white. Mix grated rind of lemon, lemon juice, sugar, egg yolk, butter flour, and hot water. Then add apples and fold in stiffly-beaten egg white. Line pie pan with pastry, fill with mixture cover with pastry and bake.

Suggestions

A woman who objected to the additional labor involved in lifting a heavy iron on and off a stand while ironing conceived the idea of buying a square yard of asbestos from the hardware store. She cut a piece large enough for the end of the ironing board and finds it saves her a good deal of work. The asbestos is very inexpensive, and a yard lasts for some time.

A clean pipe cleaner is a good thing to use to clean the clogged holes in the teapot spout.

All of us have struggled conscientiously to clean the baseboard woodwork of our homes. It is one of the duties we do not enjoy doing. Crawling along on one's knees has no joy for either the thin or stout housewife and we always feel ourselves more or less heroines when we do a thorough job. One lively young woman solved the problem in a manner not very dignified, we admit, but none the less practical. She sits on her child's kiddie car and pushes, herself along scrubbing as she goes.

One housewife says that she keeps a child's broom upstairs, and before using electric sweeper she dampens broom slightly and rubs over rugs in front of dressers. This gathers up the hair and she does not have the unpleasant task of cutting and pulling hair from sweeper brush.

Binoculars Are Worshipped.

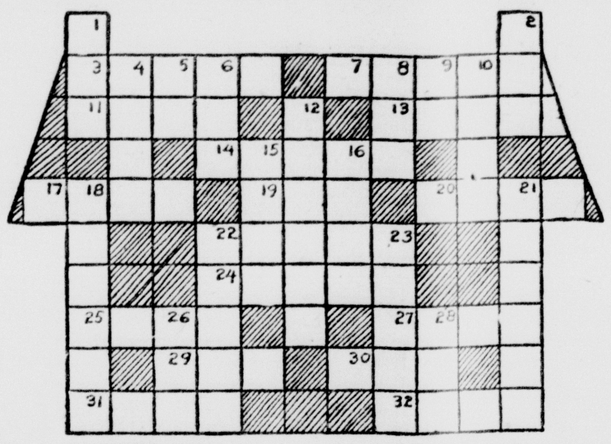

At Cairo, Egypt, recently, a group of scientists left behind them a set of powerful binoculars which were later found by a tribe of natives in the Sudan and set up as a shrine by some superstitious native. Groups of the natives now gather around the binoculars and accord them rites of worship as they can not understand the science that enables them to bring far away objects into such close view.

Tip For Beginners.

Solve this puzzle by comparing the synonyms listed in the "Horizontal" and "Vertical" columns with the number of spaces extending crosswise or downward on the diagram, as the case may be. If a word occurs to you meaning substantially the same as the synonym and the correct number of letters to fit in the spaces between its number and the first shaded stop following, write it in lightly. Work away the small words, the "easy" words, first, and they will give you plenty of clues to the difficult ones.

Dix's First Starring Picture, 'Manhattan,' At The Ceramic

Richard Dix's first Paramount starring picture, "Manhattan," with Jacqueline Logan, Gregory Kelly, George Seigmann and others playing in support, will be shown at the Ceramic theatre three days starting today. The story is an adaptation by Paul Sloane and Frank Tuttle of the novel, "The Definite Object," by Jeffrey Farnol. It is R. H. Burnside's first work as a screen director.

The story opens on Peter Minuit (Dix), a wealthy young bachelor who tires of the uneventful routine of his daily life and ventures out into Hell's Kitchen section of New York city in search of adventure. He finds it—with a vengeance!

Peter had read in the paper of a gang outside of Bud McGinnis saloon and in another column of the night of "Gentleman" George, a safeblower sought in four states. Things began to brighten a bit. Here was excitement after all.

Minuit dons some old clothes and, posing as the notorious "Gentleman George," hies himself off after a thrill. After a series of actionful scenes we find him more or less firmly established as one of the Kitchen's respected gangsters, only to be "bumped off" by one who believed him a "bull." Spike, a youngster with whom he had teamed up, brings him to his home—and that's when the trouble begins. For Spike has a truly beautiful sister and, on first sight, Minuit decides that there is that "something" worth living for.

But there's a villain in the case, Bud McGinnis (Seigmann), also in love with Mary, played by Miss Logan. He plays Peter all kinds of dirt—even tries to "finish him," but Minuit comes up smiling, wins the girl, reforms her wayward brother, reveals his identity and they all live happily ever after in his home on the Ave[illegible]

Here's real entertainment. Dix is always been a prime favorite with the fans and in "Manhattan," a story all his very own, he's going to prove more popular than ever. See it we're not right.

Syracuse Student Studying Spanish Via Havana Radio

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Feb.—A new use for the radio today has been discovered by a Syracuse schoolboy.

He is Richard Gaggin, who is studying Spanish by "tuning in" on Havana. Through the air, he finds mastery of the language is far less difficult than by learning it by means of text and grammar in the classroom.

The innovation is the result of the formation of a radio unit at Nottingham Junior High school under the personal supervision of W. J. Knight, acting principal.

GETTING UP NIGHTS

Irritation, excessive acidity or abnormal deposits may be the cause. It needs cleansing. Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula) acts on the kidneys and bladder as Epsom Salts on the bowels. R. D. Neblett, 10 Oak St., Battle Creek, Mich., says: "For three years had to get up three times at night. Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula) helped me in two days. I now do heavy work." It isn't a patent medicine. The formula is on the label. Sold by leading drug stores or Keller Laboratory, Mechanicsburg, Ohio. Locally at J. D. Holloways. adv.

Tells How to End Night Coughing

To quickly stop hacking, irritating coughing at night, a very simple treatment may be had that often enables you to sleep the whole night through undisturbed almost at once.

The treatment is based on a remarkable prescription known as Dr. King's New Discovery for Coughs. You simply take a teaspoonful at night before retiring, and hold it in your throat for 15 or 20 seconds before swallowing it, without following with water. The prescription has a double action. It not only soothes and relieves irritation and soreness, but it quickly loosens and removes the phlegm and congestion which are the direct cause of the coughing. So no matter whether your cough is dry and tight, or loose with much mucus, the coughing soon stops, you can usually sleep your accustomed time without a break, and the whole cough condition goes in a very short time.

The prescription contains absolutely no narcotics or other harmful drugs. Instead of merely benumbing the nerves, it actually helps the system to throw off the trouble in a perfectly natural way. Furthermore, it is very economical, the dose being only one teaspoonful. It is highly recommended for coughs, chest colds, tickling, hoarseness and bronchitis, and is wonderful for children's coughs and spasmodic croup. On sale at all good druggists. Ask for

One of the most dreaded ailments developed from common colds is pneumonia. Cold germs multiply quickly, and unless the system is able to resist the rapid attack, serious results may develop. Bulgarian Herb Tea is now used by millions for constipation, stomach, liver and bowel troubles. Physicians recommend and druggists everywhere endorse it.

MEASURE AIMED AT AUTO THIEVES

West Virginia will have one of the most drastic "certificate of title" laws in the country in the event the legislature enacts senate bill No. 390, which was introduced in the upper branch during the closing days by Senator Harvey Marsh of the third district.

The measure is designed particularly to prevent the sale of automobiles upon which there is any lien, and to make the theft of motor vehicles a highly unprofitable undertaking. Severe penalties are provided in the bill for the violation of any of the sections.

Any person who sells or otherwise disposes of a motor vehicle, according to the provisions of theb ill, without the consent of the holder of a trust receipt, reservation of title or conditional sales contract, would be guilty of a felony punishable by fine of $500 to $1,000 or by imprisonment in the penitentiary for one to ten years.

The bill further provides that any person who operates a motor vehicle after July 1, 1925, without securing a certificate of title, is subject to a fine of $25 to $1,000.

MEASURE AIMED AT AUTO THIEVES

West Virginia will have one of the most drastic "certificate of title" laws in the country in the event the legislature enacts senate bill No. 390, which was introduced in the upper branch during the closing days by Senator Harvey Marsh of the third district.

The measure is designed particularly to prevent the sale of automobiles upon which there is any lien, and to make the theft of motor vehicles a highly unprofitable undertaking. Severe penalties are provided in the bill for the violation of any of the sections.

Any person who sells or otherwise disposes of a motor vehicle, according to the provisions of theb ill, without the consent of the holder of a trust receipt, reservation of title or conditional sales contract, would be guilty of a felony punishable by fine of $500 to $1,000 or by imprisonment in the penitentiary for one to ten years.

The bill further provides that any person who operates a motor vehicle after July 1, 1925, without securing a certificate of title, is subject to a fino of $25 to $1,000.

"During 60 years of Married Life"...
Three Generations Kept Healthy and Happy

"Beecham's Pills were always considered indispensable by my parents during sixty years of married life and I am never without them in my home, as they are used when required by myself (aged sixty-one), and wife and children. This covers a period of over eighty years.

My wife and sons also believe there is no remedy for constipation and biliousness equal to Beecham's Pills.

So many so-called "cures" for biliousness and kindred troubles leave after effects that are certainly injurious, but Beecham's Pills give prompt relief and leave one in a healthy and happy condition." N. J. M.

NEW RECORDS FOR DOG LICENSES

"We've been making new records for the collection of the dog tax and it looks now as if collections from this source during the first two months of the year will exceed all former collections," declared Deputy County Auditor Randall Hamilton.

Up to this time 1,281 licenses have been issued. The money collected is placed to the credit of the dog and tax fund, from which all sheep claims are paid. After these claims have been liquidated, the balance of the fund goes to the credit of the county school fund.

B. F. Rollins, who for the last several years has served as deputy sheriff and in charge of the field collections for the dog and kennel fund, has not started out this season.

BOYS ARRAIGNED IN PROBATE COURT

Boys as young as nine years who have been in the habit of carrying fire arms and discharging them in the night season, have been rounded up by Patrolman Roy Lewton of Lisbon and taken before Juvenile Judge Lodge Riddle. From the nine-year old youngster a 32-caliber revolver was taken, and from one 11 years of age another revolver was recovered.

This crowd of boys has been annoying residents of Lisbon for a month, and not until a few nights ago were they discovered carrying these concealed weapons. The court told the boys that unless they remained at home nights, it would be necessary to send them to a state institution.

Mr. W. A. Lumpkin, of Oklahoma, says, "After being deaf 38 years, I used your treatment only a few days and hear fairly well."

AFTER BABY WAS BORN

Mrs. Miles Was Miserable a Long Time—Owes Final Recovery to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Dover, Ohio.—"After my last baby was born I was up and around again, but I was sickly all the time and did not know how to get my work done. I had washed a heavy carpet and I think that was the cause of my troubles. I went to several doctors, but their medicines did not do me any good. I asked what the trouble was, for I could hardly walk and always had such pains in my left side and then in my right side. He told me I had inflammation that caused it. I had one of your text-books and was reading it, and I thought I would take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After four days of taking it I began to feel better, so I took three bottles without missing a dose. That helped me more than any other medicine I had yet taken and I always have it handy now. It surely did put me on my feet again."—Mrs. JAMES MILES, 419 Cherry Street, Dover, Ohio.

TIMELY VIEWS ON WORLD TOPICS

"WE INHERIT OUR SINS," SAYS VIENNESE PHYSIOLOGIST.

Dr. Paul Kammerer, the distinguished Viennese physiologist, now in the U. S., is a general in an army of scientific revolutionaries and he is conducting a bitter war against conservative ideas of evolution.

"There are two biological theories," he said recently. "One is the theory of natural selection; the other is the theory of the inheritance of acquired characteristics. Any person with a scenific mind must hold to either of these two doctrines. He must decide between the two. Because this decision will determine his fundamental outlook on life.

"The theory of natural selection accounts for all the different forms of life in this manner: The same parents will have children who differ from each other. No two children are exactly alike—and this applies to all plants and animals as well as to all human beings.

"Let us imagine a large family of rabbits with many differences, say, in color. Some are brown, some white, some black. They live on wintry snow-fields. They have enemies. These enemies easily find and attack those rabbits whom they can easily see against the whiteness of the ice; thus the brown and black are destroyed, while the whites, being practically invisible, escape. This goes on for many generations, until finally only white parent-rabbits and white children-rabbits are left.

"In other words, the animals that happen to be fittest to their environment, those who turn out to be strongest at birth, have the best chances to live and to produce offspring of their own; thus the weak and ill-adapted ones gradually die out or are violently exterminated. This is also known as the doctrine of the survival of the fittest: the strong live, the weak perish; accidents of birth plus the nature of environment determine the future of the race.

Truths Admitted.

"Now for the other theory—the theory of the inheritance of acquired characteristics. This admits the truth of the positive assertions of natural selection, but it goes farther in holding that there can be nothing mysterious or mythical about the differences between one living thing and another. It holds that these differences can be accounted for, partially at least, by the minds of the parents. If a parent forms a habit, either through his own volition or through an external influence, the offspring will be affected by it to a greater or to a less degree. It may take long periods of time for such 'acquired characteristics,' repeated again and again, to make themselves perceptible—but they are there all the time."

APPLY SULPHUR ON YOUR ECZEMA SKIN

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly brings ease from skin irritation, soothes and heals the eczema right up and leaves the skin clear and smooth.

It seldom fails to relieve the torment without delay. Sufferers from skin trouble should obtain a small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like cold cream.

CHILDREN BEG FOR CASTOR OIL NOW

Mother, don't be so cruel as to give the children nasty, vile castor oil from the bottle.

Remember how you used to hate and detest it yourself?

When the children are cross and peevish or have a cold and need a dose, just try Kastor Jems, which is pure castor oil in a high grade chocolate confection—you can't taste or smell the oil—you can't tell a Kastor jem from a good candy and the kids just love them.

Understand, it's pure castor oil you're getting and nothing else. One is a dose for a child—two for an adult—and a lot of wise adults are eating a couple at least once a week because castor oil is the best lubricant for the bowels anyway.

THE DOUBLE HOUSE

By Elizabeth Dejeans

Dascome had changed from crimson to white, the gray look that had always tugged at Karesia's heart. She had laid her cheek to his: "You don't need to tell me—I know it's true. Now, will you do something for me?"

"I would give you the world, if I could, my love."

"No, only this: try to forget. And hold it close to you, the same absolute certainty that I have; some day, in some unexpected way, it will all be made clear. All day I have had the strange feeling that the time is very near."

Dascome bent abruptly to tend the failing fire. "It may be," he said evenly. "What will be, will be." Then he had lifted and had drawn her to him. "But nothing that shall take you from me! This is the end of February; in March Clarice gets her money and I know she will leave me—there are things I want to accomplish, too, I hope I may be able to, I must do it. A thousand times in the last weeks I have told myself that I could never ask it of you, but I will. Will you marry me then, Karesia?"

"Yes—I will."

Dascome was again the quietly resolute, steadily determined man that Karesia knew and loved, voice even and deep, a strength against which she leaned, a force that enveloped her. "Very well," he said. "You are mine and I am yours. The past shall not matter."

The past did not matter to Karesia; in the days that followed, its chill hand did not touch her. It was so much a part of her love, the thing that had brought her to him, her passionate sympathy. They kept their secret; during those days Clarice was only a hurried visitor to her father's house, for most of the time she was at the studio and several times she spent the night with Nadine Navarre. The tesis he had given Clarice had delighted Nadine's director. "That girl can do anything!" he told Nadine. "In a year she'll be starring."

"She will be eighteen next month," Dascome told Karesia, "and by the end of April she will have complete control of her fortune. She has not told me, but I know that then she'll leave me. I have talked it over with Nadine Navarre—Nadine will advise Clarice. She says that Clarice is working with utter concentration; her director says that Clarice is quick in catching an idea and that she has tireless vitality. Nadine's great fear was that Clarice would not be biddable."

"I am so glad! You owe a great deal to Madame Navarre," she added generously. Karesia was much too happy to be pricked by jealousy. Nadine Navarre may have been much or little to Dascome; he was hers now—what did it matter?

Dascome may have thought that it did matter to her, for he put his hand over hers—a firm pressure. "Nadine is paying a debt," he said. "She was determined to go to Russia and rescue her sister's family, and I wouldn't let her go. I made her stay in Japan while I went. I helped her sister and her family of children to get out of Russia—Nadine's sister had married a Russian. I was going to Russia anyway, so it's really no debt Nadine owes me, but she chooses to think so. We are old friends, dear, Nadine and I. She has been loyal, straight through—big enough for a real friendship. Nadine is an artist first, a woman afterward."

Karesia smiled. "And I suppose I am a woman first."

"Yes. La belle Karesia, with the wistful eyes—I love you!"

He did not need to tell her so; she knew it. He was completely enthralled. Karesia Kaime had pretty laugh-ing ways and a sense of humor ever on the alert. She made Dascome laugh. When with her the gray look faded from his face and there was a glow in his steadfast eyes. He said odd, reverent things to her, as a boy will to his first love; and wise, experienced things. And thoughts and fancies drawn from the deeps of him. Again and again Karesia detected the lawyer in him, the legal gift, the capacity to weigh and sift evidence and handle legal weapons; a keen and accurate reading of character, an unlimited vocabulary, words assembled and delivered with skill; the legal point of view combined with imagination, the qualities that had made him a brilliant criminal lawyer.

Was his wonderful capability going to be wasted? Karesia wondered. Finally she asked him, "When we are married, what work are you going to do?"

Dascome lifted her hand and kissed its warm palm. "What do you want me to do?"

"I want you to—it's one of the things I reverence in you."

"Would you like to go back to the law, John?"

"God forbid! I couldn't go back to the law!" he said so sharply that Karesia was startled. She had not meant to touch a wound.

Dascome smiled then. "Come into my arms while I whisper it to you—what I want to do."

"What is it?" she asked, flushing and eyes downcast, for he was kissing her, not telling her.

"I am going to write. I have written a little."

"You are! You have? Oh, you could write wonderfully!"

"It's a field open to all, isn't it—even to a John Dascome?"

"A John Dascome would grace it!" she said proudly.

The gray look crept into his face. "You see, I think of it sometimes—that I may be cutting you off from society. A woman feels that. If we were doing the same thing, it might be companionship for you."

"Society!" Karesia said with soft scorn. "You are not poor and poverty is the only thing that society will not forgive. Society is like any other animal; feed and wine it skilfully and house it comfortably and it will serve you well. Why take society seriously? But to have a working partner!" Her eyes filled. "What have you written?"

"A book. I've written it off and on, when I had to do something to distract me. I've just finished it."

Dascome had changed from crimson to white, the gray look that had always tugged at Karesia's heart. She had laid her cheek to his: "You don't need to tell me—I know it's true. Now, will you do something for me?"

"I would give you the world, if I could, my love."

"No, only this: try to forget. And hold it close to you, the same absolute certainty that I have; some day, in some unexpected way, it will all be made clear. All day I have had the strange feeling that the time is very near."

Dascome bent abruptly to tend the failing fire. "It may be," he said evenly. "What will be, will be." Then he had lifted and had drawn her to him. "But nothing that shall take you from me! This is the end of February; in March Clarice gets her money and I know she will leave me—there are things I want to accomplish, too, I hope I may be able to, I must do it. A thousand times in the last weeks I have told myself that I could never ask it of you, but I will. Will you marry me then, Karesia?"

"Yes—I will."

Dascome was again the quietly resolute, steadily determined man that Karesia knew and loved, voice even and deep, a strength against which she leaned, a force that enveloped her. "Very well," he said. "You are mine and I am yours. The past shall not matter."

The past did not matter to Karesia; in the days that followed, its chill hand did not touch her. It was so much a part of her love, the thing that had brought her to him, her passionate sympathy. They kept their secret; during those days Clarice was only a hurried visitor to her father's house, for most of the time she was at the studio and several times she spent the night with Nadine Navarre. The tests he had given Clarice had delighted Nadine's director. "That girl can do anything!" he told Nadine. "In a year she'll be starring."

"She will be eighteen next month," Dascome told Karesia, "and by the end of April she will have complete control of her fortune. She has not told me, but I know that then she'll leave me. I have talked it over with Nadine Navarre—Nadine will advise Clarice. She says that Clarice is working with utter concentration; her director says that Clarice is quick in catching an idea and that she has tireless vitality. Nadine's great fear was that Clarice would not be biddable."

"I am so glad! You owe a great deal to Madame Navarre," she added generously. Karesia was much too happy to be pricked by jealousy. Nadine Navarre may have been much or little to Dascome; he was hers now—what did it matter?

Dascome may have thought that it did matter to her, for he put his hand over hers—a firm pressure. "Nadine is paying a debt," he said. "She was determined to go to Russia and rescue her sister's family, and I wouldn't let her go. I made her stay in Japan while I went. I helped her sister and her family of children to get out of Russia—Nadine's sister had married a Russian. I was going to Russia anyway, so it's really no debt Nadine owes me, but she chooses to think so. We are old friends, dear, Nadine and I. She has been loyal, straight through—big enough for a real friendship. Nadine is an artist first, a woman afterward."

Karesia smiled. "And I suppose I am a woman first."

"Yes. La belle Karesia, with the wistful eyes—I love you!"

He did not need to tell her so; she knew it. He was completely enthralled. Karesia Kaime had pretty laughing ways and a sense of humor ever on the alert. She made Dascome laugh. When with her the gray look faded from his face and there was a glow in his steadfast eyes. He said odd, reverent things to her, as a boy will to his first love; and wise, experienced things. And thoughts and fancies drawn from the deeps of him. Again and again Karesia detected the lawyer in him, the legal gift, the capacity to weigh and sift evidence and handle legal weapons; a keen and accurate reading of character, an unlimited vocabulary, words assembled and delivered with skill; the legal point of view combined with imagination, the qualities that had made him a brilliant criminal lawyer.

Was his wonderful capability going to be wasted? Karesia wondered. Finally she asked him, "When we are married, what work are you going to do?"

Dascome lifted her hand and kissed its warm palm. "What do you want me to do?"

"I want you to—it's one of the things I reverence in you."

"Would you like to go back to the law, John?"

"God forbid! I couldn't go back to the law!" he said so sharply that Karesia was startled. She had not meant to touch a wound.

Dascome smiled then. "Come into my arms while I whisper it to you—what I want to do."

"What is it?" she asked, flushing and eyes downcast, for he was kissing her, not telling her.

"I am going to write. I have written a little."

"You are! You have? Oh, you could write wonderfully!"

"It's a field open to all, isn't it—even to a John Dascome?"

"A John Dascome would grace it!" she said proudly.

The gray look crept into his face. "You see, I think of it sometimes—that I may be cutting you off from society. A woman feels that. If we were doing the same thing, it might be companionship for you."

"Society!" Karesia said with soft scorn. "You are not poor and poverty is the only thing that society will not forgive. Society is like any other animal; feed and wine it skilfully and house it comfortably and it will serve you well. Why take society seriously? But to have a working partner!" Her eyes filled. "What have you written?"

"A book. I've written it off and on, when I had to do something to distract me. I've just finished it."

"A novel?"

By Mrs. Elizabeth Thompson

If we humans would only cultivate the faculty of appreciating the good things that we have, so many heartaches and disappointments would be averted. It is easy to dream hopefully of the future, believing that riches, prince charming and all the good things of life will come then; but not so easy to glorify the present. Prince charming often comes incognito.

Her Fickleness to Blame.

Dear Mrs. Thompson, I am a girl of 19. I was going with a nice young man a few years my senior. He gradually became more serious and finally hinted toward marriage. I had never had any thoughts of marriage, and just went with him for a good time. I thought that was all there was in this world—good times and no need of ever getting serious. When he began to show his liking for me I started discouraging him by slighting him and going with other fellows. The result was he gave up and finally quit coming to see me. I was glad at first as I didn't want to be tied down to any fellow and just wanted good times. After a while I began to realize I cared for him and now I want him back, but he is going with other girls. I believe he still likes me. What can I do to win or get him back. Please tell me.

A LONESOME GIRL.

You were a very fickle, selfish girl, my dear, and needed to be brought to time with a good lesson and heartache. Any girl who goes with one man after another merely for a good time, not stopping to think that the young men have feelings and are capable of deep love, deserves to suffer herself. Take your lesson. You have played your game and lost. Don't show how disappointed you are; keep up your good cheer and tell that you have learned a valuable lesson for the future. You can be friendly to the man but nothing more. Perhaps if he still cares for you he will come back. It may be, however, that he had enough of your indifference and will never again put himself in a position to be turned down by you. Always bear in mind that love is a very serious matter. If you trifle with it you will not get the most out of it. Consider the man's feelings and do not be any more willing to hurt than you are to be hurt.

His Affection Cools.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been going with a fellow for over three years almost steady. He used to think a lot of me and said he loved me. Lately he doesn't want to go any place with me unless it is to a show or some place that suits his own pleasure. I haven't any home here. He is not in a position to marry at present, but used to tell me he hoped to be soon. I don't know what to think because he doesn't go with any one else. I have tried several times going with others but they always proved a disappointment. This man has given me several expensive presents. I have tried to talk things over with him but I don't get any satisfaction. Please tell me what to do. I am 21 and he is 30. TROUBLED.

Since you feel that the man with whom you are going only wants to suit his own pleasure, it is time for you to give up the thought of marrying him. To be happy together it would be necessary for you to have congenial tastes so that his pleasures would be yours and yours would be his. Since this is not the case, be satisfied with his growing indifference and cultivate friendships with other men. The fact that you have been disappointed in others up to the present time means nothing. At the age of 21 it is quite natural that you have not met the right man.

The Oldest Question.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: What is true love? I met a girl about six months ago and we started going together. I think I loved her from the first and she seemed to like me too because she let me come to see her as often as I wanted to. Christmas day we became engaged and I was the happiest man on earth. I cannot understand this girl because ever since our engagement she has acted strange. She is moody and sometimes when I go to see her she hardly talks and if she does she says sharp things in reply to my remarks. Twice she has hurt my feelings so deeply that I have decided to tell her I no longer think it best to marry and then when I go to see her to talk it over she seems to be sorry and is very nice to me. There is one thing that worries me and that is I have noticed she is unkind to her mother. Her mother would do anything in the world for her and instead of appreciating it she is always saying sharp things to her and scolding her for something. No man could have loved more than I did at first, but now my mind is filled with doubts. I doubt her love for me because she is so unkind. I wonder if she would make a good wife. I also find myself wondering if I care as much for her as I did at first. What is your opinion?

ON THE FENCE.

There is no definition of true love. I would say, however, that if your fiance is truly in love it is with herself. Love for you and her mother would show itself in greater kindness. In my opinion you are betrothed to a girl who will not make a good wife. If she is moody and irritable to you now, you may be sure that after marriage her disposition will grow meaner instead of sweeter.

Ten Years Difference.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of 18 and in love with a man 10 years my senior. We have loved each other for five years but his attentions toward my younger sister are becoming so obvious that I am very unhappy and worried. Sometimes I have thought of ending it all between us, but teh hope that I might win him back some day keeps me from doing so. Do you think there is any chance? What would you advise me to do?

BROKEN-HEARTED S.

Tell the man what you have observed, and say that you want him to feel perfectly free to go with your sister and forget that you and he have ever been in love. Doubtless my suggestion will not appeal to you at all, but in my opinion it is the only course for you to take. It will be so much better for you to give the man his freedom than to suffer the humiliation of having him take it. To give up the man 10 years older than yourself who has dragged out his love over a period of five years and is now losing interest, will not be a great loss. Since you are 18 you have much happiness ahead of you and have every reason to hope that when you and he no longer go with each other you will enjoy other friendships and love affairs.

Doubts Her Lover.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl nearly 18 years of age. I go with a fellow of whom I think a great deal and he says he loves me. But when a certain girl is around he pays a great deal of attention to her. He has gone with this girl and could still go with her because she thinks a lot of him. He says he does not care to go with her and yet he appears to like her a great deal. She tells me everything to make trouble. What should I do toward her and him.

MARIE M.

Since the young man is going with you now instead of the other girl, you may be sure he cares more for you than he does for her. Anything she says should be overlooked, because jealousy probably prompts her to talk as she does. Try not to be upset by what you hear from her, and also be most guarded in the things you tell her. Doubtless the friendship which once existed between the young man and the other girl gives them interests in common, and when they are thrown together they enjoy each other. This should not worry you, however, because you may be sure if the man wanted to go with her he would do so and would not seek your company.

She Should Speak.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Last summer one of my very dear friends met a young man who is a home guard. After she had gone with him several times she found that he was engaged to another girl. Although she loved him very dearly she would not have anything to do with him. Every time she sees him he speaks, but she doesn't speak. Now we have heard he has broken his engagement. Would you advise my friend to correspond with him again? There is another young man who would like her company but she refuses him because of her love for the former one.

WONDERING TIN SOLDIER.

Your girl friend has no cause to stop speaking to the young man merely because he was engaged. It was rude of her to do so and he may not care to speak to her again. I would advise, however, that she speaks the next time they meet. It would not be wise for her to correspond with him unless he writes first.

Lawyers Get Research Nook.

With the completion of new buildings, the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, will have in its Lawyers' Club, one of the outstanding places in the educational world. It will be a research haven for lawyers. The equipment, it is stated, will enable a lawyer from any place in the Western Hemisphere to go there and complete his brief, doing all the research work necessary, without more than the most local outside aid.

A CAUSE OF WOMEN'S ILLS

WOMEN OFTEN THINK THEY HAVE HEART TROUBLE, INDIGESTION, NERVOUS PROSTRATION, ETC., WHEN IT'S SIMPLY IRON STARVATION OF THE BLOOD.

Many women believe they are weak and nervous as a result of age, worry and overwork; they think that their disturbed digestion, headaches, heart palpitation, shortness of breath, pains across the back, etc., are due to some serious disease instead of the real cause—iron starvation of the blood. This is proven by the fact that when many of these same women take organic iron for awhile all their alarming symptoms quickly disappear and they become strong, robust and healthy. Iron is absolutely necessary to enable your blood to change food into living cells and tissue. Without it nothing you eat does you the proper amount of good—you do not get the strength out of it.

If you are not strong and well do not wait until you go all to pieces and collapse in a state of nervous prostration, but take some organic iron—Nuxated Iron—at once. But be sure it's organic iron and not metallic iron which people usually take and which is made merely by the action of strong acids on small pieces of iron. Organic NUXATED IRON is like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples and it often increases the bodily and mental vigor of weak, wornout women in two weeks' time.

Beware of substitutes. Look for the word "Nuxated" on every package and the letters N.I. on every tablet. Your money will be refunded by the manufacturers if you do not obtain perfectly satisfactory results. At all druggists.

An "Outside" Treatment Bringing Quick Relief for Colds and Croup Without Internal Dosing

For croup and children's colds you just rub Vicks over throat and chest and cover with a warm flannel cloth. The ingredients—Menthol, Camphor, Eucalyptus, Thyme and Turpentine—are released as vapors by the body heat and inhaled with every breath all night long. At the same time Vicks is absorbed through and stimulates the skin like a poultice or plaster.

Colds go over night, croup is generally relieved within 15 minutes.

"If you are 10 to 100 pounds overweight you can easily and safely lose all that fat," says a French specialist. "For years I suffered with high blood pressure and heart trouble due to fifty pounds of excess fat. I was weak, short of breath and 'all in.' I could not find any clothes to fit me, and I was thoroughly disgusted with life until I found out about SAN-GRI-NA, a marvelous discovery. I know that a great many fat men and women are going through these same troubles to-day. And, for their benefit, I am glad to explain what I did to reduce and how they can easily and gradually lose a few pounds each week without any danger. Go to any good drug store and get a package of SAN-GRI-NA—(remember the name, and do not accept anything else, as nothing like this has ever before been offered to the American public).

HEART AND HOME PROBLEMS

BY MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

If we humans would only cultivate the faculty of appreciating the good things that we have, so many heartaches and disappointments would be averted. It is easy to dream hopefully of the future, believing that riches, prince charming and all the good things of life will come then; but not so easy to glorify the present. Prince charming often comes incognito.

Her Fickleness to Blame.

Dear Mrs. Thompson, I am a girl of 19. I was going with a nice young man a few years my senior. He gradually became more serious and finally hinted toward marriage. I had never had any thoughts of marriage, and just went with him for a good time. I thought that was all there was in this world—good times and no need of ever getting serious. When he began to show his liking for me I started discouraging him by slighting him and going with other fellows. The result was he gave up and finally quit coming to see me. I was glad at first as I didn't want to be tied down to any fellow and just wanted good times. After a while I began to realize I cared for him and now I want him back, but he is going with other girls. I believe he still likes me. What can I do to win or get him back. Please tell me.

A LONESOME GIRL.

You were a very fickle, selfish girl, my dear, and needed to be brought to time with a good lesson and heartache. Any girl who goes with one man after another merely for a good time, not stopping to think that the young men have feelings and are capable of deep love, deserves to suffer herself. Take your lesson. You have played your game and lost. Don't show how disappointed you are; keep up your good cheer and tell that you have learned a valuable lesson for the future. You can be friendly to the man but nothing more. Perhaps if he still cares for you he will come back. It may be, however, that he had enough of your indifference and will never again put himself in a position to be turned down by you. Always bear in mind that love is a very serious matter. If you trifle with it you will not get the most out of it. Consider the man's feelings and do not be any more willing to hurt than you are to be hurt.

His Affection Cools.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been going with a fellow for over three years almost steady. He used to think a lot of me and said he loved me. Lately he doesn't want to go any place with me unless it is to a show or some place that suits his own pleasure. I haven't any home here. He is not in a position to marry at present, but used to tell me he hoped to be soon. I don't know what to think because he doesn't go with any one else. I have tried several times going with others but they always proved a disappointment. This man has given me several expensive presents. I have tried to talk things over with him but I don't get any satisfaction. Please tell me what to do. I am 21 and he is 30. TROUBLED.

Since you feel that the man with whom you are going only wants to suit his own pleasure, it is time for you to give up the thought of marrying him. To be happy together it would be necessary for you to have congenial tastes so that his pleasures would be yours and yours would be his. Since this it not the case, be satisfied with his growing indifference and cultivate friendships with other men. The fact that you have been disappointed in others up to the present time means nothing. At the age of 21 it is quite natural that you have not met the right man.

The Oldest Question.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: What is true love? I met a girl about six months ago and we started going together. I think I loved her from the first and she seemed to like me too, because she let me come to see her as often as I wanted to. Christmas day we became engaged and I was the happiest man on earth. I cannot understand this girl because ever since our engagement she has acted strange. She is moody and sometimes when I go to see her she hardly talks and if she does she says sharp things in reply to my remarks. Twice she has hurt my feelings so deeply that I have decided to tell her I no longer think it best to marry and then when I go to see her to talk it over she seems to be sorry and is very nice to me. There is one thing that worries me and that is I have noticed she is unkind to her mother. Her mother would do anything in the world for her and instead of appreciating it she is always saying sharp things to her and scolding her for something. No man could have loved more than I did at first, but now my mind is filled with doubts. I doubt her love for me because she is so unkind. I wonder if she would make a good wife. I also find myself wondering if I care as much for her as I did at first. What is your opinion?

ON THE FENCE.

There is no definition of true love. I would say, however, that if your fiance is truly in love it is with herself. Love for you and her mother would show itself in greater kindness. In my opinion you are betrothed to a girl who will not make a good wife if she is moody and irritable to you now, you may be sure that after marriage her disposition will grow meaner instead of sweeter.

Ten Years Difference.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of 18 and in love with a man 10 years my senior. We have loved each other for five years but his attentions toward my younger sister are becoming so obvious that I am very unhappy and worried. Sometimes I have thought of ending it all between us, but teh hope that I might win him back some day keeps me from doing so. Do you think there is any chance? What would you advise me to do?

BROKEN-HEARTED S.

Tell the man what you have observed, and say that you want him to feel perfectly free to go with your sister and forget that you and he have ever been in love. Doubtless my suggestion will not appeal to you at all, but in my opinion it is the only course for you to take. It will be so much better for you to give the man his freedom than to suffer the humiliation of having him take it. To give up the man 10 years older than yourself who has dragged out his love over a period of five years and is now losing interest, will not be a great loss. Since you are 18 you have much happiness ahead of you and have every reason to hope that when you and he no longer go with each other you will enjoy other friendships and love affairs.

Doubts Her Lover.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl nearly 18 years of age. I go with a fellow of whom I think a great deal and he says he loves me. But when a certain girl is around he pays a great deal of attention to her. He has gone with this girl and could still go with her because she thinks a lot of hime. He says he does not care to go with her and yet he appears to like her a great deal. She tells me everything to make trouble. What should I do toward her and him.

MARIE M.

Since the young man is going with you now instead of the other girl, you may be sure he cares more for you than he does for her. Anything she says should be overlooked, because jealousy probably prompts her to talk as she does. Try not to be upset by what you hear from her, and also be most guarded in the things you tell her. Doubtless the friendship which once existed between the young man and the other girl gives them interests in common, and when they are thrown together they enjoy each other. This should not worry you, however, because you may be sure if the man wanted to go with her he would do so and would not seek your company.

She Should Speak.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Last summer one of my very dear friends met a young man who is a home guard. After she had gone with him several times she found that he was engaged to another girl. Although she loved him very dearly she would not have anything to do with him. Every time she sees him he speaks, but she doesn't speak. Now we have heard he has broken his engagement. Would you advise my friend to correspond with him again? There is another young man who would like her company but she refuses him because of her love for the former one.

WONDERING TIN SOLDIER.

Your girl friend has noncause to stop speaking to the young man merely because he was engaged. It was rude of her to do so and he may not care to speak to her again. I would advise, however, that she speaks the next time they meet. It would not be wise for her to correspond with him unless he writes first.

A CAUSE OF WOMEN'S ILLS

WOMEN OFTEN THINK THEY HAVE HEART TROUBLE, INDIGESTION, NERVOUS PROSTRATION, ETC., WHEN IT'S SIMPLY IRON STARVATION OF THE BLOOD.

Many women believe they are weak and nervous as a result of age, worry and overwork; they think that their disturbed digestion, headaches, heart palpitation, shortness of breath, pains across the back, etc., are due to some serious disease instead of the real cause—iron starvation of the blood. This is proven by the fact that when many of these same women take organic iron for awhile all their alarming symptoms quickly disappear and they become strong, robust and healthy. Iron is absolutely necessary to enable your blood to change food into living cells and tissue. Without it nothing you eat does you the proper amount of good—you do not get the strength out of it.

If you are not strong and well do not wait until you go all to pieces and collapse in a state of nervous prostration, but take some organic iron—Nuxated Iron—at once. But be sure it's organic iron and not metallic iron which people usually take and which is made merely by the action of strong acids on small pieces of iron. Organic NUXATED IRON is like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples and it often increases the bodily and mental vigor of weak, wornout women in two weeks' time.

Beware of substitutes. Look for the word "Nuxated" on every package and the letters N.I. on every tablet. Your money will be refunded by the manufacturers if you do not obtain perfectly satisfactory results. At all druggists.

Vicks comes in salve form and is applied externally—can be freely used without the slightest harmful effect.

For croup and children's colds you just rub Vicks over throat and chest and cover with a warm flannel cloth. The ingredients—Menthol, Camphor, Eucalyptus, Thyme and Turpentine—are released as vapors by the body heat and inhaled with every breath all night long. At the same time Vicks is absorbed through and stimulates the skin like a poultice or plaster.

Colds go over night, croup is generally relieved within 15 minutes.

"If you are 10 to 100 pounds overweight you can easily and safely lose all that fat," says a French specialist. "For years I suffered with high blood pressure and heart trouble due to fifty pounds of excess fat. I was weak, short of breath and 'all in.' I could not find any clothes to fit me, and I was thoroughly disgusted with life until I found out about SAN-GRI-NA, a marvelous discovery. I know that a great many fat men and women are going through these same troubles to-day. And, for their benefit, I am glad to explain what I did to reduce and how they can easily and gradually lose a few pounds each week without any danger. Go to any good drug store and get a package of SAN-GRI-NA—(remember the name, and do not accept anything else, as nothing like this has ever before been offered to the American public).

"SAN-GRI-NA, the formula of a French physician, has been used in Europe in private practice, where enormous prices have been paid for it. Simply take two tablets before each meal and watch your fat disappear. Once you have started to take SAN-GRI-NA, you should feel greater pep and energy. No more tired feeling. SAN-GRI-NA is guaranteed absolutely harmless, and positive to relieve you or your money is refunded. Remember that is all I did to get rid of 50 pounds of unhealthy, ugly rolls of fat. I have not regained one pound since I stopped using SAN-GRI-NA. I look and feel years younger, and can sincerely recommend it to any fat man or woman."

Runyon Says

They Wrestle In Texas.
Sport is Quite Popular.
Big Leaguers Have Departed.
The Glories of Marlin.
Speaker's Old Home Town.

By DAMON RUNYON.
Copyright, 1925, International Feature Service, Inc.

THE Writer is traveling through Texas as this is written, over the Southern Pacific.

What is going on in sport in the Lone Star State?

Wrestling seems to be thriving in Houston, always something of a wrestling stronghold.

You see names of matmen mentioned in the papers who are apparently well known in these parts, though the East has yet to hear of some of them—"Red" Pigler, Paul Jones, Silvio Checco, Mike Ragan, Bobbie Burns, Vic Muhl.

"Toots" Mondt is, perhaps, the best known of the Texas wrestlers. He is still active in the game.

The Texas fans know the big leaguers better than the fans of any other region outside the big league jurisdiction. That is because it was the popular spring training ground of the big leaguer up to the last couple of years.

Florida has drawn the big leaguers away from Texas partly because Florida is nearer the big league centers, cutting down the item of transportation, and partly because the Florida towns offer stronger inducements.

The writer is not sure that the Florida climate is any better, if as good, for Spring conditioning as the climate of Texas.

In some parts of Florida where the ball players train it is apt to be monotonously hot. In Texas there is greater variety of temperature.

The greatest baseball training camp the writer has ever seen is the little town of Marlin, where the New York Giants trained for years, and the Chicago Cubs and Cincinnati Reds before them.

It lacks only hotel accommodations to make it the ideal spot for conditioning ball players. It has hot springs unsurpassed anywhere in the world.

The water works cures, well-nigh miraculous, of rheumatism and blood and skin diseases. The writer does not exagerate when he tells you he has seen many persons carried off trains on litters, apparently hopelessly crippled, walking the streets of Marlin a week later.

Americans spend thousands of dollars every year to go to the famous spas of Europe for treatment. Marlin can give them water for far greater virtues than they can find in Europe. But, unfortunately, Marlin cannot also provide them with the hotel luxuries of the continent.

John J. McGraw and his Giants stuck to Marlin for about ten years.

McGraw to this day will tell you that it is the best training camp in the land. But you must give ball players something else besides climate and hot water.

McGraw finally moved on to San Antonio, magnificent Winter resort, and thriving metropolis of the great Southwest. Until he switched to Florida as a training camp, however, McGraw sent his pitchers to Marlin for preliminary conditioning.

He believed that the hot springs of Marlin "boiled out" the human system, made pilable the muscles of the human body, better than anything else.

Potters Win From Chinas By Big Score

Completely outplaying their opponents after the first quarter, the Potters defeated the Hall China five, 55 to 24, last night in a "Y" Industrial league court contest.

The Hall passers threatened to make a runaway of the game in the initial period, scoring six points before the Potters even approached the basket, with Mackey and Dyer taking the limelight.

Zook was the first to tally for the Potters and Hamilton followed with another two-pointer, cutting down the opposition's lead. Mackey, however, made two more double-deckers for the Halls and Dyer counted on a free throw, giving the china workers a seven point margin. Hamilton tossed in a field goal for the Potters and Johnson made two points from the foul line. The quarter ended with the Halls leading by the score of 11 to 8.

The Hall China threat, however, proved only a threat, for the Potters wiped out the former squad's lead in the second period and plied up a few extra points themselves. The Potters were ahead by the score of 24 to 13 at the end of the half.

During the third period the Potters continued to set the pace and the Halls were unable to keep step. The third period score was 36 to 19.

In the final quarter the Potters had things practically their own way. Hamilton, of the Potters, was the scoring star, with 13 field goals and four fouls. The all around playing of Gayton and Zook featured. Mackey Dyer and Heddleston were the China mainstays, Mackey leading his team in scoring.

The lineup:

Potters		Hall China
Johnson	F	Mackey
Hamilton	F	Dyer
Guyton	C	Smith
Zook	G	Heddelston
Moore	G	Todd

McGraw Goes South Without Completing Reported Red Deal

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—John McGraw will leave today for his annual mid-windwinter vacation in the South, having consummated the trade reported to have been broached by the Cincinnati Reds, during the recent baseball meeting here. McGraw will remain in the South until the Giants report to him at Sarasota, Fla.

He had no comment to make on the district attorney's report of the baseball probe, beyond saying:

"I'm glad for Cozy's sake. He'll probably be able to go out and earn a living somewhere, now."

Glenmore Lassies Win Close Contest From St. Stephens

The Glenmore girls' basketball team defeated the St. Stephens sextet last evening on the St. Stephens court in a close contest that developed thrills throughout. The final score was 24 to 22. Miss Imbrie of the St. Stephens, and Misses Bowersock, M. Graham of the winners, were the leading scorers.

The lineup:

St. Stephens		Glenmore
Imbrie	F	Bowersock
Bailey	F	Turner
Betts	G	M. Graham
Dyke	C	Wheatley
Sayre	G	Reark
Green	G	H. Graham

Substitutions—St. Stephens, Reddick for Bailey, Bailey for Reddick, McConnell for Green; Glenmore—Conn for H. Graham, H. Graham for Conn.

Dolan Will Carry Fight Into Court

Plans Civil Suit Against Landis if He's Not Reinstated.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Cozy Dolan, blacklisted coach of the New York Giants, will bring civil suit against Judge Landis for reinstatement, his attorney, Wm. J. Fallon, declared today following the local district attorney's probe into the baseball scandal. Fortified by the fact that the prosecutor's report failed to find him guilty of conspiracy, as charged by Jimmy O'Connell's confession, Dolan will seek immediate vindication, his attorney said.

"Cozy is innocent and Mr. Brothers' report practically gives him a clean bill of health," Fallon declared. "We intend to give Judge Landis a chance to reinstate him. If he doesn't, we will bring the matter into the courts. Dolan can not be kept on baseball's blacklist for an offense he knows nothing about."

Goodman-Anderson Battle Scheduled For Youngstowners

YOUNGSTOWN, Feb. 5.—All Zill, Youngstown's boxing promoter, apparently doesn't believe the world will come to an untimely end tomorrow, for he's busy lining up a fight card for Wednesday, February 11, in which he will headline Charley Goodman, of New York, the only lad who has a knockout victory over Carl Tremane, against Eddie Anderson, of Casper, Wyoming.

The fact that Goodman put Tremane away is proof of his ability. And Anderson is by no means a dub. Anderson handed Rosy Stoy a beating last summer at Idora park. He has been displaying a pleasing style of boxing in and around Cleveland lately.

There are quite a few things to be settled before the scrap is "in," but Zill believes he has the pair well on the way to signing contracts.

Pal Kansas, who has been boxing in Canton, will take on Harry McMillen, a worthy youngster from Cleveland, in the preliminary.

Forbes Field Stands Will Be Enlarged

Baseball in Pittsburgh has outgrown Forbes Field. The present big stadium, built in 1909 and considered at the time sufficiently large to take care of Pittsburgh's baseball crowds for the present generation, has, during the past few years, proven inadequate and thousands have, on numerous occasions, been forced to stand on the field to view their favorite pastime. To remedy this condition and to provide seats for everybody in attendance, the management of the Pittsburgh club last week contracted for additions to the present stand large enough to take care of 12,000 more fans and costing approximately $750,000. The new addition will have two floors, will be built as a continuation of the present grandstand down the right field foul line then swinging over into right-center field, and will increase the capacity of Forbes Field from 28,000 to 40,000. The new building will be of the latest reinforced concrete and steel construction and will match the general design of the present stand. Careful attention has been given to the line of sight, and a full view of the field is assured. The playing field, aside from a little shortening of the right field foul line will be unaffected by the addition. Work is now under way and the new addition will be ready for use about the last week of June, after which there will be plenty of seats for all patrons of Forbes Field.

The Pirate management has also announced that the mail order sale of tickets for the opening game of the 1925 season, Wednesday, April 22, is now open and orders will be filled in the order of receipt. The prices are the same as last season—Box seats $1.50 and reserved seats $1.25, tax included. All orders accompanied by check or money order and an addressed return envelope will receive prompt attention.

The Chicago Cubs are to be the Buccaneer's opponents for the Forbes Field opening series this year, and has special significance in that it will afford an excellent opportunity for judging the relative merits of the two teams since the big player swap of last fall which sent Charley Grimm, Rabbitt Maranville and Wilbur Cooper to the Cubs in exchange for George Grantham, who will be used in the outfield by Manager McKechnie, Victor Aldridge, a right hand first string pitcher and Albert Niehaus who will succeed Grimm at first base. The consensus of opinion among baseball followers is that the trade greatly benefited both clubs. The opening series, beginning on April 22 at Forbes Field, will give the fans a chance to judge for themselves.

Terris and Mandell Down to Limit for Their Scrap Friday

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—According to statements issued today from the rival camps, Tid Terris and Sammy Mandell, principals in tomorrow night's big lightweight contest are well within the required limit of 135 pounds and will indulge in only light exercise this afternoon. The men are regarded as the leading contenders for the lightweight title, vacated by Benny Leonard, and every reserved seat in the Garden has been sold.

Terris continued today to rule a slight favorite in the betting but Mandell had many supporters. They met once before, the official verdict being a draw.

Laughlin 4 and 6 Bowlers to Meet For Championship

The bowling teams of the Laughlin 4 and 6 plants will meet tonight on the Liberty alleys with the plant pin championship at stake.

Both squads have been assaulting the maples effectively and high scores are anticipated. The battle will begin at 7:45.

Nurmi Disregards Ray's Challenge to Run Special Mile

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Advisers of Paavo Nurmi, world's greatest runner, said today that the great Finn would go through with his program of running three thousand meters at the Wilco games on Saturday, regardless of Joie Ray's challenge to meet him at a mile.

"Nurmi has laid his plans to run the longer distance and can not alter them at this late hour," Hugo Quist, his manager, declared. "If Ray was so anxious to meet him at the mile he had plenty of chance to mention the fact before this. It is absurd for Ray to insinuate that Nurmi fears to meet him at the mile distance or that Paavo is naming his own distances with this idea in mind. The public seems to want records and Nurmi is trying to oblige by running longer races because they give him a greater chance to break records at intermediate distances."

In a letter to the Wilco officials, made public today, Ray withdrew from the Wilco 3,000 metre race in favor of a special race at one mile, challenging Nurmi to do likewise.

Kenyon Five Faces Big Job in Holding Lead in Conference

GAMBIER, Feb. 5—Holding the lead in the Ohio Conference this month will be strenuous work. Little Kenyon's basketball team with its record of six games played and six won faces a February schedule of seven formidable rivals to be met in four weeks.

On February 7th Kenyon plays Baldwin-Wallace at Gambier; on February 10th Mt. Union at Alliance; on February 14th Miami at Gambier; on February 20th Wittenberg at Springfield; on February 21st. Ohio at Athens; on February 27th Ohio at Gambier and February 28th Muskingum at New Concord.

Of the seven opposing teams, Mt. Union also has a clean slate of winnings, having played three and won three. Ohio has lost only one in five and Wittenberg one in three. Muskingum and Miami are old rivals in spite of the four games each has lost. These teams will meet Kenyon with a will to win which may be expected to make the contests spirited.

The narrow margin of skill and intelligence, which makes the difference between good teams and championship teams, has been held so far this year by Kenyon. Each game has been marked by beautiful team work, taking the slightest openings for advantage, sureness of shooting and passing.

A six game record in the Ohio Conference means real work and Kenyon deserves a claim for pulling herself out of last year's sixteenth place to first place. The Kenyon five's record is one of the high spots of the 1924-25 season.

Major Charles Daly May Draw Harvard Grid Coach Post

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 5.—Speculation was plentiful today as to who would be elected to take the place of Robert T. "Bob" Fisher, head football coach at Harvard since 1909. Fisher resigned for business reasons. In the Fisher resignation many saw the way paved for the election as head coach of Major Charles D. Daly, who is coming to Harvard as commander of the reserve officers training corps.

Negro's Challenge, Friends Say, Should Be Taken Up First

New York State Commission Would be Forced to Honor Colored Man's Claim for Bout or Violate Own Precepts.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—A new impediment for the proposed return meeting of Jack Dempsey and Tom Gibbons in this state came to the surface today with the announcement that pressure may be brought to bear upon the New York state Athletic commission to force it to refuse sanction for the affair, if and when formal application for a permit is made. Friends of Harry Wills, the perennial colored gent in the woodpile, are said to be behind the movement which is founded upon the fact that Wills has a prior challenge on file.

This, according to the commission's code, would give Wills' defi precedence over that of Gibbons, and failure to recognize this fact would place the board in the equivocal position of violating its own precepts.

Mickey Walker and Mike McTigue, among others, stand convicted of lese majeste in this state because they failed to accept challenges, duly leveled at them through the medium of the commission. Walker has been under suspension since time out of memory and all boxers who saw fit to frolic with him in alien rings suffered the same fate. McTigue is outside the jurisdiction of the board because he never applied for a license here but the commission has let it be known that Michael is looked upon with heavy disfavor.

Few persons hereabouts believe that Wills has anything but an odds-on chance with Dempsey. As one boxing man of more than ordinary horse sense put it today:

"I wouldn't walk across the street to see the thing. Wills has never shown me a thing."

Yet the colored men has had a serious challenge on file for years without getting anywhere in particular on the issue.

Dempsey even signed an agreement to met him several years ago but the whole matter has been allowed to go by default. When Firpo came up from nowhere with his spectacular rush, it was the Latin and not Wills who got the big shot at the title.

Laughlin Shopmen To Talk Baseball At Friday Meeting

Tentative plans for the 1925 baseball season will be discussed by representatives of the six Laughlin shops at a meeting tomorrow night in the Y. M. C. A., according to announcement by Joe Dickey, Laughlin welfare director.

It is possible that team managers will be named. Both the East End and the Newell plants will have clubs, it is understood, and probably will be members of the "Y" industrial circuit.

Paris Opera Plans Special Track to Let Nurmi Perform

PARIS, Feb. 5.—Paavo Nurmi will have a chance to show his wares in the Paris opera, Echo Des Sports announced today. The Finnish world champion distance runner, who last night established his seventeenth and eighteenth world records since arriving in America, has been invited to compete here in the spring. A 200 metre track will be constructed in the opera for his appearance, the newspaper stated.

Sid Barbarian Will Not Show Wares in Boxing Tournament

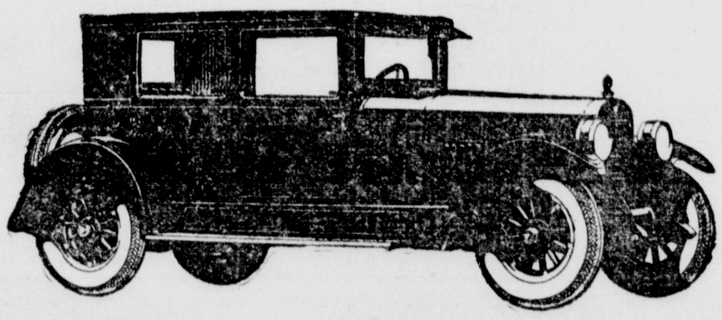

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 5.—Sid Barbarian will not enter the lightweight elimination tournament in New York, it was announced today. According to Sam Pearlstein, Barbarian's manager, Sid has beaten practically all of the fighters named to compete, but is willing to meet Sid Terris and Sammy Mandell. Barbarian has signed to meet George "Kayo" Chaney in Madison Square Garden, and may make a trip to the Pacific coast.

If he doesn't, we will bring the matter into the courts. Dolan can not be kept on baseball's blacklist for an offense he knows nothing about."

Goodman-Anderson Battle Scheduled For Youngstowners

YOUNGSTOWN, Feb. 5.—All Zill, Youngstown's boxing promoter, apparently doesn't believe the world will come to an untimely end tomorrow, for he's busy lining up a fight card for Wednesday, February 11, in which he will headline Charley Goodman, of New York, the only lad who has a knockout victory over Carl Tremane, against Eddie Anderson, of Casper, Wyoming.

The fact that Goodman put Tremane away is proof of his ability. And Anderson is by no means a dub. Anderson handed Rosy Stoy a beating last summer at Idora park. He has been displaying a pleasing style of boxing in and around Cleveland lately.

There are quite a few things to be settled before the scrap is "in," but Zill believes he has the pair well on the way to signing contracts.

Pal Kansas, who has been boxing in Canton, will take on Harry McMillen, a worthy youngster from Cleveland, in the preliminary.

Forbes Field Stands Will Be Enlarged

Baseball in Pittsburgh has outgrown Forbes Field. The present big stadium, built in 1909 and considered at the time sufficiently large to take care of Pittsburgh's baseball crowds for the present generation, has, during the past few years, proven inadequate and thousands have, on numerous occasions, been forced to stand on the field to view their favorite pastime. To remedy this condition and to provide seats for everybody in attendance, the management of the Pittsburgh club last week contracted for additions to the present stand large enough to take care of 12,000 more fans and costing approximately $750,000. The new addition will have two floors, will be built as a continuation of the present grandstand down the right field foul line then swinging over into right-center field, and will increase the capacity of Forbes Field from 28,000 to 40,000. The new building will be of the latest reinforced concrete and steel construction and will match the general design of the present stand. Careful attention has been given to the line of sight, and a full view of the field is assured. The playing field, aside from a little shortening of the right field foul line will be unaffected by the addition. Work is now under way and the new addition will be ready for use about the last week of June, after which there will be plenty of seats for all patrons of Forbes Field.

The Pirate management has also announced that the mail order sale of tickets for the opening game of the 1925 season, Wednesday, April 22, is now open and orders will be filled in the order of receipt. The prices are the same as last season—Box seats $1.50 and reserved seats $1.25, tax included. All orders accompanied by check or money order and an addressed return envelope will receive prompt attention.

The Chicago Cubs are to be the Buccaneer's opponents for the Forbes Field opening series this year, and has special significance in that it will afford an excellent opportunity for judging the relative merits of the two teams since the big player swap of last fall which sent Charley Grimm, Rabbitt Maranville and Wilbur Cooper to the Cubs in exchange for George Grantham, who will be used in the outfield by Manager McKechnie, Victor Aldridge, a right hand first string pitcher and Albert Niehaus who will succeed Grimm at first base. The consensus of opinion among baseball followers is that the trade greatly benefited both clubs. The opening series, beginning on April 22 at Forbes Field, will give the fans a chance to judge for themselves.

Terris and Mandell Down to Limit for Their Scrap Friday

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—According to statements issued today from the rival camps, Tid Terris and Sammy Mandell, principals in tomorrow night's big lightweight contest are well within the required limit of 135 pounds and will indulge in only light exercise this afternoon. The men are regarded as the leading contenders for the lightweight title, vacated by Benny Leonard, and every reserved seat in the Garden has been sold.

Terris continued today to rule a slight favorite in the betting but Mandell had many supporters. They met once before, the official verdict being a draw.

Laughlin 4 and 6 Bowlers to Meet For Championship

The bowling teams of the Laughlin 4 and 6 plants will meet tonight on the Liberty alleys with the plant pin championship at stake.

Both squads have been assaulting the maples effectively and high scores are anticipated. The battle will begin at 7:45.

Nurmi Disregards Ray's Challenge to Run Special Mile

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Advisers of Paavo Nurmi, world's greatest runner, said today that the great Finn would go through with his program of running three thousand meters at the Wilco games on Saturday, regardless of Joie Ray's challenge to meet him at a mile.

"Nurmi has laid his plans to run the longer distance and can not alter them at this late hour," Hugo Quist, his manager, declared. "If Ray was so anxious to meet him at the mile he had plenty of chance to mention the fact before this. It is absurd for Ray to insinuate that Nurmi fears to meet him at the mile distance or that Paavo is naming his own distances with this idea in mind. The public seems to want records and Nurmi is trying to oblige by running longer races because they give him a greater chance to break records at intermediate distances."

In a letter to the Wilco officials, made public today, Ray withdrew from the Wilco 3,000 metre race in favor of a special race at one mile, challenging Nurmi to do likewise.

Kenyon Five Faces Big Job in Holding Lead in Conference

GAMBIER, Feb. 5—Holding the lead in the Ohio Conference this month will be strenuous work. Little Kenyon's basketball team with its record of six games played and six won faces a February schedule of seven formidable rivals to be met in four weeks.

On February 7th Kenyon plays Baldwin-Wallace at Gambier; on February 10th Mt. Union at Alliance; on February 14th Miami at Gambier; on February 20th Wittenberg at Springfield; on February 21st. Ohio at Athens; on February 27th Ohio at Gambier and February 28th Muskingum at New Concord.

Of the seven opposing teams, Mt. Union also has a clean slate of winnings, having played three and won three. Ohio has lost only one in five and Wittenberg one in three. Muskingum and Miami are old rivals in spite of the four games each has lost. These teams will meet Kenyon with a will to win which may be expected to make the contests spirited.

The narrow margin of skill and intelligence, which makes the difference between good teams and championship teams, has been held so far this year by Kenyon. Each game has been marked by beautiful team work, taking the slightest openings for advantage, sureness of shooting and passing.

A six game record in the Ohio Conference means real work and Kenyon deserves a claim for pulling herself out of last year's sixteenth place to first place. The Kenyon five's record is one of the high spots of the 1924-25 season.

Major Charles Daly May Draw Harvard Grid Coach Post

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 5.—Speculation was plentiful today as to who would be elected to take the place of Robert T. "Bob" Fisher, head football coach at Harvard since 1909. Fisher resigned for business reasons. In the Fisher resignation many saw the way paved for the election as head coach of Major Charles D. Daly, who is coming to Harvard as commander of the reserve officers training corps.

Negro's Challenge, Friends Say, Should Be Taken Up First

New York State Commission Would be Forced to Honor Colored Man's Claim for Bout or Violate Own Precepts.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—A new impediment for the proposed return meeting of Jack Dempsey and Tom Gibbons in this state came to the surface today with the announcement that pressure may be brought to bear upon the New York state Athletic commission to force it to refuse sanction for the affair, if and when formal application for a permit is made. Friends of Harry Wills, the perennial colored gent in the woodpile, are said to be behind the movement which is founded upon the fact that Wills has a prior challenge on file.

This, according to the commission's code, would give Wills' defi precedence over that of Gibbons, and failure to recognize this fact would place the board in the equivocal position of violating its own precepts.

Mickey Walker and Mike McTigue, among others, stand convicted of lese majeste in this state because they failed to accept challenges, duly leveled at them through the medium of the commission. Walker has been under suspension since time out of memory and all boxers who saw fit to frolic with him in alien rings suffered the same fate. McTigue is outside the jurisdiction of the board because he never applied for a license here but the commission has let it be known that Michael is looked upon with heavy disfavor.

Few persons hereabouts believe that Wills has anything but an odds-on chance with Dempsey. As one boxing man of more than ordinary horse sense put it today:

"I wouldn't walk across the street to see the thing. Wills has never shown me a thing."

Yet the colored men has had a serious challenge on file for years without getting anywhere in particular on the issue.

Dempsey even signed an agreement to met him several years ago but the whole matter has been allowed to go by default. When Firpo came up from nowhere with his spectacular rush, it was the Latin and not Wills who got the big shot at the title.

Laughlin Shopmen To Talk Baseball At Friday Meeting

Tentative plans for the 1925 baseball season will be discussed by representatives of the six Laughlin shops at a meeting tomorrow night in the Y. M. C. A., according to announcement by Joe Dickey, Laughlin welfare director.

It is possible that team managers will be named. Both the East End and the Newell plants will have clubs, it is understood, and probably will be members of the "Y" industrial circuit.

Paris Opera Plans Special Track to Let Nurmi Perform

PARIS, Feb. 5.—Paavo Nurmi will have a chance to show his wares in the Paris opera, Echo Des Sports announced today. The Finnish world champion distance runner, who last night established his seventeenth and eighteenth world records since arriving in America, has been invited to compete here in the spring. A 200 metre track will be constructed in the opera for his appearance, the newspaper stated.

Sid Barbarian Will Not Show Wares in Boxing Tournament

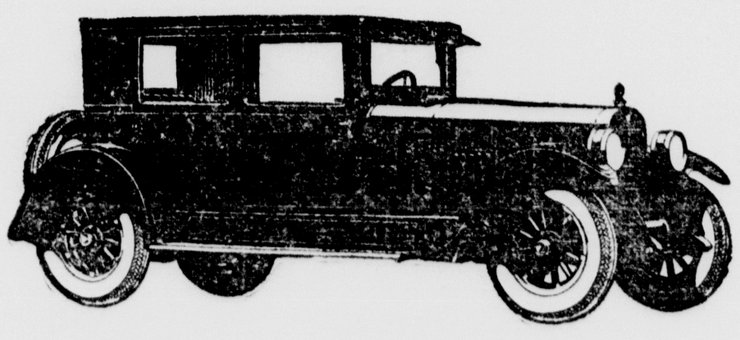

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 5.—Sid Barbarian will not enter the lightweight elimination tournament in New York, it was announced today. According to Sam Pearlstein, Barbarian's manager, Sid has beaten practically all of the fighters named to compete, but is willing to meet Sid Terris and Sammy Mandell. Barbarian has signed to meet George "Kayo" Chaney in Madison Square Garden, and may make a trip to the Pacific coast.

The most remarkable tobacco ever offered to pipe smokers — in quality, in value, in taste

Back about 1870, James N. Wellman developed a secret tobacco process which won instant and widespread favor. It yielded a fuller-bodied richness, mildness and fragrance which just seemed to "go" with a pipe. No one else ever knew his secret until we acquired "Wellman's Method" and by its means made "Granger Rough Cut"

Runyon Says:

For that matter, anywhere in Texas in the Spring is considered good training ground. The entire State has what the big leaguers are seeking, CLIMATE and WEATHER.

Clubs have trained at Houston, Galveston, Dallas, Corsciana, Wichita Falls, Marlin, Mineral Springs, Temple, Texarkana, San Antonio, Waco, Brownsville and a score of other cities of the Lone Star State in the past.

Thus Texas is rich in baseball tradition. This will probably be the first year in many years that not one big league club will train in Texas. Eleven go to Florida, two to Louisiana, and three to California.

It has probably sent more ball players to the big leagues than any other State in the union—that is, native born players.

A noted son of Texas is Tris Speaker, manager of the Cleveland club, who comes from the little town of Hubbard. The writer once stood on the rear platform of a train with Speaker one night approaching Hubbard. Speaker was eager to point out his home town.

A brief flare of lights out of the darkness—

"That's it!" said Tris, proudly. "Right there!"

"What?" asked the writer, "that little bunch of lights?"

"Yes, sir!" replied Speaker. "That's the main stem!"

The writer noted that Speaker is in Hubbard with his bride at this writing.

He waited until he was mature, settled, "well fixed" before he married, also until he found the right girl which is more important.

He is a fine man, of high principles, INTELLIGENT. He is a good loyal son of Texas, a splendid citizen.

The Texas League is a prosperous organization. The president is an old acquaintance of the writer, Doak Roberts, of Houston, able baseball man.

He has been identified with baseball in Texas many years. He once owned the Houston club. Galveston has recently dropped out of his circuit.

The Fort Worth club of the Texas League is managed by Jakey Atz, a man of such striking managerial ability the writer marvels that some big league club has not sought his services.

Jakey Atz has won five consecutive pennants for Fort Worth. As the writer told you when speaking of the amazing exploit of Jack Dunn, of Baltimore, in winning SIX consecutive penants, it is just as difficult to win a pennant in a minor league as in a major league.

But, perhaps, like Dunn, Jakey Atz wouldn't go to the big leagues if he got an offer. Perhaps he is CONTENTED at Fort Worth. That is worth a great deal.

Grovers Have Lost One Game This Year; Mountaineers Work

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Feb. 5—Information received here reveals that Grove City college cagers, who come here Saturday night to meet the West Virginia University quint, have lost only one game so far this season. The news was a surprise to most Mountaineer fans as many had the impression that the Crimson quint had been defeated two or three times.

Geneva College, conqueror of Pitt, Wash-Jeff and others, is the only team holding a decision over Grove City at this time. On their own account the Grovers have humbled Weynesburg, Westminster, Pitt and Thiel. Friday evening Coach Bo Thorn will send the Crimson team against Carnegie Tech, a machine that holds a victory over Geneva.

Grove City's probable lineup lists Captain Fleming and Stevens, forwards; Sweet, center; and Rose and Pilotte guards. It is a veteran team as this is the fourth season at Grove City for Captain Fleming and the second for Rose, Pilette, Stevens and Sweet. Two men in their third year of basketball at Grove City are on the sidelines. They are Jerry Fay, giant center and Ross, veteran guard, and the fact that they are on the bench offers conclusive proof that the Crimson five is much stronger now than at any time last winter.

Smith-Phillips and Potters Clubs Win Y Indoor Clashes

The Potters and the Smith-Phillips teams were winners last night in "Y" industrial indoor baseball league engagements, the Potters downing Laughlin 6, 7 to 5, and the Oaklanders beating the Adamants, 14 to 6.

The Adamants have replaced the Laughlin 5 club in the loop, the latter outfit withdrawing.

The tip is out among the boxers that the "big money" is in California, where the game has just been legalized by the state. The influx of ring stars to that territory has begun. Mickey Walker, welterweight champ; "Kid" Caplan, unofficial welterweight champion; Pal Moore, Tommy Loughran; Sammy Mandell and several other more or less well known gladiators have gone to the coast to get in on the aforementioned money.

Runyon Says:

For that matter, anywhere in Texas in the Spring is considered good training ground. The entire State has what the big leaguers are seeking, CLIMATE and WEATHER.

Clubs have trained at Houston, Galveston, Dallas, Corsciana, Wichita Falls, Marlin, Mineral Springs, Temple, Texarkana, San Antonio, Waco, Brownsville and a score of other cities of the Lone Star State in the past.

Thus Texas is rich in baseball tradition. This will probably be the first year in many years that not one big league club will train in Texas. Eleven go to Florida, two to Louisiana, and three to California.

It has probably sent more ball players to the big leagues than any other State in the union—that is, native born players.

A noted son of Texas is Tris Speaker, manager of the Cleveland club, who comes from the little town of Hubbard. The writer once stood on the rear platform of a train with Speaker one night approaching Hubbard. Speaker was eager to point out his home town.

A brief flare of lights out of the darkness—

"That's it!" said Tris, proudly. "Right there!"

"What?" asked the writer, "that little bunch of lights?"

"Yes, sir!" replied Speaker. "That's the main stem!"

The writer noted that Speaker is in Hubbard with his bride at this writing.

He waited until he was mature, settled, "well fixed" before he married, also until he found the right girl which is more important.

He is a fine man, of high principles, INTELLIGENT. He is a good loyal son of Texas, a splendid citizen.

The Texas League is a prosperous organization. The president is an old acquaintance of the writer, Doak Roberts, of Houston, able baseball man.

He has been identified with baseball in Texas many years. He once owned the Houston club. Galveston has recently dropped out of his circuit.

The Fort Worth club of the Texas League is managed by Jakey Atz, a man of such striking managerial ability the writer marvels that some big league club has not sought his services.

Jakey Atz has won five consecutive pennants for Fort Worth. As the writer told you when speaking of the amazing exploit of Jack Dunn, of Baltimore, in winning SIX consecutive penants, it is just as difficult to win a pennant in a minor league as in a major league.

But, perhaps, like Dunn, Jakey Atz wouldn't go to the big leagues if he got an offer. Perhaps he is CONTENTED at Fort Worth. That is worth a great deal.

Grovers Have Lost One Game This Year; Mountaineers Work

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Feb. 5—Information received here reveals that Grove City college cagers, who come here Saturday night to meet the West Virginia University quint, have lost only one game so far this season. The news was a surprise to most Mountaineer fans as many had the impression that the Crimson quint had been defeated two or three times.

Geneva College, conqueror of Pitt, Wash-Jeff and others, is the only team holding a decision over Grove City at this time. On their own account the Grovers have humbled Weynesburg, Westminster, Pitt and Thiel. Friday evening Coach Bo Thorn will send the Crimson team against Carnegie Tech, a machine that holds a victory over Geneva.

Grove City's probable lineup lists Captain Fleming and Stevens, forwards; Sweet, center; and Rose and Pilgte guards. It is a veteran team as this is the fourth season at Grove City for Captain Fleming and the second for Rose, Pilette, Stevens and Sweet. Two men in their third year of basketball at Grove City are on the sidelines. They are Jerry Fay, giant center and Ross, veteran guard, and the fact that they are on the bench offers conclusive proof that the Crimson five is much stronger now than at any time last winter.

Smith-Phillips and Potters Clubs Win Y Indoor Clashes

The Potters and the Smith-Phillips teams were winners last night in "Y" industrial indoor baseball league engagements, the Potters downing Laughlin 6, 7 to 5, and the Oaklanders beating the Adamants, 14 to 6.

The Adamants have replaced the Laughlin 5 club in the loop, the latter outfit withdrawing.

Two Sunday School League Engagements Are Carded Tonight

First M. P. vs. Penn Ave. M. E.

First M. E. Juniors vs. U. P. Juniors.

Fighters Go West.

The tip is out among the boxers that the "big money" is in California, where the game has just been legalized by the state. The influx of ring stars to that territory has begun. Mickey Walker, welterweight champ; "Kid" Caplan, unofficial welterweight champion; Pal Moore, Tommy Loughran; Sammy Mandell and several other more or less well known gladiators have gone to the coast to get in on the aforementioned money.

MIDLAND MAN IS GIVEN FREEDOM

The case of Thomas Smith of Midland, convicted of keeping a disorderly house and sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution, a fine of $500 and serve six months in the Allegheny county workhouse, came to an end yesterday when Judge Frank E. Reader at Beaver in an opinion stated that if Smith would pay the fine imposed by the court within 15 days the prison sentence would be withdrawn.

After the trial and subsequent sentence Smith's attorney produced medical testimony to show that the convicted man was physically unfit to serve time in the workhouse and the court set a period in which he was to report again. Time after time Smith had medical men testify that his health was so impaired that a prison sentence would be dangerous to his life.

Orchestra Practice.

Noon-Day Meeting.

Adjutant J. G. Dean of the Salvation Army, was in charge of the shop meeting at noon today in the Smith-Phillips pottery. He was assisted by members of the organization.

POEMS THAT LIVE

My Luve's Like a Red, Red Rose.

That's newly sprung in June;
O my Luve's like the melodie
That's sweetly played in tune.

As fair art thou, my bonnie lass,
So deep in luve am I,
And I will luve thee still, my dear,
Till a' the seas gang dry:

Till a' the seas gang dry, my dear,
And the rocks melt with the sun;
I will luve thee still, my dear,
While the sands o' life shall run.

And fare thee weel, my only Luve!
And fare thee weel awhile!
And I will come again, my Luve,
Tho' it were ten thousand mile.

VERSE AND WORSE

By Larry Flint

Beautiful Things.

Th' hands thet are fairest ain't pleasin t' see
Unless you hev dropped off t' sleep
A feelin' their grace softly smoothin' yer face
At night when th' deep shadders creep;
Unless yuh hev watched 'em a tiltin' away
For someone both homely an' small.
Ther's gotta be more than th' looks o' them or
Their beauty ain't beauty at all.
The eyes that are purtest never kin gleam
With splendor entrancin' an' true
Unless through th' years you hev seen 'em with tears
Theet fell fer th' troubles o' you;
Unless they hev smiled at a wee form that she
Holds tenderly claspt t' her breast—
Soft, love-lighted eyes; oh, their charm never dies
Fer those are th' eyes thet are best.
Tt' beautiful face—there are wrinkles thet lie
Like furroughs across it; an' oh?—
Its halo a sight thet is silvery white
Because she has sighed fer yuh so—
Her crown o' devotion an' service an' love;
An' no other face kin yuh meet
So tender an' fine an' so near t' divine,
An' oh!—so entrancingly sweet.

The other day I read of the death of a great man. The cause of his death, it is said, was Bright's disease. Dietary discretion, earlier in life, might have given this nation 20 more years of his very valuable service.

Endured Misery of Piles for Years

202 Carolina Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Gentlemen—I was afflicted with the worst case of piles that you can imagine. For years I tried remedy after-remedy without obtaining any lasting benefit, and when the Hamadala Pile Tablets were recommended to me I felt it would be only another useless experiment, but I was willing to take another chance as I had got to where I was in agony about all the time.

After I commenced taking the second box I began to see results, and today I am absolutely cured of my trouble, and have almost forgotten that I ever had the piles. Hamadala Tablets have made a new man of me, and I want to do everything I can to bring them to the attention of those who are suffering as I was.

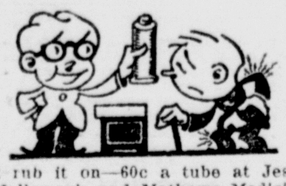

Very truly yours, W. STEDMON.

The Hamadala treatment is an inexpensive internal constitutional treatment for blind, bleeding or protruding piles that comes in tablet form. It is dispensed under refund guarantee by G. G. Anderson, Carnahan's Drug Stores, Jesse D. Holloway, and all good druggists.

MIDLAND MAN IS GIVEN FREEDOM

The case of Thomas Smith of Midland, convicted of keeping a disorderly house and sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution, a fine of $500 and serve six months in the Allegheny county workhouse, came to an end yesterday when Judge Frank E. Reader at Beaver in an opinion stated that if Smith would pay the fine imposed by the court within 15 days the prison sentence would be withdrawn.

After the trial and subsequent sentence Smith's attorney produced medical testimony to show that the convicted man was physically unfit to serve time in the workhouse and the court set a period in which he was to report again. Time after time Smith had medical men testify that his health was so impaired that a prison sentence would be dangerous to his life.

Orchestra Practice.

Noon-Day Meeting.

Adjutant J. G. Dean of the Salvation Army, was in charge of the shop meeting at noon today in the Smith-Phillips pottery. He was assisted by members of the organization.

POEMS THAT LIVE

My Luve's Like a Red, Red Rose.

That's newly sprung in June;
O my Luve's like the melodie
That's sweetly played in tune.

As fair art thou, my bonnie lass,
So deep in luve am I,
And I will luve thee still, my dear,
Till a' the seas gang dry:

Till a' the seas gang dry, my dear,
And the rocks melt with the sun;
I will luve thee still, my dear,
While the sands o' life shall run.

And fare thee weel, my only Luve!
And fare thee weel awhile!
And I will come again, my Luve,
Tho' it were ten thousand mile.

—Burns.

By Larry Flint

Beautiful Things.

Th' hands thet are fairest ain't pleasin t' see
Unless you hev dropped off t' sleep
A feelin' their grace softly smoothin' yer face
At night when th' deep shadders creep;
Unless yuh hev watched 'em a tillin' away
For someone both homely an' small.
Ther's gotta be more than th' looks o' them or
Their beauty ain't beauty at all.
The eyes that are purtest never kin gleam
With splendor entrancin' an' true
Unless through th' years you hev seen 'em with tears
Theet fell fer th' troubles o' you;
Unless they hev smiled at a wee form that she
Holds tenderly claspt t' her breast—
Soft, love-lighted eyes; oh, their charm never dies
Fer those are th' eyes thet are best.
Tt' beautiful face—there are wrinkles thet lie
Like furroughs across it; an' oh?—
Its halo a sight thet is silvery white
Because she has sighed fer yuh so—
Her crown o' devotion an' service an' love;
An' no other face kin yuh meet
So tender an' fine an' so near t' divine,
An' oh!—so entrancingly sweet.

The other day I read of the death of a great man. The cause of his death, it is said, was Bright's disease. Dietary discretion, earlier in life, might have given this nation 20 more years of his very valuable service.

Endured Misery of Piles for Years

202 Carolina Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Gentlemen—I was afflicted with the worst case of piles that you can imagine. For years I tried remedy after-remedy without obtaining any lasting benefit, and when the Hamadala Pile Tablets were recommended to me I felt it would be only another useless experiment, but I was willing to take another chance as I had got to where I was in agony about all the time.

After I commenced taking the second box I began to see results, and today I am absolutely cured of my trouble, and have almost forgotten that I ever had the piles. Hamadala Tablets have made a new man of me, and I want to do everything I can to bring them to the attention of those who are suffering as I was.

Very truly yours, W. STEDMON.

The Hamadala treatment is an inexpensive internal constitutional treatment for blind, bleeding or protruding piles that comes in tablet form. It is dispensed under refund guarantee by G. G. Anderson, Carnahan's Drug Stores, Jesse D. Holloway, and all good druggists.

SOAKS RIGHT IN AND LIMBERS UP STIFF JOINTS

Just rub it on—60c a tube at Jesse D. Holloway's and Mathews Medicine Store, or any druggist anywhere. Ask for Joint Ease.
